The Publishers' Weekly.

In calling attention to the publications from the office of the Publishers' Weekly, the proprietor would state that its function is confined solely to the publishing of trade helps for the book, stationery, and kindred interests. The most important of these is the Publishers' Weekly itself, which is furnished at the subscription price of $3.20 per year, postage prepaid, to American subscribers, and to foreign countries at the rate of $3, plus the respective postage. The Weekly, it is estimated, reaches about nine tenths of the book business done in the United States, which is also the greater part of the stationery interest, and it circulates also to considerable extent among libraries, bookbuyers, authors, and others indirectly related to the trade. The Publishers' Weekly is the only journal in its specialty, published independently of individual houses or interests, and is generally recognized by the trade as its leading exponent. Its work covers two departments, bibliographical and editorial. The imperfection of trade bibliography as a system in this country has not yet permitted the completeness in the former department which it is hoped ultimately to accomplish; but by its weekly alphabetical list of new books, with full titles; its corresponding order list with short titles, arranged by publishers; its monthly alphabetical list published in the first number of each month; its frequent lists of new and important publications in England; its monthly index to specialties advertised, and its occasional special bibliographies, as much bibliographical information as can be gathered is put before the trade in the most practicable shape. The editorial departments include both the news of the trade, which is gathered through special channels, and editorial and communicated discussions of trade matters. The news includes a department called "Notes in Season," in which the items of great present importance to the trade are grouped. There are other departments, covering general "Literary and Trade Notes," mentioning the more important matters in other countries; "Business Notes," giving business changes, etc.; "Library and Bibliographical Notes," "Journalistic Notes," "Notes and Queries," etc. The Stationery Department makes a specialty of this branch of the trade, which is in distribution so closely associated with that in books. In its editorial discussions the Weekly has maintained always a very frank and outspoken attitude toward its trade, and it is generally conceded that its influence has been considerable in educating the trade to the highest and best methods of work. Communications appear in it frequently from all shades of opinion, and these are presented fully and fairly.

The advertising pages of the Weekly are, themselves, of great value, as representing the current American publications. The Weekly is the acknowledged medium of communication with the trade, and as such, its advertising pages are generally sought and preserved for their information. The price of advertising is $20 per page.

SPECIAL NUMBERS.

In connection with the regular issue of the Publishers' Weekly, special numbers are issued at appropriate seasons of the year. Of these the most important is the annual American Educational Catalogue, issued in July, previous to the opening of the fall school-book campaign, in which is given a full list of educational works published in this country, with the publishers designated by a key put into the hands of booksellers alone. This is also circulated largely by booksellers among their customers and directly among the schools, so as to extend the orders for school-books through the local dealers. The Christmas Number is printed with an illuminated cover, and profusely illustrated from books of the season. This has been pronounced by European trade journals the handsomest trade publication issued in any country. It is also extensively used by booksellers for circulation with imprint. This year there has been published a Centennial Exhibition Number, of about 120 pages, giving many views and maps in connection with the Exhibition, and a full review of all the book, stationery, and kindred exhibits on the grounds. The Official Report of the Convention of the American Book Trade Association is also made the material for a special number.

THE LITERARY NEWS.

The LITERARY NEWS is a monthly journal of from eight to sixteen pages, published for distribution by booksellers among their customers, and the imprint of each bookseller is put at the head of the edition he orders. This includes literary information, a classified list of books published during the month, and some advertisements, usually also an illustration. The terms for an edition are made a little above the actual cost of paper and printing, so that the bookseller can afford to circulate this little journal, which appears virtually as his own publication, quite widely.

THE TRADE-LIST ANNUAL.

Four years ago, the PUBLISHERS' TRADE-LIST ANNUAL was originated by the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, on a plan which has met with much favor by the trade, and has since been adopted by Mr. Whittaker, in England. This binds together, in one huge volume, octavo, the trade-lists of all the leading American publishers. This has sometimes been called the Booksellers' Bible, and is used for constant reference in all the bookstores of the country. The catalogues are arranged alphabetically, so that any one can be turned to at once; and an index to specialties prefaces them. The volume for 1875 contained an alphabetical short title index to all the leading works represented in the volume of that year, but this feature is done away with this year by the proposed publication of the American Catalogue. The PUBLISHERS' TRADE-LIST ANNUAL was preceded by several annual catalogues of American books, for the respective preceding years. The price of the ANNUAL is usually $1, if subscribed for before publication.

THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE.

The great undertaking of the office has been, however, the AMERICAN CATALOGUE, which is to include, in two volumes, a list of all American books and English books of American imprint, published and for sale, at the date of July, 1876. The first volume includes full title entry by author, and also by title in the case of books known chiefly in that way. The second volume will be a subject classification by short title, on the dictionary plan. About thirty-five thousand volumes have already been catalogued for this work, and the total number of entries, aside from cross references, which will be many, is likely to reach twice, and may approximate to three times this number. This, it is thought, will prove invaluable to any one who has to deal with books, and subscriptions for it are sought from all classes, as the expense will be enormous. The subscription price is put at $25 for the two volumes, payable $5 on subscription, and $10 on delivery of each of the volumes. It is hoped to publish the first volume before the close of the Centennial year. These two volumes, with the PUBLISHERS' TRADE-LIST ANNUAL for 1876, will make an approximately complete view of American publishing this year, by the aid of which a book can be found either by author, title, subject, or publisher. The Catalogue will be published on a careful system of trade bibliography, and will be followed, in future years, by annual catalogues on the same system. It is hoped to revise the general catalogue, or to issue combination volumes every five or ten years succeeding.

THE STATIONERS' HAND-BOOK.

A work corresponding, in the stationery trade, to the PUBLISHERS' TRADE-LIST ANNUAL in regard to books, has recently been started under the title of the STATIONERS' HAND-BOOK. This groups the catalogues of manufacturing stationers; but its most important feature is the series of valuable articles on all the details of the stationery trade, written by experts in each specialty. It is indispensable to the stationer, but it is also of great convenience to all those who seek information on paper, printing, stationery, etc. The price of this work is $1.50, in cloth.

THE LIBRARY JOURNAL.

The PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY has always endeavored to give some share of attention to the important library interest. It has lately, however, been decided to publish from this office a separate American Library Journal, which will be commenced in the fall, under the managing editorship of Mr. Melvil Dewey, of Amherst College Library, and with the most prominent librarians, including Mr. Winsor, of the Boston Public Library, Mr. Cutter, of the Boston Athenæum, Mr. Guild, of Providence, Mr. Spofford, of the Library of Congress, Gen. Eaton, of the National Bureau of Education, Mr. Poole, of the Chicago Public Library, and others, as consulting editors. The price of the JOURNAL will be $5 per year, and a liberal support is asked for the experiment from foreign as well as from American library interests.

PREFATORY NOTICE,

THE ANNUAL is ready for the season nearly three months earlier than usual, but the volume in bulk shows that a number of publishers were not ready for the ANNUAL. We have endeavored to suit the majority, as it seems impossible to hit on a date that would suit all. Many publishers of miscellaneous books still insist on a later date, that they may add their fall announcements, while others, including the educational publishers as a class, in common with the retail and jobbing trade, seem to favor an early issue. We hope to make a compromise the next time. It is certain that four weeks later many more lists would have been received; and had we not been committed to finish our work this month, we should have been disposed to wait, for two special reasons. We have heard of many instances where the hesitation of issuing an early list was caused by the apprehension of a general reduction of retail prices, and of other instances where the lists were refused because not sufficient time was given to prepare new lists in accordance with the practical suggestions laid down in the late discussion of the trade-list question. These causes removed, the successor to the present volume, whether issued in 1877 or 1878, would promise a material improvement over all its predecessors. It will be noticed that, in spite of the short time given, already this volume shows a more general adoption of indexes to their own lists on the part of the larger firms. Another improvement is noticeable in the more general compliance with our request for using the same quality of paper, giving the volume a more uniform appearance, and, by the thinness of the paper, a more compact shape.

As the AMERICAN CATALOGUE is soon to furnish a complete general index in place of the imperfect one presented last year, that feature has been replaced by others which in other ways will aid booksellers in studying up their interests and furthering the sale of books. These features are:

1. Additional reference, in the Alphabetical List of Contributors, to those firms which, though not represented in the present ANNUAL, have contributed their lists to former Annuals, thus making the whole series available.

2. A classified index of all the publishing firms who have contributed to the Annuals for 1873 to 1876. This index is specially valuable to those who wish to lay in special lines, or who wish to guide their customers in the perusal of catalogues of special interest to themselves.

3. A reprint of the valuable chapter "Books on Special Subjects: How to find them," from the admirable little "Handbook for Readers," issued by that great public benefactor, the Boston Public Library. This chapter guides to the most useful bibliographical works of reference in all departments of literature.

4. A Publishers' Directory, including all the publishing firms on record in the American Catalogue Office. The special purpose of this directory, though generally useful, is explained in the introductory appeal to the trade, which it is hoped will meet with a cordial and active response.

5. A detailed description, with maps and views, of the American and foreign Book and Stationery Exhibits at the Centennial Exhibition.

Whether the ANNUAL is to appear regularly—that is, whether the work is to remain an annual—depends entirely on the co-operation of the booksellers and jobbers. Publishers who are not bothered by the daily inquiries of private book-buyers, and who are never called upon to answer the thousand questions regarding books of a hundred and more publishers, can not be brought to perceive the real use of collective catalogues and trade-lists. This lack of sympathy with general trade interests, which makes many publishers blind to their own, has been our chronic difficulty since the beginning of our efforts, and is the sole cause why American books have still bibliographically the most imperfect record. If booksellers find the ANNUAL a paying tool and wish to make it more profitable every year, then they must work with us. Their word, as buyers, has more force than pages of our arguments.

The AMERICAN CATALOGUE itself can not replace the use of publishers' trade-lists. The AMERICAN CATALOGUE is chiefly a finding list, while the publishers' list is the chief order-list. So long as the bookseller in his daily routine can not dispense with the latter, so long the usefulness of the ANNUAL is manifest. According to our intent, the ANNUAL should form a supplementary companion to the AMERICAN CATALOGUE, which is a general digest and index to the catalogue of individual publishers, while the ANNUAL gives these individual catalogues themselves. With this set there is no way in which a current book can be mentioned, by author, title, subject, or publisher, without the bookbuyer or bookseller being able to turn to it at once. If such a set of tools is worth any thing to the bookseller, it is certainly worth a letter from him to the reluctant publisher.

GUIDES TO WORKS OF REFERENCE.

BOOKS ON SPECIAL SUBJECTS.

HOW TO FIND THEM, ETC.

Extract from the "Handbook for Readers," published by the Boston Public Library.

I. GENERAL DIRECTIONS.

THESE notes are not intended for the professed student, but for the general reader. The books to be mentioned are but an insignificant proportion of the twenty thousand volumes which may be said to constitute a thoroughly-appointed bibliographical collection.

An examination of the Library's catalogues, both under authors and subjects, will often perplex the user through the multitude of titles, leaving him at a loss to determine the best book for his purpose.

Proper bibliographies have usually some signs of discrimination placed against titles, with more or less qualification in the way of notes; but such addenda are not commonly held to be practicable in mere catalogues, and the presence or absence of such helps makes a chief distinction between the two.

To use a library satisfactorily, therefore, it is necessary to have some, if not a large, knowledge of these bibliographical helps.

The most accessible books for the ordinary reader, are:

1. ALONZO POTTER. Handbook for Students and Readers.
2. J. PYCROFT. Course of English Reading. Edited by J. A. Spencer.
3. NOAH PORTER. Books and Reading.
4. CHARLES H. MOORE What to Read, and How to Read.
5. GEORGE P. PUTNAM and FREDERIC B. PERKINS. The best Reading.
6. FREE PUBLIC LIBRARIES. Suggestions on foundation, etc., with selected list of books.
7. G. A. F. VAN RHYN. What and How to Read.
8. ILLINOIS SCHOOL REPORT, 1873–74, contains a classified list of books for school libraries.

These books are all American except No. 2; but No. 5 is on the whole the most satisfactory. They indicate choices in the commoner kinds of books. Numbers 1, 2, and 3 prescribe courses of reading; and so does No. 5 in a subsidiary way. Nos. 2 and 3 are valuable as to modes of reading. The selection of books in No. 1 is somewhat obsolete; and in No. 6 it is meagre; and in No. 7 it is intended to be confined to recent books in English.

Within the range of history (in a broad sense), biography and travels, the notes which are appended to the subject references in the new Lower Hall Class List* of that scope are intended to aid the reader in the same way. Similar notes, and of some subjects more extensive surveys are given in the Quarterly Bulletins of the [Boston Public] Library.

A very excellent selection for working purposes, of over twenty thousand volumes of the best books in every department of learning, is the "List of Books of Reference in the Reading Room of the British Museum," second edition, revised, 1871. It has a useful index of subjects.

It is often a prompt and satisfactory way of discovering the best books on particular persons or subjects, to consult the articles on such heads in various general or special Cyclopædias.

Particularly, as regards BIOGRAPHY, there is appended to L. B. Phillips's "Dictionary of Biographical Reference" a very good list of Biographical Dictionaries, arranged under heads of 1st, general; 2d, those devoted to particular countries; and 3d, those devoted to particular classes of persons; while in connection with each name in the body of this Dictionary there are brief indications of fuller sources of information. E. M. Oettinger's "Bibliographie Biographique," Brussels, 1854, can also be consulted to find a copious list of persons whose lives have been written, often by numerous authors; and also lists of general, national and special biographical collections. For American and British writers, consult Allibone's "Dictionary of Authors." Other authorities will occasionally be indicated in works of lesser scope, like Chambers's "Cyclopædia of English Literature," Duyckinck's "Cyclopædia of American Literature;" and the literary histories of Hallam Craik and others.

But the proper biographical dictionaries will often answer every purpose, and more especially regarding persons who are not writers. In Thomas's excellent "Dictionary of Biography and Mythology," frequent references to works and review articles are given in notes; and the same kind of help, to a less extent, will be gained from Hole and Wheeler's "Brief Biographical Dictionary." In American Biography there is Allen, and a recent work by F. S. Drake, which is the best index to living Americans. Martin's "Dictionary of Contemporary Biography" may also be mentioned. For American Clergymen (down to the date of publication) there is Sprague's "Annals of the American Pulpit."

The French work of Vapereau, "Dictionnaire des Contemporains," surpasses all books of this kind. And as regards the more general biographical dictionaries, the best in English, like the "Imperial Dictionary of Biography," the Biographical Department of the English Cyclopædia, and that by Rose, are inferior to Michaud's "Biographie Universelle" and to Hoefer's "Nouvelle Biographie Générale," which last is particularly rich in references to sources. Volume IX. of the Catalogue of the National Library at Paris is devoted to the biographies of Frenchmen.

Similar methods of research will serve in other subjects than biography.

The principal general encyclopædias to be consulted are:

Appleton's New American cyclopædia, new edition, as far as issued, which is superseding the old edition with its annual supplements.

Brande and Cox's Dictionary of science, literature and art.

* The most useful work of reference for the bookseller as well as the general reader. Every salesman should have it and recommend it to book-buyers. The list gives under every important subject not only the titles of the most prominent and popular works, but also most valuable notes indicating their special merit and characteristic features.—ED. T. L. A.

Chambers's Encyclopædia.
English cyclopædia, based on the old Penny cyclopædia, divided into four grand divisions.
Encyclopædia Britannica. A new edition is begun.
Encyclopædia metropolitana, 1845. Somewhat antiquated.
Maunder's Treasury series, a good condensed reference book, by classes.
Larousse's Grand dictionnaire universel du XIXe siècle, as far as completed.
Brockhaus's "Conversations-Lexikon."
Pierer's "Universal-Lexikon."
Townsend's Manual of dates.
Haydn's Dictionary of dates.

Reviews and other periodicals contain much useful material; and Poole's "Index to Periodical Literature" is a convenient key to many of them published before 1852. See also Low's "Index to Current Literature," 1860–61, and the Royal Society's Catalogue of Scientific papers, 1800–63, arranged by authors.*

On obscure and mooted points it will always be well to refer to the indexes of "Notes and Queries," and of "L'Intermédiaire des Chercheurs."

Many matters in all departments of knowledge are treated of in the public documents of the United States, and in the British Blue Books, and a full index to them will be found in the Bates Hall Catalogues, under the headings "United States" and "Great Britain." See also Index to Executive Documents and Reports of the House of Representatives, 1831–39; McPherson's Indexes to "Executive Documents of the House of Representatives," 1839–69; Index to Documents of the House of Representatives, 18th–21st Congress, and to "Reports of Committees of the House of Representatives," 1839–69.

Catalogues of other libraries will also be of use; and those that are made on some systematic division of knowledge will be of assistance as supplementing the plan of the catalogues of this library, as, for instance, the "Subject-Catalogue" of the Library of Congress, which is arranged by classes and their subdivisions; the index of subjects in the Astor Library Catalogue. See the new catalogue, not yet finished, of the Boston Athenæum, particularly under the head of Bibliography. The whole subject of classed catalogues is not without difficulties, as may be apprehended, when it is known that over a hundred different systems have been proposed for classifying all knowledge.

The extent of the science of Bibliography will appear to the general reader from that thorough specimen of German erudition, the "Bibliotheca Bibliographica," which the librarian of the Royal Library at Dresden, Dr. Julius Petzholdt, issued in 1866. It contains titles of bibliographical works in all languages, under the several heads of, 1st, General Literature; 2d, Anonymous and Pseudonymous Books; 3d, Incunabula, or early printed books; 4th, Works Prohibited by Censors; 5th, Works on or by Particular Persons; 6th, Collections of Engraved Portraits; 7th, National Literatures; 8th, Classed Literatures.

Similar but far less extensive lists are given in R. A. Guild's "Librarian's Manual," New York, 1858.

Thomas Nichols's "Handbook for Readers at the British Museum," London, 1866, contains a classed list of special bibliographies on different subjects.

There is a good article on the Science of Bibliography in the ninth edition of the Encyclopædia Britannica, Vol. III.

II. GENERAL BIBLIOGRAPHIES.

The most useful is Brunet's "Manuel du Libraire," 5th ed., Paris, 1860–5, which is both alphabetical by authors and classified by subjects. A German work, not of great value, based on an early edition of Brunet, and now out of date, is known in English as Ebert's "General Bibliographical Dictionary," Oxford, 1837. Another, more copious than Brunet, and like that written in French, is J. G. T. Graesse's "Trésor de Livres Rares et Précieux," which has not, however, any arrangement by subjects. The works of Panzer and Hain, in particular, will often furnish items not to be found in Brunet or Graesse.

III. NATIONAL BIBLIOGRAPHIES.

A selection only. Consult also the literary histories given, under the names of Countries, in the Bates Hall Catalogues, and in the Class List for History, etc.

America.—Of books relating to America, there are the bibliographies of Ternaux-Compans, down to 1700; Obadiah Rich; Henry Stevens; the Carter-Brown Catalogue; and Harrisse, 1492 to 1551, and New France, 1545–1700. J. Sabin, of New York, is now issuing a very extensive "Dictionary of Books relating to America," arranged alphabetically by authors' names, and now (February, 1876) published nearly through G. Tuckerman's "America and her Commentators" gives an account of travels in America. Booksellers, like Clarke, of Cincinnati; Müller, of Amsterdam; J. R. Smith, of London, and others, have printed Lists.

Of books published in America previously to this century there is no adequate record, but a very full list of publications previous to 1776 is annexed to the new edition of Thomas's "History of Printing." Trübner's "Bibliographical Guide to American Literature" covers a little more than the first half of this century, and contains a classified list. See also Trübner's American and Oriental Literary Record.

Since 1820, there is a record of American publications in Roorbach's "Bibliotheca Americana," coming down through 1860; and it has been continued by Kelly in his "American Catalogue," and by Leypoldt in the "Annual Catalogue," through 1872, and "Uniform Trade-List Annual, 1874 and 1875." Rowell publishes annually a Directory to American Newspapers.

Of Special American Bibliographies, the following may be named: Ludewig's "Literature of Local American History" and "Literature of American Aboriginal Languages;" Colburn's "Bibliography of the Local History of Massachusetts;" Williams's "Bibliography of Minnesota;" Whitmore's "Handbook of American Genealogy;" Field's Essay towards an Indian Bibliography;" "Lincoln Bibliography," by Boyd & Hart; Bartlett's "Literature of the Rebellion," covering over 6000 titles, and his "Bibliography of Rhode Islnnd." The American part of the Prince Library Catalogue has a special value as regards the early history of New England. Several of the States are represented in special bibliographies, of which mention will be found under the names of such States in the Bates Hall Catalogues, and in the Class List for History, etc.

Great Britain.—The principal assistance under subjects will be derived from Watt's "Bibliotheca Britannica," which, however, does not bring the record down later than 1820. It is partly arranged by authors, as Lowndes's "Bibliographer's Manual," published in 1834, is wholly; but a new edition of the latter by Bohn, begun in 1858, is much enlarged in the latter part of the alphabet.

For an alphabetical list of authors in the English language, with biographical and bibliographical details, Allibone will be of great though unequal service. As far as the letter O the record generally closes about 1858, and is much less complete than in the latter part of the alphabet, where the record comes down to 1870. The classing of writers in the indexes is not adapted to facilitate reference. An index to matters in the body of the articles is much needed.

Consult also J. P. Collier's "Bibliographical and Critical Account of the Rarest Books in the English Language," and W. C. Hazlitt's "Handbook to the Popular, Poetical, and Dramatic Literature of Great Britain," to the Restoration.

* Here follows a table showing the principal periodicals of the Library that have general or comprehensive indexes, covering a number of years.—Ed. T. L. A.

The comprehensive lists, covering different periods from 1800, down, known as the "London Catalogue," the "English Catalogue," and the "British Catalogue," and of which other similar publications carry back the record to about 1750, are alphabetical by authors; while the "Bibliotheca Londinensis," 1814–1846, and Low's "Index to the British Catalogue," 1837–1857, are classed lists. There are yearly volumes published of the London and English Catalogues. See also Whitaker's "Reference Catalogue of Current Literature," 1874 and 1875. There are several directories to British Periodicals, as Longman's, May's, Mitchell's, etc.

FRANCE.—Quérard's various bibliographies are the best—"La France Littéraire" and "La Littérature française Contemporaine," which, with Lorenz's Continuation, "Catalogue General," 1840–1875, make a record covering the years 1700–1875. The Catalogue of the National Library at Paris gives full lists of books on French History.

GERMANY.—The German bibliographies are generally without notes. That of Heinsius, "Allgemeines Bücher-Lexikon," covers publications from 1700 down, and is inconvenient for use because of its many supplements; and so is Kayser's "Vollständiges Bücher-Lexicon," from 1750; but the latter has the advantage of a classified index from 1750 to 1832. There are also classed catalogues by Engelmann, and by Ersch, a trade-list, very condensed, by Hoppe; and Haan's Sächsisches Schriftsteller-Lexicon.

ITALY.—"Bibliografia italiana."

SPAIN.—Antonio's "Bibliotheca Hispana;" Hidalgo's "Diccionario general de bibliografía española;" Gallardo's "Biblioteca española," and P. Salvá's "Catálogo."

PORTUGAL.—Barbosa's "Bibliotheca Lusitana" and Silva's "Diccionario Bibliographico Portugues."

RUSSIA.—Ghennady, "Les écrivains franco-russes," 1874.

JEWISH.—Fuerst's "Bibliotheca Judaica" and the "Catalogue of Hebrew books in the British Museum." See also Bartolecci's "Bibliotheca Rabbinica magna," passim, for many items.

ORIENTAL.—Zenker's "Bibliotheca Orientalis" and Trübner's "American and Oriental Literary Record."

IV. BIBLIOGRAPHICAL PERIODICALS.

For current works in English, consult Leypoldt's "Publishers' Weekly," which has taken the place of the old "Publishers' Circular." The London "Bookseller" and "Publishers' Circular" are similar records for Great Britain. For publications in French, there are the monthly issues of Bossange and Reinwald, in Paris, and of Christern, in New York. The "Polybiblion, Revue Bibliographique Universelle" has been published since 1866. The "Bibliographie de la France" has a yearly index of authors and subjects. For those in German, there are the lists of Christern, Westermann, and Steiger, in New York. The "Allgemeine Bibliographie," published monthly, by Brockhaus, of Leipsic, is a classed Catalogue of the most important European and American publications, and is circulated in the United States with the imprints of the principal importers of Continental books.

Other useful publications as records of current bibliographical issues are Petzholdt's "Neuer Anzeiger," which has been continued since 1840, with useful classified indexes, and the "Serapeum," now discontinued, also running back to 1840, and published twice a month at Leipsic.

V. SPECIAL BIBLIOGRAPHIES.

Only a Selection. See further under particular subjects in the Bates Hall Catalogues, in the notes in the Class List for History, and under the head "Bibliography," in the Subject-Catalogue of the Library of Congress. Consult also "A concise Classified List of the Most Important Works on Bibliography" in the Astor Library, 1849; and Mr. Leypoldt's list in the "Weekly Trade Circular," new series, Vol. II., No. 17. There is also a list of Bibliographies in Power's "Handy books about books," which list has been enlarged in Sabin's American Bibliopolist for 1875.

AGRICULTURE.—Lists in Loudon's Encyclopædias. [See B. H. Index], and in McCulloch's Dictionaries, and in Lacroix's Bibliographie des agriculteurs.

ANGLING.—R. Blakey, 1855; T. Westwood, 1861.

ANONYMOUS AND PSEUDONYMOUS.—Barbier, 1823, etc., now included in Quérard, 1869, etc. See also Ralph Thomas (Olphar Hamst); Manne, 1868; Heilly, 1868.

ARCHITECTURE.—See Fine Arts. Also Gwilt's "Encyclopædia," 1854, classified, Lacroix. On mediæval architecture by Ramée in Chapuy's Moyen age monumental. See the full note in Bulletin 35.

COSTUME.—See note in Bulletin No. 33, p. 348.

DOMESTIC AND RURAL ECONOMY.—Engelmann.

DRAMA.—Baker's "Biographia Dramatica," 1812, authors and plays; Halliwell, before 1700. For more modern popular plays consult the article "Drama," in the Lower Hall Class List for Poetry and the Drama, which has cross-references under authors and plays; also the heading "Drama," in the "Subject-Catalogue" of the Library of Congress; the Catalogue of Burton's library, and list in Catalogue of the San Francisco Merc. Library.

"Bibliothèque Dramatique de Monsieur de Soleinne." Paris, 1843, and continuation to 1861, with a previous continuation to 1846.

Fernbach, "Der Theaterfreund," Berlin, 1860, and Heinsius, vol. 4, pp. 245–376, and vol. 5, pp. 55–70. Buechting comes down to 1869. A list of operas published down to 1870 is found in Clément and Larousse's "Dictionnaire Lyrique."

Barrera's Catalogo contains a full and accurate list of the Spanish drama.

EDUCATION.—Walter Low's "Classified Catalogue of [British] Educational Works," 1871; and the annual American Educational Catalogue of the Publishers' Weekly; also a list of text-books issued by Lippincott & Co., of Philadelphia.

ENGRAVING.—G. Duplessis, 1862. See also the note in Bulletin No. 30, p. 267.

ENTOMOLOGY. See Science. Also, H. A. Hagen, 1862.

FICTION.—See the "Class List for Fiction in the Lower Hall," and the article "Fiction" in the Library of Congress "Subject-Catalogue," which is arranged by subdivisions, according to authors, titles, and languages. See also "The Chronological Index to Historical Fiction," issued by this Library. Also, the New York Mercantile Library Association's "Catalogue of Novels, Plays," etc., 1861; the San Francisco Mercantile Library's Catalogue of Fiction; and vol. 4, pp. 5–238, and vol. 5, pp. 5–44, of Heinsius.

FINE ARTS. See Architecture, Engraving, Music. Also, J. Elmes, 1826, J. Goddé, 1850, R. Weigel; and Vinet, intended to supplement Brunet.

The authorities of the South Kensington Museum have issued a "Universal Catalogue of Books on Art," taking the term in a wide sense, but excluding music, covering about 67,000 works published previously to 1870. It is alphabetical by authors.

GENEALOGY.—Whitmore's "American Genealogist" and Durrie's "Bibliographia Genealogica."

GEOGRAPHY. See Maps. Also, Engelmann, and the Catalogue of the Royal Geographical Society, 1871, Müldener, and Dictionnaire de Géographie, 1865–70.

GEOLOGY. See Science. Also, Agassiz.

GEOMETRY. See Mathematics.

GOVERNMENT.—R. von Mohl, 1855–6.

HISTORY.—Struve, 1782–1804, and Brunet, under "Histoire." See also Catalogues of dealers, like Stevens. For use of historical material in Fiction see the "Chronological Index to Historical Fiction," issued by this Library.

INDIANS.—Field, H. H. Bancroft.

LANGUAGE.—Engelmann, Vater.

LAW.—Brunet under "Jurisprudence," the "Subject-Catalogue" of the Library of Congress, under "Law," for a very extensive list; also, the Catalogue of the Boston

Social Law Library, Engelmann, Enslin. For diplomatic law, Martens, 1851.

MAPS. See Geography. Also H. Stevens's Catalogue of American Maps, in the British Museum, and "A Catalogue of Maps and Charts in the Library of Harvard University," 1831.

MATHEMATICS. See Science.—Murhard, 1797–1805, Sohncke, 1854. For Arithmetic, De Morgan, 1847, Poggendorff, 1863.

MEDICINE.—Callisen, 1830–45, Forbes, 1835, Baldamus and Haupt, 1866–70, for Germany; Pennsylvania Hospital Library Catalogue, 1857, Engelmann; Catalogue of the Surgeon General's Office Library.

MILITARY SCIENCE.—Rumpf, 1824, Hoyer, 1832–40, M. d'Ayala, 1854, "Catalogue de la Bibliothèque du dépôt de la Guerre," Paris, 1861.

MUSIC.—Buechting, 1817–71, in Germany, Ferkel, 1792, Fétis, Lichtenthal, 1826, Becker, 1839. See the note under Music in the Class List for History, and the much fuller article in Bulletin No. 36.

NATURAL HISTORY.—See Botany, Entomology, Geology, Zoölogy. Also, Dryander, Engelmann.

ORNAMENT. See note in Bulletin No. 34.

PAINTING. See note p. 207 of the Catalogue of History, Biography, and Travel.

[PATENTS. See "Handbook for Readers," pages 33–43, treating of works of reference on patents, copyright, etc.—ED. T. L. A.]

PERIODICALS. See this heading in Bates Hall Catalogues, and the "List of periodicals currently received in the Reading-Room." Annual lists of current foreign periodicals are published. May's "London Press Directory" gives its lists in various classifications. See Rowell's "Newspaper Directory for the United States," issued yearly, and Steiger's "Periodical Literature of the United States," 1873. An index to the London Times is regularly published. See the note on "Newspapers" in Bulletin No. 35.

PHILOSOPHY.—Geissler, 1850.

PHOTOGRAPHY.—Zuchold, 1860.

POLITICAL ECONOMY.—McCullock, 1845, Blanqui, 1845.

PREHISTORIC ARCHÆOLOGY. See the note in Bulletin No. 32, page 298.

PSEUDONYMOUS WORKS. See Anonymous, etc.

RAILROADS. See List in Larousse.

SCIENCE. See Special Heads.—Brunet, under heading of "Sciences et Arts," Lacroix to 1864. See references under subjects in such works as the Iconographic Encyclopædia, Brande's Manual, Ure's Dictionary, Watt's Dictionary of Chemistry, Royal Society's Catalogue of Scientific Papers, 1800–1863, in five volumes, arranged by authors.

SHAKESPEARE.—Bohn's Lowndes, also published separately with additions; but there are some additions to that part of the article which is in the English language, in the article on Shakespeare in Allibone; and the German bibliography by Thimm, which has the most foreign titles, brings the lists down to 1871. The Catalogue of the "Shakespeare Memorial Library," at Birmingham, will be of importance when completed. Cohn publishes annually in the Shakespeare Jahrbuch a Shakespearian bibliography for the year, comprising magazine articles as well as books. The slip catalogue of the Barton Library and the MS. catalogue of his Shakespearian collection made by Mr. Barton can be consulted.

TECHNOLOGY.—Lacroix, 1857–64; Bibliotheca, etc.; Kerl, 1854–68, which is a continuation of Schubarth's Repertorium.

THEOLOGY.—Brunet, under heading "Théologie," Clarke, through eighteenth century, Darling, 1854–9. Enslin, 1823, Winer, 1842, Library of Congress "Subject-Catalogue," under "Theology," Zuchold, 1864.

See H. Malcom's much-criticised "Index to Religious Literature," and references under separate heads in Smith's "Bible Dictionary," edited by Hackett and Abbot, McClintock and Strong's Cyclopædia, Kitto's "Cyclopædia of Biblical Literature."

Abbot's "Literature of the Doctrine of a Future Life," is probably the most elaborate and exhaustive specimen of Special Bibliography by an American; and its preface may be consulted for the titles of such bibliographical treatises as Professor Abbot found of use to him ten years ago. See also O'Callaghan's "Editions of the Holy Scriptures printed in America," 1861, and Decanver's [Cavender's] "Catalogue of works in refutation of Methodism."

For the literature relating to Christ, a very thorough bibliography is given in the 4th edition of Hase's "Leben Jesu," but there is a list of sufficient fulness for the ordinary reader in Clarke's translation of Hase. Convenient reference can be had to the authorities given in "Smith's Bible Dictionary," and "Kitto's Biblical Encyclopædia," under "Jesus Christ."

VOYAGES.—Boucher de la Richarderie, 1808, is arranged chronologically under countries; also, O. Rich, 1835–46.

WAR.—Baldamus, 1865–71.

WORKS ISSUED BY PRINTING CLUBS.—Bohn's Lowndes' appendix volume, Low's English Catalogue, 1835–62, appendix.

WORKS PRIVATELY PRINTED.—Bohn's Lowndes' appendix volume, Martin, 1854.

WORKS LOST, OR IN UNIQUE COPIES.—Quérard, 1872.

ZOÖLOGY. See Science.—Agassiz, Carus; for periodical articles issued 1846–60, Swainson, 1840, Günther, 1870.

THE PUBLISHERS' DIRECTORY.

APPEAL TO THE AMERICAN BOOK TRADE.

THE following list comprises all the firms on record in the AMERICAN CATALOGUE office, as known or supposed to publish books offered for sale. The original compilation, made up from all sources that could be reached, with the conjectural additions made from time to time, amounted to nearly double this number, but by dint of persistent correspondence, the elimination of those who were merely newspaper publishers, printers, etc., or who had dropped out from business, or who were entered in trade directories and reference-books by mistake, reduced the list to its present proportions. The immediate purpose of the present publication is to enable the book trade to aid in rectifying and completing the directory, and particularly to request their personal influence with those publishers who have not yet taken any notice of our direct applications. The list being arranged by localities, residents of each city or town can readily discover the local deficiencies and afford us effective co-operation at little trouble to themselves. As not only subscribers, but every bookseller and book-buyer must be interested in the comparative completeness of the AMERICAN CATALOGUE, it is to be hoped that all will cheerfully comply with our urgent request. Any information that can be given should be addressed without delay to L. E. JONES, Manager of AMERICAN CATALOGUE, 37 Park Row (P. O box 4295), New York.

EXPLANATIONS.

The body of the trade, including, with few exceptions, all the generally known publishers, have responded more or less fully to our circulars. These firms are given without sign.

(*) Those whose names are followed by an asterisk are known to be publishers, but have failed to respond to our circular; the influence of the trade with these is particularly requested.

(?) Those firms whose names are followed by an interrogation-mark, are not positively known to us as publishers, and have not responded; information concerning these is desired.

THE AMERICAN BOOK-TRADE ASSOCIATION.

CONSTITUTION, AS REVISED BY THE CONVENTION OF 1876.

[The several amendments passed by the Philadelphia Convention were in various shape: they have been introduced in this copy, with verbal changes to bring them into their proper place, and the numbering has been made consistent.—Ed.]

1. The name of this organization shall be "The American Book-Trade Association."

2. Its object shall be the promotion of the interests of the book trade in the United States, and the improvement of its methods of doing business.

3. Its officers shall be a President, three Vice-Presidents, a Treasurer, a Recording Secretary, and a Corresponding Secretary; to be elected at the annual meeting of the Association, by a majority of the members present. Their duties shall be the usual duties of such officers.

4. Its permanent committees shall be elected in the same manner and at the same time as the officers, and shall consist of—

An Executive Committee, of ten;
A Committee on Assemblies of the Trade, of five;
A Committee on Arbitration, of ten;
A Committee on Finance, of five;
A Committee on Book Fair, of seven;

5. The Treasurer shall give bonds to the President, in the sum of $1000, and shall pay out moneys only on the order of the Chairman of the Finance Committee.

6. The duties of the Executive Committee shall be the general oversight of the affairs of the Association, and to attend to all business not specially given to any other committees.

7. The Committee on Assemblies of the Trade shall select the times and places, and make all necessary preparations for holding the regular and other meetings of the Association, and shall notify all members of the same in due season, by their Secretary.

8. The Committee on Arbitration shall take cognizance of all complaints for alleged infractions of the by-laws. They shall endeavor, if possible, to reconcile the parties, and if not successful, may publish, in the official organ of the trade, a complete statement of the case, with their conclusions, and present the same to the Association at its next meeting.

BY-LAW.

a.—All complaints to the Arbitration Committee to be made in writing, and accompanied by positive proof of the violation of rules complained of.

b.—No complaint shall be presented to the Arbitration Committee from any locality where a local organization exists, unless the complaint shall have first been presented to the local organization, and by that organization referred to the Arbitration Committee.

c.—When any five firms, or any regularly-constituted local organization, may ask from the Arbitration Committee a decision on any point, such decision shall be made and published: but when any single dealer or firm requests a decision, such decision shall be communicated only to the party asking the decision.

9. The Committee on Finance shall devise ways and means for paying the necessary expenses of the Association; shall be empowered to levy assessments in addition to the annual dues, if necessary, not to exceed $3 on each member in any one year, and shall audit the Treasurer's accounts.

10. The Committee on Book Fairs shall have entire charge of the semi-annual book sales.

11. There shall also be a General Secretary of the Association, to be appointed by the Executive Committee, who shall act as clerk to all the permanent committees, and have charge of all the books and papers of the Association except those of the Treasurer.

12. The officers and committees shall hold office for one year, or until their successors are elected.

13. The annual meeting of the Association shall be held between the first day of June and the first day of October, at such time as the Committee on Assemblies may decide will best suit the convenience of the trade, and due notice of the time shall be given by the Committee to the trade. Special meetings may be called by the President on the unanimous request of the Executive Committee.

14. Any publishing or bookselling firm, or author, may become a member, by signing this Constitution and paying annually the sum of two dollars.

15. The Executive Committee of this body shall have the power to fill all vacancies that may occur in committees, and each committee shall have authority to delegate its powers to one or more persons.

16. This Constitution may be amended at any meeting by a two-thirds vote.

RETAIL-PRICE RULE.

The American Book-Trade Association pledges itself to maintain, and urges upon the entire trade the absolute necessity of maintaining, the publishers' advertised retail prices, in all sales to buyers outside the trade, excepting that a reduction not to exceed ten per cent on medical books, and twenty per cent on all other classes of books (including educational), may be allowed to the following classes only: Public libraries (including circulating and Sunday-school libraries); clergymen and professional teachers; professional books to professional buyers; large buyers—said purchasers buying solely for their own use; and in the case of exceptions made by the Publishers' Board of Trade, for publishers only.

In case the rules of this Association should, under exceptional circumstances, work injustice to any dealer in competition with other parties, said dealer may state his case to the Arbitration Committee, and this committee shall have power to authorize him to take such measures as will meet the emergency, after notice has been given, and the like liberty granted, to other dealers directly concerned.

UNDERSELLING.

An underseller, in the meaning of this Association, is defined to be a dealer, whether a member of this organization or not, who in practice violates its by-laws and agreements as to the sale of books, this fact having first been proven to the satisfaction of the Arbitration Committee of this Association.

THE EXHIBITION.

THE first American World's Fair, or, in more common parlance, the Centennial, is certainly a great success. No one has yet visited it without surprise, and no one has come away without satisfaction. It is highly creditable to the enterprise of the country, and doubtless its after-results will prove it as instructive as it is interesting. The first question asked is always, "How long must one stay to see it? The question is quite unanswerable, except it be said, "As long as you can." One day will show a good deal; a week much more, and even in a month the visitor can scarcely realize the full detail of this wonderful gathering. The best advice that can be given is that the visitor after getting a general view—which can be best had from the circular railway, and by a hasty tour through the Main Building—should then devote himself to that specialty in which his observing faculties are best trained. In other words, we advise booksellers and stationers who visit Philadelphia, after they have made the rounds quickly, in an hour or two, to use the little map we present to them, and to learn as much as possible of the exhibits in their own lines. What time they have after that may well be devoted to general sightseeing aside from their specialty. But there is so much for each man to learn here in his own business, with opportunities such as he can not otherwise have, that the chance for instruction should not be neglected.

Commercially speaking, the Exhibition is not a great success. The receipts at the gates, which is almost the only source of income to the Exhibition, are increasing daily and cover considerably more than the running expenses. But the Exhibition can not be made to pay more than a year or so of interest on the capital which has been put into it. In other words, the stockholders will have for their money simply the satisfaction of knowing that they have helped in this national display; and that satisfaction should be very well worth the money. In its influence on general business, especially in Philadelphia, the Centennial has been rather disastrous than helpful. The Philadelphians, and not least those in the book trade, are greatly disappointed in this result, although it was prophesied by those members of the Boston trade who had experience of a like sort with the Jubilee. It is a pity that Philadelphia has not profited more by its enterprise, which has been great and most creditable, and we may hope that it may finally reap its reward in the business reputation which Philadelphia will get through the vigor it has thus displayed.

BOOK AND STATIONERY FEATURES.

THE exhibits of goods in books, stationery, and kindred departments, are much more extensive and important than was at first supposed; indeed, the visitor can get no idea of how generally these divisions are represented until he has sought out the exhibits themselves—or permitted us to do it for him. Books are to be found in Class 306, Department III. (Education and Science), defined, somewhat promiscuously, to include "school and text books, dictionaries, encyclopædias, gazetteers, directories, index-volumes, bibliographies, catalogues, almanacs, special treatises, general and miscellaneous literature, newspapers, technical and special newspapers and journals, illustrated papers, periodical literature." Stationery, etc., form classes 258–264, in Department II. (Manufactures). Of the thirty countries here represented (counting Canada and Australia each as but one), only four, Belgium, China, Tunis, and the Orange Free State—for Belgium can hardly be said to be represented in her own specialty—fail to exhibit in one or more of these classes. Four of the book exhibits are collective—that is, made under the auspices of the trade; these especially present favorable opportunity for comparison and instruction. But this is to be said all through. Of individual exhibitors, there are probably no less than six hundred in books and three hundred in stationery—it is a sufficiently serious undertaking to visit all. Besides the displays in these departments proper, and in the State educational departments in the Main Building, Machinery Hall, the Government Building, the Woman's Pavilion, and the Bible Pavilion must be visited to make the view complete. We describe the exhibits under each country, books first, next stationery, grouping the outside buildings last under our own country.

OUR ILLUSTRATIONS.

WITH a view to making our review as complete as possible for its purpose, we present to our readers a number of general plans and views which will, we trust, be found serviceable and interesting. The plans include, first, a map of the Main Building and its vicinity, which we flatter ourselves will be the most useful help that can be put into the hands of the bookseller. This shows not only the division of the main part of the Exhibition among the countries, but all the leading book and stationery exhibits are designated (respectively by dots and crosses) so that the bookseller who has this in his hand may steer directly for any line of exhibits he desires to find. The exhibits are generally located in the catalogue, etc., by their vicinity to the pillars, which are lettered north and south, and numbered east and west. A key to this system is a unique and one of the most useful features of this map. This plan also shows the location of the Judges' Hall, where the Convention meets, and of the neighboring hotels and the street-car lines to and from Philadelphia. It will be seen that, to bring the street system into the size of our map, we have had to condense severely. The Belmont Hotel, which is the headquarters of the trade, is situated six blocks off from Elm avenue, where the Main Building is located; and Forty-first street, on which it fronts, starts from the eastern end of the Main Building, instead of nearer the central door, where it is shown on the map. These imperfections were necessary to make the map useful, and will, of course, be pardoned. The other charts give the ground-plans of the American, German, and French exhibits. In the American, the name of every exhibitor is given; in the German, the names of classes and of leading firms and of some of the smaller houses; in the French, the names of all houses exhibiting independently, and the Cercle. This will afford a key to these national exhibits which, we trust, will be found very useful to visitors. The plans have been prepared by this office, at much expense of labor and time, and are of a sort not hitherto attempted in connection with this exhibition.

The views are not so satisfactory as we should have liked; but we desired to give a view in one plate of the American Book Trade structure, and it was impossible to take any photographic views which would include the entire structure. We were compelled, therefore, to restrict ourselves to a drawing in pen and ink, which was made for us in some haste, when it was found the photographic view could not be had except in sections. Although it is not such as, under other circumstances, we should liked to have put before our readers, it is hoped that it will be interesting to them. Desiring to make the other views uniform, these also have been drawn in pen-and-ink sketches. As it is, these illustrations will suggest to our readers the national exhibits, and be an interesting memorial of them. The plates include the American, German, and Netherlands structures. The French collective exhibit is an interior, which it was found impossible to sketch in any satisfactory way, and of that, therefore, only a ground-plan is given. The Netherlands exhibit is classified, not by publishers, but by subjects, and the key to them will be found on the shelf-lettering.

We have, at much pains and expense, endeavored to make this Centennial review the most extensive and complete representation of a department attempted by any trade journal, and although, under the circumstances of the case, there must be imperfections, we trust that we shall have satisfied our readers. We have endeavored to furnish a guide to and to mention descriptively every exhibit of any importance in the book, stationery, and related trades, from whatever country, and now we submit the result to the practical test of the trade.

THE A. B. T. A. AT THE EXHIBITION.

THE apathy with which the proposal for a Centennial Exhibition was received by a large class of business men, was particularly noticeable in the book trade. There were, we think, no early applications for space from publishers; and even well into this last year, no movement had been made. The Convention at Niagara passed unanimously the following resolution.

"Resolved, That in view of the approaching Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia, this Convention urges all members of this trade to forward a full representation of the American book trade at the Exhibition, and that a Committee of ten of the members of this trade resident in Philadelphia and vicinity be appointed by the chair to further this end."

In view of which the following committee was appointed:

J. B. LIPPINCOTT,	EDMUND CLAXTON,
JOHN A. BLACK,	H. W. COATES,
GEORGE REMSEN,	ROBERT LINDSAY,
ROBERT PORTER,	PRESLEY BLAKISTON,
GEORGE WOOD,	B. GRIFFITHS.

Nothing, however, was done, even by this committee, until October 25th, when a meeting was held, Mr. J. B. Lippincott presiding. Messrs. W. S. Appleton and G. H. Putnam, of New-York, and William Lee and B. H. Ticknor, of Boston, had been appointed to co-operate with this Philadelphia committee. As the result of their consultations, the matter of carrying out the plan of a general exhibition of the book trade was referred to a special sub-committee, consisting of Messrs. Blakiston, Remsen, and N. R. Monachesi, and they soon took up the work in earnest. To them is due chiefly the considerable credit of the Exhibition which the visiting trade will find at Philadelphia. The amount of work which has been done by these gentlemen is very little understood, the Philadelphia members having been continuously at work at great sacrifice in perfecting the arrangements there, while the Eastern member has forwarded effectively the representation of New York and Boston publishers.

Messrs. James T. Fields, H. O. Houghton, George W. Childs, and T. J. Dreer were requested to act as a committee to collect and arrange autographs, memorials of authors, and such relics and curiosities as would be of interest to the visitor to the book department. But unfortunately nothing came of this suggestion, which had in it the germ of a most interesting exhibition. It is greatly to be regretted that this plan was not carried out, for the few historical features incidentally a part of the present exhibition are among the most interesting things to be seen there.

There has been a good deal of criticism at the space accorded to the publishers in comparison with the less important exhibitions in other trades. This is simply and solely their own fault. They were very backward in applying, and it was only by very hard work on the part of the committee that many of them were brought in at all. If they had applied with the promptness of other trades, which were finally aroused to some enthusiasm in the matter, the exhibition might have been much better than it is now. A further criticism has been that a good many small features have been stowed away in the book department which detract from its appearance as a unity, and seem rather out of place. It must be remembered, however, that this is the act of the commission, and not the fault of the committee. Any thing in any way relating to the books in the American department was placed in the space allotted to the committee, and they had to make the best of what little space they had. The plan of erecting this two-story structure was certainly ingenious, and it has been quite successfully carried out. In fact, any members of the trade who are disposed to grumble at evident and now necessary imperfections, or to criticise arrangements, may fairly be asked to reflect that if the general coöperation had been prompt and hearty, most of these difficulties would never have existed for criticism.

The American Book-Trade Association structure occupies a full section close to the southwestern corner of the Main Building. It is the only two-story pavilion in the building, and the device of the double story solved the difficult problem of space in a very satisfactory way. The designer was Mr. Henry Reck, who had much experience in connection with the Vienna Exposition, although the staircase is a variation from his original plan. The structure is 117 x 34, on the general plan of three platforms, each supported by sixteen light iron pillars, and connected by two bridge platforms. On the main platforms are erected pavilions, divided by radial standards into four spaces each, and on the bridge platforms are wall standards. The second story is twelve feet above the floor, and is reached by two stairways at the front centre. The railings to these are in open ironwork, a little out of keeping with the general design, but not quite so awful as has been suggested. The graceful pillars are tastefully decorated in colors and gilt, a light brown with ornamentation in claret and sage colors, being the prevailing decoration throughout the structure. The ceiling is covered with canvas, which is neatly frescoed. The cost of the structure proper was about $5000, borne by the leading publishers occupying space upstairs. The only charge to exhibitors, as such, was an assessment (collected only as a voluntary payment) of fifty cents per square foot of allotted space and adjoining passage-ways, made by the Committee to cover the cost of the low platform on which the lower cases and the structure are placed, and its working expenses on behalf of the trade. The whole affair is to the credit of the A. B. T. A., without which organization American publishing would indeed have been but poorly represented. It is a pity that this is recognized in the structure only by the modest monograms in the iron-work ; at least, it would be eminently proper to carry out the original design of raising in the central pavilion upstairs a banner bearing the words "American Book Trade," so as to characterize the general exhibit.

There was practically no restriction as to the manner in which exhibits should be made, and consequently there are all sorts. Most are in good taste individually, but not in harmony with each other, and this is the chief drawback in the appearance of the exhibits. The cases upstairs were, with one exception, we believe, made by one party in Philadelphia, and show less want of harmony; all this upper portion of the structure, the flooring and railing excepted, was directly provided for by the exhibiting publishers, not as a Committee matter, through the junior member of the Committee. Fourteen publishers are represented upstairs, and eighty publishers, etc., below, the etc. representing, as will be seen, a considerable variety of lines. There are many unrepresented who should be there, as, for instance, Little, Brown & Co., as publishers of Bancroft and such representative national works, and the house of the President of the Association. But the exhibition is nevertheless general, and a success.

It is difficult, however, to characterize, in any generic way, the American book-trade exhibit. It shows what is in one phase the breadth, in another the lack of national style, of the country in general. Much, the most indeed, is good and very creditable to a new country, yet there is a great range from best to worse, and some of the exhibits show great crudity. The first feature noticed by the foreign visitor is the proportion of reprints, and yet native authors make an excellent showing. In school-books, we are easily first, especially in the matter of get-up and illustration. In large works illustrated on wood, such as "Picturesque America," we are not far, if any, behind even France, while the richness of our cloth bindings is a happy medium between the German and the English. It may be mentioned also that American invention has been busily employed in solving the difficulties presented by album backs. Our Bible production is remarkable.

We pass to a detailed notice of individual cases, covering every exhibit in the structure, as also the Messrs. Lippincott's in connection with it. Most of the cases are locked, but where no special mention is made of an individual representative, they will usually be opened, on application, by Mr. Robert H. Farley, the courteous gentleman who looks after the interests of most exhibitors, assisted by B. L. Kimball. We have of course been obliged to economize space, and give much less attention to many worthy exhibits than we might have desired ; this must be pardoned by those who feel ill treated. Following this mention, which is in alphabetical order, as easier of reference in sight-seeing and from the plans, will be found brief notice of the other exhibits, educational and in other than the Main Building, cognate to those of the A. B. T. A.

H. S. Allen fills his little case at the south-eastern corner with five volumes, in different styles of binding (all very patriotic), of his "People's History of America," one of the Centennial books.

Altemus & Co., Philadelphia, have a show-case display of their lines of photograph-albums and scrap-books close to the left stairway. The patent hinged-back albums are their specialty, intended to make the family album last till the next Centennial.

The American Baptist Publication Society has an assortment of cases as well as of books, left centre of the back row. The main one is a huge octagonal flat showcase, looking curiously like a baptismal tank, as some one said, and in this and two other showcases alongside are shown a variety of books in fine bindings, the hymn and tune book, standard denominational works, etc., in calf, morocco, pearl, velvet, metal mountings, etc. Their special claim is for distinctive variety in design of bindings, and the durability of their work. In two upright bookcases are shown such standards as Bunyan's and Fuller's works, and samples from the thousand juveniles they publish. The useful movable black-board letters, controlled by them, are also shown. The society extends a cordial invitation to the visiting trade to call at its handsome store, at 1420 Chestnut street.

The American News Company have a neat little glass case on a table-stand, near the left stairway, in which they exhibit bound volumes of their American Bookseller's Guide (the previous title of the Bookseller), and the new Crystal Rubbers, whose pointed shapes make them very convenient. The last volume of the Guide is placed out on the top, and here also may usually be found copies of the special number of the Bookseller, containing the excellent three-page sectional view of the A. B. T. A. structure, which has been much admired by the trade as a good piece of work.

The American Sunday-School Union has a large case near the western end, showing its wonderful variety of publications to excellent advantage. The larger books are arranged on three sets of conical shelves inside the case, a line of books being clamped open at intervals upon these cones. Below the main case the little sections show the distinctive features of their work—the International lesson-papers; the cheap libraries, 75 volumes for $7.50, 100 volumes for $15, in cloth bindings; and the religious spelling-books in various languages. Reports of the Union are left on the case for distribution.

The American Tract Society, New-York, in a combination of cases to the left of the centre, have a very remarkable exhibit. The display of bindings in the horizontal showcase includes fine specimens of the "American Levant" leather, which is controlled by them and was the result of long and costly experimenting at Mr. Simmon's inspiration. The grain is quite as beautiful as in English or French Levant, and the American leather quite surpasses the latter in strength and durability. The method of binding is also peculiar, and their Teacher's Bible, bound in full leather, the lining of kid, so that there is no paper or board wrapping to render the flexible cover liable to break, is claimed to outrank Bagster's. Every sheet is sewed with three-thread sadler's silk, round the bands. A sample line from their miscellaneous and juvenile stock is shown in the upright case, and copies of their periodicals, and sample-pages of their tracts, in more languages than were talked on the day of Pentecost, are displayed at the sides. The Society has a store in Philadelphia at 1512 Chestnut street, under charge of Mr. H. N. Thissell, District Secretary.

James Anglim, of Washington, exhibits at the back part of the structure, eastern end, Lanman's "Biographical Annals" of the members of our government since 1776, an important national work; also the report of Mr. Arinori Mori, the Japanese Ambassador, on "Life and Resources in America," another work that belongs in this Exhibition.

D. Appleton & Co., represented by Mr. H. McIntosh, their resident Philadelphia agent, a veteran of the trade, who is to be found either at the cases or at 922 Chestnut street, have the commanding position at the west end of the upper floor, which is worth visiting for the view thence down the Main Building, as well as for the books to be seen there. The case in front, in the western projection of the gallery, is one of the most interesting in the book department. Here are the several medals awarded to the house, those of Vienna (1873), bronze, the Crystal Palace Industrial Exhibition (1855), silver, and the silver medal sent by the Pope in recognition of the copy of "Picturesque America" presented to him. Here also is the only copy extant of the first book published by the Appleton house—a tiny relic in a little case of its own, sent by Mr. W. H. Appleton from his personal library, and of course precious beyond money. It is a little volume of wise sayings on Bible texts, not 2 inches by 3, "Crumbs from the Master's Table; or, Select Sentences, Doctrinal, Practical, and Experimental." By W. Mason. New-York: D. Appleton, Clinton Hall; stereotype edition; 1831." In the same case are "The American Cyclopædia," that enormous national undertaking, which may be contrasted with it as the latest issue of the firm, shown in four elegant sets, in full vellum, tree calf, crushed levant, and morocco; and "Picturesque America," the copy shown in the case being one of the foremost competitors for the award for fine bindings. It is in brown levant, inlaid in red and blue calf, lined with brown watered silk, and most richly tooled. The lettering and ornamentation are very elaborate, yet all is accomplished "without the aid of the goldsmith, jeweller, engraver, or painter." All the binding here shown is done by Matthews, at the Appletons' great manufacturing establishment in Brooklyn. A stack of Webster's "Spelling-Books," "the elementary spelling-book of America," tied in red, white, and blue ribbons, crowns the top of this case. The central case behind is occupied with the other volumes of these works, and of their art publications otherwise, "Picturesque Europe," "The Art Journal," etc., in rich bindings. The left-hand case contains a selection from their miscellaneous stock, including the "International Scientific Series," originated by them; Herbert Spencer's works, which would never have got so far but for their efficient aid, and the other scientific publications for which they are noted; Dana's "Household Book of Poetry," Sherman's "Memoirs," and other prominent volumes, in cloth or fine bindings. The right-hand case contains, in one respect, the finest educational display here, for the 350 volumes of important text-books published by D. Appleton & Co. are all there in uniform half vellum binding, a splendid battalion. This is a very handsome and lasting binding, and can be made in quantities at less than half a dollar a volume; its introduction into schools for the more costly books would be most desirable. D. Appleton & Co. exhibit also in Machinery Hall (Sec. E, 32), where they have a stop-cylinder Hoe press for art work, on which they print for distribution a large illustrated pamphlet, giving specimen illustrations from their leading art works.

Asher & Adams, New York, occupy considerable wall and desk space to the left of the left stairway, with their well-known maps. The whole top space is occupied with a swathe across a map of the United States, from ocean to ocean; below this are maps interestingly contrasting our country in 1776 and in 1876, and on the desk are their great Railroad Atlas of the United States and Pictorial Album of American Industry, and their Commercial Atlas and Gazetteer.

Henry Carey Baird & Co. exhibit in the back centre section an extensive line of their important industrial publications, which should be of especial interest to foreign visitors, since Mr. Baird leads American publishing in this specialty. The range is very wide, through nearly all the technical arts. The works of Henry C. Carey, the chief apostle of protection and soft money, are of this list, and we are surprised not to find them more prominent in the case.

A. S. Barnes & Co., New York, who occupy the southern side of the western pavilion, upstairs, and the back of the adjoining wall-space (represented by Prof. Jerome Allen, of the State Normal School, Geneseo, N. Y., author of "Map Drawing"), show in their handsome bookcases, the central one of which is surmounted by a bust of Mr. A. S. Barnes, the many volumes of their National Educational Series and their other school-books, and on the wall-space specimens of the excellent maps, relief-pictures, and general illustrations of Monteith's and McNally's geographies, and of the interesting wood-cuts of their Independent Readers. The notable feature is, however, the original drawing for a large lithographic wall-chart to illustrate the physical features of the earth, now in course of publication. The drawing was made by Messrs. G. G. White, William Waud, and Paul Dixon, and the chart will be a new and taking feature of the Monteith Geographical Series, under the name of "Monteith's Pictorial Chart of Geography for Youngest Learners." It is about four feet by three, and if there is any thing in the way of natural or artificial features of the earth's surface, seas, bays, promontories, roads, railroads, telegraphs, tunnels, aqueducts, windmills, balloons, cities, furnaces, waterspouts, etc., etc., etc., and an etc. of etcs., it would take an encyclopædist to find it out. The idea is quite new, and likely to be very useful in primary schools, where it is a volume in itself. The teacher is to point out the several features to his scholars, an accompanying handbook of oral lessons on the plan of object-teaching assisting him. The National Series of school-books includes two sets in nearly every department of knowledge, among them the National and Independent Readers, Monteith's and McNally's Geographies, Davies' and Peck's Mathematics, Steele's Fourteen-Week Courses in the Several Sciences, Worman's German and French Series, Barnes' Brief Histories, Clark's Diagram Grammars, Cleveland's Literatures, Folsom's Book-keeping, Chapman's American Drawing-Books, etc. The "Teachers' Library" of professional helps, 25 volumes, and the "School Library" of miscellaneous standards, about 75 volumes, and that excellent educational periodical, the National Teachers' Monthly, for which the largest circulation of any educational periodical in the country is claimed, and of which bound volumes are exhibited, should also be noted. The text-books are all taken directly from the stock, in just the shape in which they go into the schools, the "Teachers' Library" and some few other books being shown also in fine bindings. The publications in miscellaneous literature, into which this house is now entering more largely, should not be overlooked; many of them are of special Centennial interest, notably the "One Hundred Years of American Independence," a finely-illustrated compendium, displayed open in the left-hand case; Mrs. Lamb's "History of New-York," etc. Their excellent periodical, the International Review, is also included. The house shows its well-known school furniture and appliances a little way off in the Main Building.

Mr. John Russell Bartlett exhibits, in a little case away under the right stairway, the catalogue of the library of John Carter Brown, Providence, compiled by him. This catalogue, of one of the finest private libraries in America, is a fine specimen of work. It is in four volumes, illustrated and illuminated, and was printed at the Riverside Press.

J. R. Beckett and Romeo Cervi, bookbinders for the Boston Public Library, have a handsome case in black lacquer and gilt, French fashion, near the right stairway, and exhibit in it many volumes, mostly Bibles and Osgood's prints, richly bound in parchment or levant, inlaid with Turkey morocco, and finely tooled.

The Bible Societies, right in the centre of the department, have the best position, the most artistically beautiful case, and one of the most interesting exhibits in the American book department. Indeed the display of historical Bibles, here and at Sower, Potts & Co.'s and Holman's cases, is to the student the most attractive feature. The Bible Society's case is the exhibit of the American Bible Society, but it has associated with its own the publications of the British and Foreign Bible Society, which it represents in this country. It is thus enabled to present "the Bible in 200 languages"—a legend which greets the visitor as he enters the department, and attracts him at once to this case, which has proved one of the chief objects of interest. In fact it is so prominent, that visitors coming into the Book Association structure are apt at first sight to accredit the entire department to the Bible Society, for there is nothing at all except the little monograms in the iron-work of the brackets to connect the structure with the national Book-Trade Association. To the society is also due the neat arrangement of carpet which ushers the visitor into the book department. The Bible case is of ash, in hard finish, designed in Eastlake fashion by Kimball & Cabus, New York. Our cut shows it with the globe centre-piece, which had unfortunately to be taken off because of the ceiling. Books are shown on all four sides, the copies in the several languages, shown with opened pages and neatly labled, occupying most of the space on both sides. At the left end are stacked samples of the English lines published by the two societies, at prices of from 40 cents up, and at the right end is a curious collection of ancient Bibles, loaned by the Bible Society from its library, by special vote of the trustees. There are too many to catalogue, but we may note especially the "four century" Bible, a copy printed at Venice in 1476, evidently with prophetic intention; a Douay (Catholic) Bible of 1610; a curious little copy, supposed to have belonged to John Milton; a fac-simile of the first English Scriptures; Tyndale's, 1525; a King James of 1611; the Matthews Bible of John Rogers, 1549; and several early American Bibles. The society has also prepared a neat little pamphlet, giving sample texts in 164 languages, with information as to the society's work, for gratuitous distribution, of which nearly 10,000 copies have already been circulated, to the great delight of visitors; and Mr. Wm. E. Hebberd, of the house, is always at hand to show books and give further information. All this has called for an outlay of some thousands of dollars, but the society is likely to profit by it nevertheless, and it sets an example of patriotic liberality that we can wish had been more generally followed. One visitor pronounced the display the finest he had seen in several days' sight-seeing, and all are deeply impressed with the importance of this Bible work. Outside in the grounds, the Pennsylvania Bible Society, an auxiliary of the American, has a separate building for the sale of Bibles (in 100 different languages), just south of Horticultural Hall, and the Centennial Commission has made for it the exceptional concession of requiring no commission or other fees for the sale of Bibles. Here is to be found the new Centennial edition of the Bible, in neat 16mo, at 75 cents upward, an excellent memorial to take home.

A. J. Bicknell & Co., New York, represent the architectural publications of this country, of a popular sort, by displaying their publications in a showcase at the back, east of the centre. Here are their "Village Builder" and its supplement, a work extensively used all through the country; Withers' important work on "Church Architecture," "Detail, Cottage, and Constructive Architecture," works on stair-building, etc. These works supply in this country the place of architects, of whom we have as yet comparatively few, and they have done good work in affording to carpenters and builders better plans than they would have been likely to make for themselves. The excellence of the plates for this purpose is worthy of note.

Lorin Blodget exhibits in a huge folio volume, on a table under the right stairway, a collection of his charts on the climatology of the United States, with a printed octavo discussing the same subject.

Brewer & Tileston display full lines of Worcester's dictionaries in their case in the south-eastern section, gilding in the glass Charles Sumner's commendation of Worcester's large dictionary as "the best authority." The war between the dictionaries, the English and American, as Worcester's and innovating Dr. Webster's may fairly be designated, is one of the most curious features of American literary history. While Webster's has been adopted for many official purposes, Worcester's spelling "in the good old way" is still that in which a considerable part of the scholarly community put their faith, as the letter of Mr. A. R. Spofford, Librarian of Congress, suggests. The visitor will find circulars at his disposal in the drawers of the case—a good arrangement. This house also exhibit their school-books, Hillard's, Felton's, Eliot's, etc.

S. D. Burley, Philadelphia, exhibits his United States Centennial Gazetteer and Guide, a book crowded with information, in a case in the back row, west.

Samuel D. Burlock & Co. have a capacious and tasteful case, with bronze ornaments, at the north-western angle, in which they display, on an arrangement of brackets, etc., Bibles, prayer-books, albums, etc. The "United Presbyterian" Board is represented by them in the first-named lines, and the albums are noticeable for their patent guard back.

J. H. Butler & Co., Philadelphia, occupy the west section of the centre pavilion upstairs, chiefly with a fine display of wall-maps, pulling down from cornices on each of the three panels, the edges of which advertise the several series of approved school-books which are shown, pages open, in the glass showcase in front. Among these are the New American Readers, Spellers, etc., Butler's United States History, Smith's Grammar, Mitchell's New Geographies, Goodrich's Pictorial Histories, Bingham's Latin Series, forming a creditable display.

THE CATHOLIC PUBLICATION SOCIETY has a neat case at the back of the structure, eastern end, where they exhibit in the horizontal part a full line of Bibles and prayer-books, in a great variety of styles, morocco, calf, silk, velvet, pearl, metal, and porcelain mounted, specially adapted to Catholic taste. In the upright portion are the twenty-two volumes of the Catholic World, making a goodly show in half Russia, and samples of their general lines—Cusack's Saint Patrick, Archbishop Hughes' works, novels, etc., etc.

CLARK & MAYNARD, New York, show a small case of their educational, juvenile, and masonic books, in the north-western section. These include Anderson's well-known and very comprehensive series of school histories and historical readers, Thomson's arithmetics, Keetel's French, etc., and in the latter field Mackey's manual and Grosh's works.

CLAXTON, REMSEN & HAFFELFINGER, Philadelphia, display in their case, on the northern side of the eastern pavilion upstairs, the works of one of the fathers, James Madison, and their full lines of standard English authors, etc., in half-calf and other fine bindings. On the wall-space on either side are displayed copies of Labberton's valuable Historical Chart, showing all the main features of the history of the world at a glance, and below are sets of their new game, Quoitet.

EZRA A. COOK & CO., Chicago, publishers of the Christian Cynosure, a weekly reform paper especially directed against secret societies, and of various pamphlets and leaflets of the same aim, exhibit their publications in the back centre section, and Mr. A. D. Freeman is usually in attendance to distribute leaflets, etc., to visitors.

COWPERTHWAIT & CO. occupy the north-western angle with cases of their educational publications, specimens of the clear maps from their Warren's Geographies occupying the wall-space about the circle. Besides this series they show also Apgar's Geographical Drawing-Books, Greene's Grammars, Monroe's Readers and Spellers, etc., and a few miscellaneous religious works, such as "Women of the Bible," Talmage's "Around the Tea-table," etc. The large bronze medal awarded to them at Vienna occupies a prominent position in the lower case.

CHARLES H. DAVIS & CO., Philadelphia, make a show at the back centre, inside, of Zell's Atlas, Cyclopedias, and United States Business Directory. These are wonders of multum in parvo, and have met with correspondingly wide sale. Duychinck's Cyclopedia of American Literature is also on this list.

D. M. DEWEY, of Rochester, occupies the inside of the north-east angle with a display of plates of fruit (of a counterfeit sort) of which he offers 2000 varieties, in full color, to fruit-growers for their catalogues, a curious specialty of publishing. Porter & Coates are his Philadelphia agents.

DICK & FITZGERALD are at the eastern end with sample lines of their publications, which go all over the country. The upright case contains Dick's Encyclopædia of Recipes and Processes, in various bindings, the "Reason Why" Series, Brown's History of the American Stage, The American Boy's Book, etc., in cloth, and the flat case a variety of their well-known handy books in illuminated boards.

J. E. DITSON & CO., in the north-western section, have a square case on standard, on two faces of which they exhibit their considerable variety of Centennial sheet music.

ESTES & LAURIAT have an exceptionally attractive display in their simple but tasteful case at the eastern end. Their Guizot's History of France is fully displayed in open volumes, richly bound in calf, tree calf, silk-lined morocco, and other styles, in the flat part of the case and Knight's England, Austin's Massachusetts the Works of Count Rumford—a tory who must feel out of place here—Campbell's Lives of the Chancellors, etc., admirably bound, are also to be noted. A pleasing variety is obtained on the shelves by the device of setting the row of books on the top shelves a little obliquely.

H. C. FRY, of Philadelphia, makes an exhibit at the back, of binders' tools and dies, which will interest the uninitiated. Among his side stamps are several of patriotic device, the Liberty Bell, George Washington, etc. He also shows a few specimens of books on which these tools have been put to use.

WILLIAM F. GILL & CO.'s model of Bunker Hill Monument, with a fence proportionately about fifty feet high, is the remarkable feature of the rear side of the exhibit. Perched on three sides of the model are their various publications, such as "Laurel Leaves," "Lotos Leaves," etc.

GINN BROS., Boston, make an exhibit of educational publications in a modest case behind the right stairway. Samples can also be seen and handled in the Massachusetts educational display. They include the National music books and charts, the Our World series of geographies, Allen and Greenough's Latin series, Goodwin's Greek text-books, Hudson's Shakespeare, etc., etc.

ANDREW J. GRAHAM, phonographic publisher, exhibits his standard phonographic series and similar publications in a desk case in the north-western section. His system is quite generally used in this country, vieing with Munson's; its modification of the Pitman system occasioned the famous phonographic suits.

JNO. W. GRIFFITHS exhibits his three works on ship-building on a desk at the back, eastern end.

W. W. HARDING, who, according to one view of the case, is the only manufacturing publisher in the country—for he alone makes his own paper—occupies the western side of the eastern pavilion upstairs. The triple case, in cheap painted woods, heavily varnished, is not attractive, but the display is. The upright cases are filled entirely with quarto albums, forty-five copies in as many different styles of rich bindings, of which those in full morocco, gold mounted, in satin-lined cases, are particularly beautiful. In the horizontal show-case Mr. Harding displays his fine line of albums, among them the "Thousand Picture Album," with the Harding chain back, which makes so large a volume possible; the graphoscopic album, with a lens which folds inside the cover; the stereoscopic album, similarly arranged for stereoscopic views; and the spectrographic album, for reflecting the outlines of pictures so that they may be copied easily. In commending Mr. Harding's display we would again suggest that it would be better without the huge black-and-gold sign, running across to Steiger's space, which interferes so unpleasantly with the lines of the structure.

Harper & Brothers have a very handsome case, 8 x 10, showing books on three sides, at the eastern end, inside. The case is in richly-grained oak, designed by J. Cleveland Cady, architect, in Eastlake style, and it is a pity such an exhibit, inadequate as it is to represent the catalogue of this house, and so good a case, should not have had a more conspicuous place. The house, however, was not willing to take part in the arrangement upstairs, and was, indeed, induced with difficulty to enter into the Exhibition at all, and it is not the fault of the Committee that its position was not more in consonance with its standing in the trade. On the front section are exhibited the Harper periodicals, in imposing ranks—full sets of the Monthly, Weekly, and Bazar, handsomely bound. The rest of the case is well filled with their editions of English classics and American books, in cloth or half-calf, as they come from the stock. Nordhoff's "Politics for Young Americans," the best Centennial book a-going, is an exception, with a patriotic dress of red, white, and blue. On one jamb of the case is an original drawing on wood, by Th. Nast, and on the other illustrations from Harper's new School Geography.

H. M. Hinsdale exhibits a quantity of his "Office Scratch-books," a cheap and ingenious device for memoranda. The exhibit, under the left stairway, is meant to be displayed on a three-cornered pyramid which has not yet come. This exhibit properly belonged to the stationery department.

A. J. Holman & Co. occupy the right front with a fine case displaying a splendid assortment of Bibles. The space is carpeted in front, so as to set off the case, which is crowned with a globe in blue, and lettered on the cases with a list of the several medals this house have taken, and below with their trade-mark and various other texts. This case displays a line of old Bibles also very interesting, including besides a copy of Saur's Bible, spoken of below, lent by Mr. Sower, a copy of Eliot's Indian Bible, 1663, the first Bible printed in America, which only Mr. Trumbull can read; the Aitken Bible, the first printed here in English, by Robert Aitken, Philadelphia, 1781; Collins' Quarto Bible, Trenton, 1791, the first of the long line of American quarto Bibles; and the first stereotyped edition of the Bible, Collins & Co., New York, 1816. But these are by no means the chief part of the exhibit. The Messrs. Holman show an assortment of quarto and smaller Bibles that is one of the finest in the great show. They are in every variety of binding, in full morocco, heavily mounted in metal, silk lined, etc., etc. They claim especial pre-eminence in binding, their use of curved stamps for embossing giving the effect of handwork at the cheapness of machine stamping. Mr. Holman himself has been present at the case frequently, but invites a call at the Philadelphia store.

Henry Hoyt, Boston, displays full lines of his popular juveniles in a tall case, decorated after Eliot's favorite "household art" style, and showing books on three sides, near the eastern end of the back of the structure. The arrangement of this case is such as to give the foreign visitor the best idea of our favorite fashions in doing up juveniles, for the sides, with their full gilt and colored insertions, are shown as well as the backs. One of the horizontal parts of the case is filled with volumes of religious poetry, "Under the Cross," etc., in fine bindings.

Hurd & Houghton, New York, H. O. Houghton & Co. (The Riverside Press), Cambridge, represented here by Mr. J. G. Thompson, occupy the eastern part of the west pavilion, upstairs, with a display that quite exhausts the normal supply of adjectives. Their exhibit is more elaborately arranged than any in the structure, and it is the purpose of Mr. Geo. H. Miffin, who has superintended its preparation, to transfer the whole display—the wall standards included—to the establishment in Cambridge, that it may be kept as a memorial of the Centennial. The large bookcase occupying the central panel is surmounted by a water-color view of the Riverside Press, executed by one of their lithographic artists, while on the panels on either side are specimens of their direct lithographic work. The superb portrait of Longfellow, perhaps the finest lithographic portrait yet made in this country, naturally occupies the place of honor on the left. Below this is an oil chromo from Reinhart's "Angel Mother," and still below a case in which are displayed attractively the periodicals issued by this house: the Atlantic, P. O. Guide, American Naturalist, Law Times, and Medical and Surgical Journal. On the right, the upper part of the panel contains the fine lithograph of Mrs. Scott Siddons; below this is a water-color chromo after Richardson, and still below a stand, on which neat little catalogues offer themselves to the visitor. The bookcase and the glass showcase in front of it are occupied with lovely specimens of the arts of printing and binding—all the work of the Riverside. But the gem of the exhibit has, as it deserves, a special place of honor in an ingenious standard to the right. This is the first volume of the large paper Webster's Dictionary, bound most sumptuously in illuminated vellum, in the decoration of which Mr. David Clarke, of the Press, has spent two or three months' work. The design is very strong in color, yet there is so much detail that it does not seem in any way overdone. The title, "An American Dictionary of the English Language, by Noah Webster," occupies the main panel, around which is a border of florid ornamentation, which serves as a frame for several episodical decorations. The top one of these is a portrait of that aggressive American, the lexicographer himself; below is a portrait of the other chief factor in the work, the Riverside Press—for printing, binding, and decoration were all done here. Along the front of the border the legend, "Centennial, Philadelphia, 1876," is woven in, while at the centre of the back are the American arms; above and below them, panels containing respectively the names of the thirty-seven States and those of the Presidents, the figures 1776 and 1876 being woven in above and below these. Copies of the "Butterflies of North America," with a design of butterflies sporting among flowers amid golden sunbeams, and of Mrs. Clement's "Legendary and Mythological Art," with a classical design of Venus and Cupid, are also shown in this illuminated vellum, a style of binding which is very beautiful, but of course proper only for books to be shown under glass. A superb copy of Bacon's works, on India paper, bound in crushed levant; a copy of Worcester's Dictionary, in full Russia—for the rival dictionaries start from the same birthplace;—many elegant privately-printed works; other fine bindings, very distinctive in design, covering the standard publications of this house, Dickens, Macaulay, Anderson, etc., etc., and a line of their well-made law-books, are a few of the many other things that should be observed by the visitor. The cut herewith gives an excellent idea of their display.

Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co., who occupy the northern face of the central pavilion upstairs (represented by Mr. S. M. Perkins, their New York agent), show one of the chief curiosities of the Exhibition in the superb specimen of Spencerian penmanship, which occupies the place of honor. More than eighteen months ago, Mr. Lyman P. Spencer, of the Washington Business College, a son of the originator of this system, commenced this remarkable work for the Exhibition, and for three months past he and two assistants, who relieved him in the minor details, have been alternately at work night and day upon it. It occupies an elegant frame about six feet by eight. The whole Declaration of Independence is here written in the perfection of simple and fancy penmanship, with the signatures in fac-simile, while in the centre is a fine pen-and-ink copy from the engraving of the signing; above is the Goddess of Liberty, below is a view of Independence Hall, and at each corner of the Declaration are excellent full-length portraits of Washington and his leading generals. Other specimens of fine writing, a Centennial memorial, the poem of "The Night before Christmas," finely illustrated, and excellent specimens of standard work—all alike being executed with the Spencerian steel pens—occupy the rest of the wall-space. On a table in front are specimen copy-books from schools using this system—Nos. 15, 48, 50, 53, 59 in New-York, a colored school in Richmond, Va., and others from Portland to St. Louis and Oshkosh being among those represented by remarkably good work. The book display of this house is contained in a double case occupying the central front projection of the gallery. Their well-known American Educational Series, embracing among other sets Bradbury's school music-books, Bryant and Stratton's Book-keeping, Cathcart's Speakers, Dana's Geologies, Fasquelle's French, Gray's Botanies, Kiddle's Astronomies, McElligott's Manuals, the New Graded Readers, Robinson's Mathematics, Sanders' Spellers and Readers, the Spencerian copy-books, Swinton's Histories, Webster's Dictionaries, White's Progressive Art Studies (a special feature of excellent cards, in four sets, with more in preparation), Wilson's Histories, and Woodbury's German are shown in fine bindings, as well as in their ordinary dress, and the house takes especial pride in the quality of paper, the clearness of type, and the excellence of illustrations that go into their books.

T. & J. W. Johnson & Co., the Philadelphia law publishers, have a fine exhibit of law books, especially strong in English works, the English Common Law Reports, in 118 volumes, occupying most of the centre section of their large case, which is inside west of the centre. The volumes are all in law sheep, and look finely.

The Orange Judd Co., who lead our agricultural and horticultural publishing, have a handsome case at the northwestern corner, in which they exhibit a great variety in these lines. The bound volumes of The American Agriculturist, the leading journal in this field, are of course most prominent; several works on landscape gardening are displayed open, while the right half of the case is filled with "the accursed thing," Crandall's blocks and menageries, a good store having doubtless been laid in for Mr. Barnes' use at the Convention.

Kay & Bro., law publishers, Philadelphia, have a large case of law books, in the usual uniform, very well made, west of the centre. They include many important works and reports, among which latter the Pennsylvania State, in 76 volumes, are conspicuous.

Thos. Kelly, of New-York, is cosily intrenched inside the south-east angle, where in his two cases he shows Catholic Bibles, plain and illustrated, in many varieties of binding, morocco (panelled, tooled, and inlaid), velvet, etc.; also, a considerable line of Catholic devotional books. The Pio Nono prayer-books are a specialty. Haverty's History of Ireland, Bible Stories for the Young, profusely illustrated, etc., are among his miscellaneous publications.

Allen E. Knapp exhibits in the north-western angle his "Continuous Genealogical Family Record," as a companion supplement to the Family Bible. It contains space for the history, autographs, and photographs of eight generations, and an open copy on the stand illustrates the idea by the entry of the inventor's own family.

Ig. Kohler, Philadelphia, exhibits a variety of bindings, chiefly upon his own German publications, in a large case at the western end. The line is chiefly relied upon for the decoration of these goods. The display is surmounted by the design of a star done in binder's tooling.

J. W. Lauterbach and Allen, Lane & Scott have more firm name than catalogue; they exhibit in a case at the right stairway their one publication, an attractive Centennial volume, "A Century After," in handsomely-printed quarto, giving excellent wood-cut illustrations of Philadelphia and Pennsylvania.

Lee & Shepard, Boston, at the eastern end of the upper floor, have a case effectively crowned by a bust of Charles Sumner, which is eminently fit, since his works, in eleven volumes half calf, occupy the place of honor inside. Mr. Gilmore's "History of the National Peace Jubilee" calls to mind the predecessor of the present "big show." The case is otherwise filled with their popular juveniles and miscellaneous publications, Oliver Optic's Magazine, etc., in the usual cloth bindings.

Lindsay & Blakiston, Philadelphia, show in the south-western section their excellent lines of medical publications, such as Clymer's Aitken's Science and Practice of Medicine, Harris' works on Dentistry, Cross's American Medical Biography, Biddle's Materia Medica, etc. This house binds in its own building, and some of the work shown is very good; the gray calf styles are especially attractive. The admirably useful annual, "The Physician's Visiting-List," for 25 to 50 patients weekly, is also shown by the publishers.

J. B. Lippincott & Co., who exhibit in the circle adjoining the book structure at the north-western angle, are entitled to the credit of having gone into the Exhibition with more vigor than any other of the regular publishers, although they exhibit apart from the Association. The case alone cost nearly two thousand dollars, and is an imposing structure about twelve feet square and twenty feet high. The plan is square, the corners being cut off and seats inserted in the section of a circle, which prove a great convenience to visitors to the neighborhood. Above the seats, in niches back, are bronze busts of Shakespeare, Milton, Byron, and Scott. This arrangement of seats leaves four square fronts, parallel to the sides of the Main Building, on each of which there is a horizontal showcase, and behind it an upright shelf-case reaching to the cornice, where the name of the house is blazoned on each front. The roof is surmounted by a miniature dome, on which is the American eagle. The case, which is chiefly in black walnut, was made by Moore, York & Howell, Philadelphia. A representative of the publishing house may usually be found in attendance.

The west front shows in the lower space a fine line of Bibles, richly bound in panelled morocco, inlaid and heavily worked by hand. A large pulpit Bible, especially rich, is appraised at $250. There are also bindings in inlaid and plain vellum. The fine standard works of this house, Allibone, the Gazetteer and Biographical Dictionary, Chambers, etc., and their histories and biographies are shown above, in a variety of fine bindings. The east front has more rich bindings, many, as the "Contemporary Art." English sheets, but bound here in rich inlaying; Allibone's "Poetical Quotations," in Elizabethan style, green levant, etc., from Mr. Lippincott's private library, and with his initial letter inlaid on the side; above is a fine line of fiction, among which a richly-tooled set of Bulwer is especially noticeable. On the south front are their presentation volumes, with fine work in mosaic edges, and such publications as their Magazine, "Philadelphia and its Environs," "Authorized Guide to the Exhibition," and above a line of miscellaneous books, in cloth bindings, directly from the stock. On the north front is displayed exclusively blank-book work, which invites attention both for the practical excellence of the work and for the fine ornamentation upon it. This house has prepared several circulars for the convenience of visitors to their case, including a beautiful sample pamphlet of specimens of printing; a description of the case and stock; and a list of bindings and prices. They claim to show the most diversified exhibit in the department, representing book-making in all its branches, and they also invite visitors to Philadelphia to inspect "the largest bookstore in the United States."

George R. Lockwood, New York, represented in Philadelphia by Sibolle & Stillwagen, 727 Sansom street, exhibits at back centre that glorious work, Audubon's "Birds of America," its huge volume of plates and eight of text; also Audubon and Bachman's Quadrupeds, in three volumes. A few of the smaller illustrations are shown about the case, but it is a pity the large plates, a chief triumph of one publishing, should not in some way be displayed to the visitor.

McLoughlin Brothers, New York, have a large case inside the south-western angle, in which they display in the upright part a fine show of their popular toy-books, in brilliant color plates and with chromo bindings, card games and blocks, and in the horizontal part their lay-out games, such as the "Steeple-chase," etc.

The Masonic Publishing Company, New York, has a well-filled case, west of centre, inside, that should attract the craft, whose literature makes a surprising show. Anderson's Masonic Library and other leading works are patriotically bound in red, white, and blue.

G. & C. Merriam, Springfield, Mass., occupy the eastern side of the central pavilion upstairs with an exhibit which is, from one point of view, the most interesting of all. It is confined exclusively to the works of Noah Webster, LL.D., "the Schoolmaster of the Republic," as he is placarded in various languages and hues by posters about the exhibit. The display is crowned by a plaster bust of Dr. Webster from a cast taken from life, and the several cases include all the present editions of Webster's Dictionary, of which in their different sizes there are more than a dozen, in twenty or more different styles of binding. Here also is the little Elementary Speller, the bottom of the round of the series, of which fifty million copies have been sold. But these current features are scarcely the most interesting portion, for here is the original edition of Webster and even specimens of Dr. Webster's manuscript for it. The edition of the Speller issued by J. W. Burke & Co., Macon, in 1865, when the South could not buy their spellers from the North and yet could not get along without them, is also to be seen, and the cases include, besides, the various works written or edited by the great lexicographer, which of themselves amount to a score.

The Methodist Book Concern, New York, makes a fine show along the left front of the book-structure, with its large triple case, the space in front tastefully carpeted. The horizontal case is filled with an assortment of Bibles bound at its establishment in various rich styles. The moroccos are heavily panelled and elaborately tooled, some with inlaying in colors, and there are others in ivory and in velvet, with rich metal mounting. In the upright cases other Bibles and standard works in full bindings are displayed on the lower shelves, and on the upper will be found samples from their immense catalogue, the largest in the country, of religious and Sunday-school books.

Louis Meyer, 1413 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, the publisher of cheap classical and standard music, who does excellent service for real music-lovers, occupies part of the back of the eastern wall standard with some display of his sheet music, including several Centennial pieces. Those who want good music in good editions should take home one of the catalogues to be found here.

Ivan C. Michel exhibits in a miniature showcase, under the left stairway exhibits, a bound volume containing—we take the word of the binder who stamped it—the Lord's Prayer, written in 500 languages by himself.

E. W. Miller's Bible and publishing house, Philadelphia, is represented back of the Methodist Book Concern by a well-selected case of Bibles and samples from his bindery, most of them in full morocco. Here, open, is "the only English translation of the Hebrew Bible published in the world," other Hebrew books, etc., besides music-books in character notes.

James Miller, New York, has two cases inside the south-east angle, the flat one containing a number of fine bindings, including the works of Hogarth, Griswold's Poets, etc., and the upright one such other standard books as his Mrs. Browning, standard poets, Strickland's Queens, Anderson, Arabian Nights, and other favorite books for big and little folks, many in rich half-calf bindings.

The National Temperance Society, to the left of centre, has a display calculated to strike terror to every stomach, and to give delirium tremens even to a man who never tasted liquor. Large charts illustrate the human stomach as maltreated by drunkards. They show also their full line of temperance publications, the books in the upright, the pamphlets in the horizontal case, and the periodicals laid along on the latter, so that those who will may take. These cases will give visitors a vivid idea of its enterprising work in a good cause.

Oldach & Mergenthaler, Philadelphia, bookbinders, exhibit specimens of their skill at the back of the structure, east of centre. Elaborate stamping and black work are their specialties; there is also some tree-calf work.

James R. Osgood & Co., Boston, have the northern section of the western pavilion, upstairs, but by no means show their strength in the single case of books they exhibit. This is to be regretted, as the strength of American literature is better shown from the catalogue of this house than from that of any other, the great majority of American poets and essayists having this imprint in their books. The most prominent set in the case is Prof. Child's edition of the "British Poets," occupying two and a half shelves out of the eight: this edition is of course to the credit of American scholarship, in the way of editing, but the space might better have been given to American authorship proper. The case, nevertheless, contains enough good American literature to make an American proud, even if in company with an English cousin—for here are the works of Emerson, Lowell, Longfellow, Whittier, Hawthorne, Bret Harte, Howells, Agassiz, Ticknor, Aldrich, Stedman, Mrs. Whitney, and others known wherever people read books, besides the superb series of translations, Bryant's Homer, Cranch's Virgil, Longfellow's and Norton's Dante, and Bayard Taylor's Goethe's Faust, which are one of the chief triumphs of this country's literary ability, showing in this department the same cosmopolitanism we show in our welcome of the people of other nations. The many beautiful illustrated works of this house, in wood-engraving and heliotype, and such popular series as "Little Classics," are also included. Messrs. Osgood make a most interesting show of heliotype work. Two well-filled frames of book illustrations flank their case here; in the photographic annex are other examples, and in Machinery Hall they have several heliotype presses at work, under the general superintendence of Mr. E. F. Hovey, Chestnut street, the Philadelphia agent for this process. The "History of Independence Hall" and other volumes of especial Centennial interest, produced by this effective process, are not to be forgotten. An interesting work on the signers of the Declaration is now in progress.

J. L. Peters, New York, music publisher, exhibits in a very elegant walnut case, decorated in black and gold, in the back row, west, his bound and sheet music, including popular compilations and the works of the masters in volume form, also Ludden's Pronouncing Dictionary of Musical Terms—altogether a very creditable display.

T. B. Peterson & Bros. have a case facing east at the north-east angle. The side, therefore, makes a front corner of the book display, and the very prominent lettering of authors' names, though an ingenious advertisement, strikes the visitor unpleasantly. It should certainly be modified into harmony with the general display. Their exhibit includes their wide-selling lines, Mrs. Southworth, Stephens, and Hentz occupying the topmost seat, or shelf, of honor, and the works of Dickens, Dumas, Sue, Lever, Arthur, and such writers, in their full-gilt cloth or leather bindings, filling out.

PORTER & COATES, Philadelphia (represented by Mr. John H. May), have three handsome cases, occupying the front of the western wall standard, surmounted by bronze busts of Shakespeare, Milton, and Walter Scott. The right hand is occupied with nearly the full line of their publications, excluding English sheets, in cloth bindings; their new editions of Shakespeare, and several of the popular Verne and other series purchased by them at the Osgood sale, are especially noteworthy. On many of these lines the retail price is now put very low. The central case has a selection of these books in various styles of fine bindings, on the strength and honest make of which the house pride themselves. These books are made to be handled, and to stand the test of hard wear. The left-hand case displays the more salient books —three sets, in Russia, morocco, and levant, of Wilson's superb "American Ornithology," the great volume of plates opened before the observer; Miss Chase's "Mother Goose for Grown Folks," a book of interesting associations, bound in watered silk; Burns's "Cotter's Saturday Night," in full calf, and still others worthy of special attention.

JOHN E. POTTER & Co., Philadelphia, who publish nearly a hundred styles of Bibles and Testaments, German and English, Catholic and Protestant, besides general publications, occupy a neat stand near the left stairway. Their 'Complete Bible Encyclopædia" is the central object of interest, with its wide range of 10,000 articles and its 3000 illustrations; it is flanked on the one side by Brown's Self-Interpreting Bible, with the century-old commentary of the venerated Dr. John Brown, and the additional notes of Drs. Cooke and Porter; and on the other by Luther's German Pictorial Family Bible, the version as finally revised by Luther, with notes and a thousand illustrations. In the upright part of the case are shown miscellaneous publications and prayer-books, mostly in fine bindings, Chambers' "Information for the People," Bunyan and other standards, Potter's American Monthly, the American Historical Record, etc.

POTTER, AINSWORTH & Co. use their space to the utmost advantage by making a three-sided hollow case, which gives display-room on both sides, and desk-room inside as well. Mr. William M. Scribner, of the Payson, Dunton & Scribner Penmanship, will usually be found at the desk. The house show their lines of educational books, such as Crosby's Greek, Hanson's Latin, etc., but make a specialty of their Bartholomew's Drawing-Books and of the famous "National" copy-books on the above system. This series is revised every five years, throughout, and a revision has just been completed. It is claimed to produce the best results achieved in the common schools, as the samples exhibited and the work in the Ohio, Illinois, and Massachusetts educational departments witness. It is also put forward as the most complete published, with its twelve numbers in the regular series; its condensed short course, with tracing lessons after the French system; its wall-charts for blackboard lessons, and its slate tablets, and such features. The copies for the new books are now shown on cloth stretchers, the whole series of copies printed from the stone together.

THE PRESBYTERIAN BOARD OF PUBLICATION has one of the best-arranged exhibits in the structure, and makes an effective show with samples from the 2000 publications issued by the house. The Hymnal is especially prominent, as a book of which 50,000 copies were sold in 60 days and 150,000 in 20 months deserves. The Shorter Catechism, of which it is stated 1,420,000 copies have been sold, and the Catechism for Young Children, with its sale of 1,600,000 copies, have nevertheless more modest place. Samples of the periodicals are also shown, with their circulation placarded—the Presbyterian at Work circulates 32,000; the Sunbeam, 36,000; the Sunday-School Visitor, 110,000; and the Lesson Leaf, 245,000 copies. A quarto Pilgrim's Progress, with steel plates, issued twenty years ago, is in the case; some fine bindings of excellent workmanship are also noteworthy; and the lines of regular publications, in the long upright case, tell their own story.

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY exhibit will be found just at the left on entering the department, in a little case designed by Dessoir, New York. Its bound volumes and other publications are shown in a uniform binding of half Russia, Roxburgh style, made by Glacel & Co., and those who wish to examine them individually, if the key is not found in the door, may obtain it from Mr. William E. Hibberd, of the Bible Society exhibit, who will give any information desired. We show in this collection, first, the bound volumes of the WEEKLY, nine in number, since its commencement as the Literary Bulletin. In connection with this there are two made-up volumes, showing the catalogue and special work done in connection with the journal. The first gives our educational and other annual catalogues, special bibliographies, etc.; the second, the special numbers we have issued, such as the Holiday, Book Fair, Convention, etc. Secondly, the LITERARY NEWS is shown, in a sample copy running through its varied series of imprints—a proof to the visiting trade that a large number of our best booksellers have found it a paying investment. Thirdly, the Publishers' Trade-List Annual, since its commencement, of which a copy is also open on the desk for the convenience of the trade. With it, our previous annual lists and the Trade Circular Annual, the prototype of the other. Fourthly, the Stationers' Handbook, for which we ask especial attention, as only less useful than the main Annual. A current file of the WEEKLY will be found on the desk.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have a handsome case, well-filled, in the south-eastern section, the fine binding, which is unpretentious and in the best of taste, being by Glacel & Co., New York. In their display are some of the books most creditable to American literature and publishing. Tuckerman's "Book of the Artists" is shown open, as Mrs. Greatorex's "Old New York" should also be shown. We miss the Artist's Edition of the Sketch-Book altogether, but here are Washington Irving's works, in full tree calf, 27 volumes, and in other editions, also the works of Bayard Taylor and John P. Kennedy. Putnam's Magazine is here in full panoply, and we note also lines of their educational and miscellaneous books and popular reprints. The "Popular Manual" Series should not be overlooked, since it is characteristic.

A. Reed & Co., binders, Philadelphia, show cloth, morocco, and pearl work in a case to the west of centre. A small volume, in which different varieties of mother of pearl are used in combination, is most noticeable.

D. Rice & Co., Philadelphia, show three noteworthy works, in three volumes each, in the back centre section. These are: McKenny's work on the Indian Tribes of North America, in folio, with 120 colored portraits of famous chiefs, copied from the Smithsonian collection, since destroyed by fire; the North-American Sylva, from the French of Michaux, with 300 plain and colored plates of forest trees; and the National Portrait Gallery, having 140 steel portraits. All these have descriptive text.

Rev. H. Floy Roberts exhibits, in the inside of the south-western angle, the MSS., in four huge volumes, of an Interlinear New Testament, the Greek text and variorum readings, with literal English translation, whose publication he hopes some day to effect.

J. Sabin & Sons, in their seven-sided glass case behind the Bible Society display, exhibit, in full binding, the seven volumes of Mr. Sabin's great undertaking, the Bibliotheca Americana, a full bibliographical guide to books relating to America, of which the volumes now extend to Hall.

J. W. Schermerhorn & Co., New York, make a double exhibit. They show two simple and well-designed oak cases in the book structure, opposite each other, back of the Methodist Book Concern's, to the left of the stairways, one containing slated and hemisphere globes, orreries and tellurians, the other their valuable professional books for teachers, and other educational works, including some important text-books, and a great variety of school material. A few paces in front of these, outside, P. 77, is a larger case, with more school material, including relief-maps and appliances for the Kindergarten, Dr. Johnson's portable Health-Lift, portable book-shelves and racks, school globes, slates, crayons, and other school apparatuses, call and hand bells.

Scribner, Armstrong & Co. have the most cosy department up-stairs, with its neat carpet and cases, at the south of the central pavilion. There are bookcases on either side, the recess between being crowned with a cornice decorated with the Guyot medal from Vienna, whence Guyot's admirable wall-maps may be pulled down for examination; while in front is a specimen of Pierce's Magnetic Globes, a capital educational appliance which attracts all visitors of gravity. Also in the recess are to be noted several excellent map-drawings made from memory by pupils of the Guyot system, and the fine portrait of Mr. Bryant, from his History of the United States, which latter is rightly a prominent feature of the display. In the cases the fine lines of standards on the catalogue of this house are attractively shown in fine bindings of great variety, a set of Froude in "dead calf" being especially noticeable, if the word may be used when such series as Lange's, and the Bible Commentary, Curtius, Mommsen, Müller, Holland, Mitchell, etc., etc., make equal demands. In the lower portion of the top-hand case are shown some magnificently illustrated works, including the "India" imported by them; and in the right hand, bound volumes of these capital magazines for big and little folks, Scribner's Monthly and St. Nicholas, and some few of their many admirable school-books, peculiarly noticeable, like the magazines, for the artistic character of their illustrations. The Williams & Southerland patent-copy books, with vertical page and blotting leaves, are shown alongside. Catalogues are to be found in a rack; further information may be had from Mr. T. A. Vandergrift, representing the house, in charge of Bradbury, Agnew & Co.'s pavilion in the English section, B 25.

The Seventh-Day Adventists' Publication Society, Battle Creek, Mich., exhibits the Health Reform Journal, Health Almanac, and other health publications, together with some mysterious allegorical and prophetical literature, near the south-western angle.

Sheldon & Co., New York, have a neat case and a neat display at the centre of the eastern front. Here are their excellent series of text-books, such as Bullion's Classics, Colton's geographies, Comstock's Natural Sciences, Lossing's finely-illustrated Histories, Olney's Mathematics, the new series meeting with such wonderful success, Shaw's Literature, etc., in fine and in every-day dress. They also show samples of their miscellaneous publications, such as "Heaven in Song," "Our Poetical Favorites," Spurgeon's works, White's "Words and their Uses," the Rollo books, and other famous series.

George Sherwood & Co., Chicago, school-book publishers, have a curiously constructed desk-case, back centre, which plays the giraffe in this menagerie of cases. At the top are displayed their Webb's Model Reader Charts, an excellent device for school use, and their Writing Spellers, a combination of speller and copy-book. Below they show, where the case is open, the Readers themselves, in four progressive books, whose illustrations have the characteristic that nearly half of them are in colors, a feature that pleases the children hugely. The Analytical Readers, Babbitonian penmanship goods, and a variety of school-registers are also to be seen. Mr. Hebberd has charge of the case.

J. L. Smith, map publisher, Philadelphia, has an ingeniously-arranged exhibit at the back, west of centre. This pulpit-shaped affair caused many conundrums as to the preacher who was to occupy it, while, for some weeks, it remained unexplained by the presence of any goods. Mr. Smith exhibits Colton's maps, as well as his own publications, also drawing-paper in rolls.

Sower, Potts & Co., in their long case at the back of the structure, near the west end, display a worthy representation of the oldest publishing house in the country, a house older, indeed, than the country itself, for it was founded by old Christopher Saur, Sr., at Germantown, in 1738, a hundred and thirty-eight years ago. The year after, he established the first type-foundry in America, and in 1740, after having printed several almanacs and a religious paper, of which copies are here shown, he started on his quarto German Bible, after Luther's (34th Halle edition), of which he finished printing 1200 copies in 1743. This was the first Bible printed in this country in a European language; it was preceded eighty years by Eliot's Indian Bible, but it was not till forty years after (1781) that the first English Bible was printed here. Chr. Sower, Jr., who succeeded in 1758, when the father died, printed a second edition in 1763, and in 1776 a third, which was mostly disposed of by the British at Germantown. All three editions are shown in the case, and a list of the publications of these two Sowers is placarded at the end. Here also are two of the first Sunday-school tickets, printed in America by the elder Sower, of 385 different kinds, in 1747, forty years before Robert Railses' Sunday-school. David Sower, Sr., succeeded, and the Norristown Gazette, here shown open at the mourning issue announcing Washington's death, 1799, was of his publication, for the family have been journalists as well as publishers. Next comes the Engine of Liberty and Uniontown Advertiser, by Charles Sower, 1813, and the Norristown Herald, 1824, by David Sower, Jr., representing the fourth generation, the latter being of the direct line and the father of Charles G. Sower, who at the head of the present firm represents the fifth generation. Other members of the family are also represented by publications in the case, whose contents illustrate excellently the history of American book-making. The series is concluded with the publications of the present house, shown in the upper part of the case, which are chiefly educational, including the Normal series of school-books, Pelton's outline maps, etc., etc.

E. Steiger, of New York, exhibits in a showy but not advantageously placed case downstairs, back of Holman's, to the right of the stairway, and upstairs on the eastern wall-standard. A hand and placard direct the visitor from one to the other. The lower case is in black lacquer, decorated, having three large globes on the top, and adorned also with Mr. Steiger's well-known device of the pen and the sword. Globes of all kinds, terrestrial, celestial, slated, and on various styles of stands, are here shown, the list comprising no less than sixty numbers. Schedler's Relief Maps of New York, Boston, and Pennsylvania are also exhibited; to these one of Fairmount Park will be added shortly. Kindergarten gifts are shown at either end of the case, and of his publications Mr. Steiger shows his German-American Cyclopædia, 11 vols., his German text-books for German schools in the United States. Upstairs are sample plates of Ahn-Henn's German and French Reading Charts, a few of Schedler's globes and maps, Froll's "Automatic Tellurian and School Clock combined," illustrations of Kindergarten Occupations, etc.; and here the visitor will find the Kindergarten tracts and other circulars at his disposal.

J. M. Stoddart & Co., Philadelphia, have a considerable display of elaborate works, foremost among which is the copy of Brotherhead's Centennial Book of the Signers, displayed on the case, bound in full black morocco, dotted with stars, in which are inlaid the portraits of all the signers. Here also are their reprint of the Encyclopædia Britannica, the works of Hogarth, etc., etc., while above is displayed their huge chart of English literature, for use in educational institutions.

The University Publishing Co. exhibit, with opened pages, their University Series of School-books, Maury's Geographies, Holmes' Readers, etc., Gildersleeve's Latin, Fairbank's Arithmetic, etc., in a neat case near the south-eastern corner, above which hang samples of their maps.

Virtue & Yorston, though a branch of an English house, exhibit their American publicarions near the north-east corner of the structure, and make an attractive display. They exhibit their quarto Bible in various bindings, "The Great Civil War," Lossing's "Washington" and "The Hudson," Stone's "New-York City" and "Saratoga," and other historical publications, and hope to put in their case soon a new Centennial work, "America's Advancement," etc., with 100 illustrations. On either side of their case are displayed portraits of Centennial Americans, as examples of their steel-plate printing.

S. R. Wells & Co., New-York, have in charge of their ingeniously-constructed case, on the south side, three shelves of phrenological or unphrenological plaster heads, which give a welcome to the visitor. Below these are their full lines of publications in this specialty of phrenology, including the Centennial edition of Combe's works.

Wilson, Hinkle & Co., the great educational publishing house of the West, whose business rivals, if it does not exceed, that of any of this specialty at the East, display their Eclectic Educational Series in very effective shape, to the west of centre. The exquisite illustrations of these books are shown to great advantage across the case, and above these are displayed the geographies, with their excellent maps. The upper and lower part of the case shows long rows of the other works of this series, including McGuffey's Readers and Speller, Ray's Mathematics, Thalheimer's Histories, the Eclectic Penmanship, their Teacher's Library, School Records, etc. A neat little catalogue may be had by visitors.

William Wood & Co. show in a simple but solidly excellent case, on the east front, a most creditable line of medical books, although the caseful in no wise represents their full catalogue. That immense undertaking, put into English by this house, Ziemssen's "Cyclopedia of the Practice of Medicine," in seventeen volumes, a splendid work, surpassing in size even Appleton's Cyclopædia, occupies, as it deserves, the place of honor. The volumes of the Medical Record, of the Journal of Obstetrics, and of New Remedies, Holmes' great System of Surgery, etc., are also prominent. A couple of "miscellaneous" books, tucked away at one side, deserve more honor; they are Goold Brown's great "Grammar of English Grammars," and Thomas' "American Fruit Culturist," foremost books of their kind.

"The Golden Book of the Business Firms in the United States," at least the front cover of this large tome, is exhibited at the south-western angle.

The Seaside Oracle, Wiscasset, Me., is entered by Joseph Wood, editor and publisher, as a specimen of an American village newspaper.

STATE EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENTS.

THERE is much worth the attention of the book trade in connection with the State educational exhibits in the galleries. Massachusetts fills the east gallery with hers, and here the Boston Public Library has a case, convenient of access and for opening, in which its publications are bound together in the solid and beautiful work of its own bindery. The case has the following telling inscription: "1856. Opened with a single department of 10,000 volumes. 1876. Consists of a Central Library, with six local branches and two remoter deliveries, together numbering 300,000 volumes, of which 235,000 are in the Central Department. The issue of books is now more than a million volumes annually, of which only about 100 volumes fail to be recovered."

There is also a general display of text-books. Williams, Harvard, and other colleges send reports and publications (a bibliography of the publications of Williams' Prex's and Profs. being presented in a neat pamphlet), and L. Prang & Co. have a fine display of Walter Smith's series of art instruction, that is well worthy careful study. In the south gallery are most of the other States: to the east of the stairs respectively Michigan; Wisconsin, with a goodly show of books published by the faculty of the University of Wisconsin; Connecticut, one side of its room almost filled by a great case of 1100 books (and even then the list is incomplete) written or edited by former members of Yale College; New Jersey; Rhode Island, with a Brown University album; Maine, in which the city of Bath glorifies its system of text-books, which are supplied free to the children at an estimated saving in consumption of 60 per cent; Iowa; Missouri and Tennessee. The central portion is but partly occupied by New Hampshire, Maryland, and Kentucky; the west portion (of the south gallery) is filled by the fine displays of Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois.

GOVERNMENT BUILDING.

THE exhibit of the Bureau of Education, Department of the Interior, in the west wing of the Government Building, is full of interest. The hundreds of volumes of the MS. records of the census of 1870, containing the record of every one of our forty millions of people, in curious contrast with that of 1790 alongside, are perhaps ab extra from the book trade, but they should be interested in the case stocked in the upper shelves with a curious collection of early school-books, and on the lower with catalogues of the public libraries of the country arranged by States. The case alongside contains the interesting collections of works connected with the colleges—Hamilton, Amherst, Lewisburg University, Williams, and Harvard, and the journals of learned societies. Another has a series of books published for or about the deaf and dumb, and in others are to be noted State educational reports, etc., and some books printed in the Dakotah language.

WOMEN'S PAVILION.

IN the west wing of the Women's Pavilion, the office of the Women's Committee contains a library, neatly cased, of hooks written by women. They are arranged by States, and Massachusetts (a collection made by Mrs. James T. Fields), Connecticut, New York, and Pennsylvania (collected by Mrs. Sara J. Hale), are especially well represented. Mrs. Stowe's works, a full set in full Russia, were, we believe, contributed by herself. One shelf is occupied entirely by the line of women's books from the catalogue of Roberts Bros., who are unrepresented otherwise in the book exhibit. The proportion of these books on their list is surprising. The ladies do not make nearly so good a show with their books as they might, for the books written by women form a goodly portion of our literature. But this is true of the entire women's exhibit: the building is the best part of it. A neat little weekly paper—The New Century for Women—is published here, but it is not very strong. The masculines must protest that the ladies, managing this division for themselves, do not do their sex justice.

BIBLE PAVILION.

IN the grounds, south of Horticultural Hall and between it and the Art Annex, the Pennsylvania Bible Society, auxiliary to the American, has a neat pavilion for the sale of Bibles, in a hundred languages. On the counter is a series of boxes containing the Psalms, in a half-score different languagès, at five cents each; a collection of these, for half a dollar, makes quite a curiosity. Here is displayed a curious old Dutch Bible of 1682.

AMERICAN STATIONERY DEPARTMENT.

THE American exhibit of stationery is very important and creditable, some of the cases and displays being exceptionally fine. The space occupied is considerably more than that allotted to books, and may for the most part be spoken of as in three divisions, the general stationery, just in front of the book structure (some exhibits properly stationery are in it, and have been described therein), at P 72–78; the pen-makers, about N. 43; and the ink men, about T 47. The groups including stationery are thus marked off:

CLASS 258.—Stationery for the desk, stationers' articles, pens, pencils, inkstands, and other apparatus of writing and drawing.

CLASS 259.—Writing-paper and envelopes, blank-book paper, bond-paper, tracing-paper, tracing-linen, tissue-paper, etc.

CLASS 260.—Printing-paper for books, newspapers, etc.

Wrapping-paper of all grades, cartridge and manilla paper, paper-bags.

CLASS 261.—Blank-books; sets of account-books, specimens of ruling and binding, including blanks, bill-heads, etc.; bookbinding.

CLASS 262.—Cards; playing-cards, cardboard, binders'-board, pasteboard, paper or carboard boxes.

CLASS 263.—Building-paper, pasteboard for walls, cane-fibre felt for car-wheels, ornaments, etc.

CLASS 264.—Wall-papers, enamelled and colored papers, imitations of leather wood, etc.

Inks, however, come under the division of chemicals, Class 202, as follows:

CLASS 202.—Paints, pigments, dyes, colors, turpentine, varnishes, printing-inks, writing-inks, blacking.

We have endeavored to give notice or mention—too brief in many cases—to all representatives of our industries, in each instance from personal visit to the case. The task was a difficult one, especially hard on the adjective-box, but every exhibitor may supply others for himself, if he does not like our limited assortment. Some exhibitors entered in the catalogue and noticed in our contemporaries as present, do not seem to have got into the Exhibition except in their columns. Several exhibitors have furnished cuts of their exhibits, which will tell the story better than our descriptions can do.

ARTISTS' MATERIALS.

C. T. RAYNOLDS & CO., of New York, have an elegant display of goods of their manufacture, consisting of every variety of material required by painters, decorators, artists, and wax-flower workers. The exhibit is located directly in front of the steam-elevator in the main-tower space of the Main Building. The shape is a parallelogram, on which is a substantial counter holding the several cases of goods. About two thirds of the space is devoted to paints—dry and in oil—fine colors, varnishes, etc. The cases, although plain, are exceedingly rich and shapely; on a raised dais in the centre is a large octagonal case with arched roof and rounded plate-glass fronts, containing fine dry colors, and at the corners are similar cases of colors in raised forms. A beautiful feature is a case containing the old Liberty Bell, built entirely of broken colors in the style of our flag, the top being the blue union with white stars, and the bottom alternate stripes of red and white; and the crack has not been forgotten. The whole at a short distance resembles puffed satin. A small model of a coach, complete in all respects, surmounts a tower of coach-wheels, all handsomely painted and varnished with their goods. A great curiosity of this show is a basin of quicksilver (from which vermilion is made), with an iron cannon-ball floating in it. Another is a genuine wild-boar (stuffed) supporting an artist's manikin fully equipped. The fact that this house is now one hundred and six years old, and, as it would seem, is celebrating its own Centennial, adds much interest to their show. They exhibit as a curiosity an original invoice, issued by the founder of the house in 1774, the main feature of which is that it was not paid until 1784, the War of Independence intervening. This certainly speaks well for the honor of business men in those days. That portion of their exhibit devoted to their artist department will perhaps more directly interest booksellers and stationers. The goods in this department are splendidly arranged. There are seven bevelled-top cases containing water-colors, crayons, drawing materials, gilders' materials, wax-flower materials, etc. Above is a large upright case, showing the four fronts, holding artists' brushes, laid out in appropriate designs of great beauty, such as stars, artists' palettes, scrolls, and on the main front the U. S. coat-of-arms, the eagle being composed of camel's-hair pencils. Surrounding this case are several vases of wax-flowers made from their goods. This whole exhibit is worth seeing, is one of the most attractive in the building, and reflects much credit upon C. T. Raynolds & Co., who are the only firm in New York City in their line exhibiting at Philadelphia.

KEUFFEL & ESSER, New York (N 57), make a very fine display of drawing materials, T-squares, triangles, scales, rulers, tacks, etc., of their own manufacture. This house has made great progress in their line of manufacture, and the taste displayed in showing their goods to advantage is very creditable. Their little pocket-edition catalogue, which lies upon their cases for distribution, is one of the most complete and handy catalogues for the pocket we have yet seen.

JANENTZKY & CO., Philadelphia (P 77), make a very handsome display of artists' materials, oil and water colors, drawing-paper mounted on cloth, etc. The case is of elegant design and richly carved. The panelling represents a T square, pallet with stick and brush, an easel, and a sketch-block with square and compasses. In the case is an excellent model of the Art Gallery; similar models of all the buildings can be had in paper, so that they can be put together by the little people, for whom there are many attractions in the way of toy-boxes of color, etc., in this case.

BLANK-BOOKS.

FRANCIS & LOUTREL, New York (P 74), show their goods in a large square black-and-gold case. They display about fifty ledgers, with which they supply a number of the leading banks in the city. These books are bound in full Russia, with F. & L.'s patent spring back, and are fair samples of the goods ordinarily supplied the banks. They also make a very prominent exhibit of their patent safety tinted check-paper and copying printing-inks in all colors.

R. C. ROOT, ANTHONY & CO., New York (P 74), display some twenty specimens of their blank-book work in Russia ends and bands, and full Russia plain and panelled sides. Noticeable is the general ledger made for the Adams Express Company, in full Russia, panelled and oak-grained. The books are made in their usual style for banks, with the exception of extra finishing.

WALKER, EVANS & COGSWELL, Charleston, S. C. (P 74), have a characteristic showcase, emblematic of their business, in the shape of a half-opened blank-book, the covers glass, with wooden ends and bands; the sheep portion represented by glass, and the Russia by wood painted red. In their case are exhibited the different sizes and styles of blank-work for every-day use. A very notable article shown is C. I. Walker's patent law-blank case.

WM. MANN, Philadelphia (P 75), exhibits his blank-books in a unique case of oak, one of the largest in the department. We understand that this case was designed by Charles H. Mann, and made to correspond with the general style in which his store is fitted up, and will be removed to the store at the close of the Exhibition and used for showing goods. This case contains about two hundred books bound in full Russia binding and of the best paper. These books are ruled in a combination of bright colors, and are finished in original and elaborate designs no two of which are alike. These books are said to be positive orders for parties whose names are shown on the back. They represent every State and Territory in the Union. Opposite to his large case is one of smaller dimensions, in which he exhibits his parchment copying-paper. William Mann is said to have been the first maker of copying-paper in the United States, and all the paper he uses is made under his own supervision. On the top of this case is a figure of Atlas supporting a globe on which is lettered "Mann's Copying-Paper, World-renowned." This exhibit is one of the finest in this department.

Boorum & Pease, New York (P 75), make a showy exhibit of their stock just as it is sold to the trade. We understand that a boy fifteen years old selected these goods from the shelf. Their goods shown comprise almost every article that a blank-book house makes. Among their specialties are a very handsome line of autograph-albums, scrap-books, Japanese paper copying-books, etc. They are arranged in good taste, and are the only line of goods shown that are intended for jobbing to the smaller dealer.

Bradley & Gilbert, Louisville, Ky. (P 75), exhibit a line of blank-books for bank and office use, such as are daily used in their locality. These goods have not the extra finish that other manufacturers show, but are neat and durable and otherwise first class.

Boughman, Thomas & Co., Wilmington, Del. (P 76), exhibit their patent Index, used in ledgers for bank and general business purposes. They also show a ledger, day-book, and deed record, with the patent Index attached. This Index is shown open in a case, and a moment's glance at it will show its practical utility.

Wm. F. Murphy's Sons, Philadelphia (P 77), have a very handsome case in black and gold, 12 x 20 feet, with full plate-glass sides, showing their goods off to advantage. The case is well filled with specimens of their blank-books in plain and fancy bindings. The panelling, stamping, and general finish are very elegant. Some of the designs for the covers are in colors, and very neat. They also exhibit their parchment-paper copying-books.

Short & Forman, successors to Sanford & Co., Cleveland, O. (P 77), one of the oldest blank-book houses in the West, display an exhibit composed of seven blank-books (bank, ledgers, journal, and cash), bound in full Russia, panelled sides, of various styles, stamped in gold, and relieved with colored designs. The ruling is exceptionally fine work. Three of these books were exhibited at the Vienna Exposition, in 1873, and won the Grand Medal which they exhibit.

CARDS, CARDBOARDS, ETC.

Porter & Bainbridge, New York (N 72), have a considerable exhibit, which comprises a very large assortment of card stock of every description. Among the special novelties we noticed were some remarkably thin wood cards, also cards of wood in a great variety of tints and grained patterns. Their granite cards are in good imitations of stone, and in large variety. They also display a large variety of papers and envelopes of both foreign and domestic make, and in a great number of cut sizes and styles.

The Rhode Island Cardboard Company, Pawtucket, R. I. (P. 74), exhibit their goods on a platform with great taste. The cardboard is piled up in pyramidal shape, showing all sizes and colors. On each side of this column are two large rolls of variously-colored cardboard.

Case Bros., South Manchester, Ct. (P 74), exhibit a very handsome line of press-boards.

Chas. Beck, Philadelphia (P 76), makes a very notable display of ball and programme cards, fancy papers, and cardboards. The figures representing George and Martha Washington and the Goddess of Liberty, elegantly dressed in paper, attract the attention of grown-up patriots, while the children are delighted with the fine costumes of a considerable family of paper dolls.

Zenas Crane, Jr., Dalton, Mass. (P 77), exhibits, in a handsome walnut case, a large pile of white and tinted Bristol-boards. Mr. Crane makes a specialty of fine Bristols, which compare favorably with those of foreign make. Thirteen different tints are displayed in very tasteful combination.

W. O. Davies, 117 Wall street, N. Y. (P 77), displays his celebrated binders' boards to good advantage.

The Androscoggin Pulp Co., Portland, Me. (P 77), have a fine display of wood pulp and boards for the manufacture of paper boxes; also two pyramids of boxes made from their patent wood pulp.

ENGRAVING AND PRINTING.

Charles A. Dixon & Co., Philadelphia (P 75), have a large showcase filled with their specimens of copper and steel plate engraving, also lithographing and type-printing. Over the case is a double frame with some very elaborate specimens of crests, monograms, and illuminations. They are represented by S. Hale Miller.

McClement Bros., Philadelphia (P 74), exhibit specimens of their work in engraving embossing, and die-sinking.

Siddal Bros., Philadelphia (P. 74), exhibit samples of law-printing in an ordinary flat case. These are printed on common and parchment papers.

Lange, Little & Co., No. 10–20 Astor place, New York (P 78), show samples of their wood-cut and electrotype printing. Some of their examples are excellent specimens of the art.

GOLD PENS, PENCILS, PENHOLDERS, ETC.

Aiken, Lambert & Co., New York (N 43), exhibit their line of gold pens in a case of ebony handsomely ornamented in gold. The base of the case is octagonal in shape, from which, held by golden hands, rise four mammoth gold barrel-pens, some seven feet high. These pens support a canopy, upon which stands a globe. The showcases, which are of ebony and plate glass, rest upon a projecting counter, and between the four mammoth gold pens. Each of these four cases is arranged differently. The first case, which fronts on the widest aisle, contains a large collection of 18-karat gold pens and pencil-cases, some of which are richly engraved. There are also others in brilliant enamels, plain red gold highly polished, which make a splendid show. The mode of operating the pencil-cases is new and improved, and covered by letters patent. They have also a large variety of goods in 14-karat gold, among which are some pencil-cases of barley-corn finish, seven squares to the inch; others are trimmed in platinum. Case No. 2 contains a large variety of 18-karat gold pens, rubber goods in magic and double-magic returns, toothpicks, etc. Case No. 3 contains a lot of gold barrel-pens, carved and elegantly enamelled. Behind these barrel-pens and lying upon a bed of green satin, are gold pens held in telescopic, slide-reverse, screw, and other holders in numerous shapes and designs. Case No. 4 is lined with cherry-red satin, upon which lie a large assortment of gold pens in ebony, ivory, and pearl holders. Their pens are shown in long, short, broad, and other nibs which they manufacture. The whole presents a very elegant and creditable display.

Leroy W. Fairchild & Co., New York (N 43), have a very handsome square upright case, about 5 x 4 feet, which is made of black and gold, with fancy-colored wood panelling. On each of the corners are imitation pens and holders crossed. The inside base upon which the goods are exhibited is arranged in pyramidal form. On one side are displayed penholders, pencil-cases of all varieties, and patterns of solid and plated gold. On the other side they show their solid gold pencil and pen cases, some of which are set with diamonds and are very elegant. One of the novelties is a pencil and pen holding case with a representation of the Liberty Bell. On one end of the case are samples of each size and shape of gold pens, and on the other the different medals awarded in New York, Paris, and Vienna.

John Foley, New York (N 43), displays his goods in a handsome black and gold case, on each of whose four corners is the great American eagle, holding in its bill a large gold pen. Hanging down from the roof of the case is a mammoth gold pen in an ebony holder, about 2½ feet in length. He displays rubber, gold-plated, and solid gold pencil-cases, ebony, ivory, and pearl pen-holders, together with gold pens in all shapes and sizes.

Geo. F. Hawkes, 64 Nassau street, New York (N 43), shows gold pens, penholders in rubber, and other varieties, a small line of pencil-cases; also his patent fountain pen, penholder, and inkstand combined, a very neat and compact article.

John Holland, Cincinnati (P 43), exhibits his gold pens, pencil-cases, etc., in a very handsome walnut panelled case. with oval glass front. His exhibit is tastefully arranged in various designs, which show to good advantage.

E. S. Johnson, 44 Nassau street, New-York (N 43), exhibits in a round-front counter-case, a very handsome line of gold and pearl pen and pencil cases; also some in pearl set with small diamonds. His display of pens, penholders, and pencil-cases is not so large as some others, but it is very creditable.

Mabie, Todd & Bard, 180 Broadway, New York (N 43). George W. Mabie is representing their line. The case displayed is plain and neat and of the ordinary square shape. Their display is the most complete in the exhibit. They display samples of every size and style of goods in gold pens, penholders, pencil-cases, charm-pencils, toothpicks, shoe-buttoners, etc. Among their charm-pencils were some with diamonds set in the barrel, and richly engraved and enamelled. Noticeable among their goods are beautiful enamelled and carved barrel-pens, stone barrel-pencils of onyx and agate, and pearl and ivory desk-holders with solid 14-carat gold mountings. They have two 18-carat pen and pencil cases, each with a large diamond in its head, which are valued at over $200 each, and which are rare specimens of workmanship in engraving, mounting, etc. They have over six hundred sizes and styles of their own manufacture displayed in their showcase.

James Morton, 25 Maiden Lane, New York (N 43), exhibits a small line of penholders and pencil-cases in a square case, in the centre of which is a raised platform handsomely covered with red puffed silk. Upon this is the Great American Eagle standing on a pile of gold pens, with pen and holder standing around the outside. The eagle is made of gold pens to the number of 3000; in front, 1876 is arranged with gold pens. He makes a special display of celluloid penholders.

D. M. Somers, New York (P 72), makes a very fine display of penholders in ebony, rosewood, ivory, and pearl handles and gold and silver plated tips. They are very tastefully arranged in a square upright case.

HAND-STAMPS.

Walker, Tucker & Co., Philadelphia (P 74), show their vulcanized rubber hand-stamps, stamping-ink, etc., in a showy little case.

G. K. Cooke & Co., New York (P 77), show their patent hand-stamps, seal-presses, and safety check-protectors to advantage. They have a large variety of rubber type; also their patent rack-pad. The sign at the back of the case, in silk and gold, is very tastefully gotten up.

John Goldsborough, Philadelphia (P 77), exhibits a large number of his commercial hand-stamps. They can be used with either rubber or lead type.

D. A. Edsall, New York (P 77), exhibits his folding rack-pad, a comparatively new article to the trade, and also a case of rubber hand-stamps.

T. S. Buck & Co., Davenport, Ia. (P 77), display their patent-improved elastic hand-stamp and dater, together with rubber type. The variety of shapes and designs, and the fine specimens of work they exhibit, entitle their display to examination by the trade.

INK, MUCILAGE, ETC.

Thaddeus Davids & Co., N. Y. (T 47), have a superb showcase in the mediæval Gothic style, suggestive throughout of the uses of ink. It is constructed of native woods enriched with wrought brass highly polished, the exterior being of black-walnut and cherry, and the interior of birdseye-maple. On a massive base rest four square columns, supporting the upper part of the case, which is divided by three gables, with handsomely-carved crockets and finials. On each of the four topmost corners of the case is a griffin carved in black walnut, holding in its mouth a gold quill-pen. In the centre gable shaft are the words "Davids' Inks" in gold-plated letters on an ebony ground, and above them, in a circular panel, a painting of a mediæval inkstand and pens, and underneath, in the same gable shaft, a finely-executed likeness of Thaddeus Davids, the panels on either side being filled with symbolical figures. The case is all enclosed with heavy plate glass, the plain surfaces of the upper part being ebonized, upon one of which in large gold-plated letters appears the firm name, "Thaddeus Davids & Co., New York." The interior consists of seven shelves in birdseye-maple, supported by gold-plated standards; upon the shelves, tastefully arranged, Messrs. Davids & Co. display their exhibit, comprising their various writing-inks, mucilage, sealing-wax, wafers, lawyers' seals, and pounce and ink powders. In order to obtain all the light possible, two fine corrugated plates of glass are inserted in the top of the case in a slanting position, similar to the gable end of a house. The floor-space is occupied as follows: in the centre and front, in a Russia-leather case richly lined with blue satin, are shown seven silver and bronze medals awarded the firm at former exhibitions. To the right and left of these are fac-similes of a test of inks made by the late eminent chemist, James R. Chilton, M.D., showing the superiority of this firm's inks over many others. Back of the medals, in black letters on a blue ground, are some appropriate lines by Byron; on each side of this legend is a painting in oil similar to the outside of the case, of an inkstand and pens of the middle ages, while above and beneath it are figures representing that "the pen is mightier than the sword." Back of this are gallon and half-gallon jugs of writing inks and fluids, together with copies of "The History of Ink," compiled by the senior member of the firm. On each side of the above-described articles, which completely fill the centre of the floor-space from front to rear, are arranged eighteen different colors of sealing-wax, displaying all the colors of the rainbow, while towering above all are tall wax columns supporting globes upon which stand eagles, like sentinels on duty, with bright American flags crossed behind them. The Messrs. Davids & Co. had this case constructed by the well-known builders, Messrs, W. H. Kirk & Co., of Newark, N. J., who personally attended to its transportation to Philadelphia and safe disposition in he space allotted to it in the Main Building.

Carter, Dinsmore & Co., New York (T 47), have a large ash case decorated with black and gold, in which they show their combined writing and copying inks. In the front of the case are two dragon's heads, made to represent red and black ink constantly flowing, and on the top of the case are the life-size figures of a gentleman sitting on a box where mucilage has been spilled, and a negro trying to pull him up.

Maynard & Noyes, Boston, Mass. (T 47,) exhibit their line of writing, copying, and carmine inks to good advantage.

The Continental Ink Manufacturing Co., Philadelphia (T, 48), exhibit a line of inks and mucilage in a small showcase.

J. Fromberg, Cincinnati, O. (T 48), makes a neat display of writing-inks.

Joseph E. Hoover, Philadelphia (T 48), exhibits his ink and ink-powder in the cheapest manner possible, to the detriment of the appearance of all the other exhibits in his locality.

C. E. Johnson & Co., New York (T 48), display their line of printers' ink in a very handsome showcase.

Geo. Mather's Sons, New York (T 48), exhibit their well-known printers', lithographers', and bookbinders' inks in small glass jars of various shades and colors. This house has not made such an elaborate show in their case as some of the other houses, but they have their ink in use in Machinery Hall, printing copies of the Aldine on Cottrell & Babcock's presses. D. Appleton & Co. are also using ink from this house in printing several of their fine publications on the Hoe presses. In the Campbell's printing pavilion, near Machinery Hall, they are using the ink from this well-known house on all their cylinder and job presses. This is undoubtedly the best way to show the quality of printing-inks, and the trade will see some very fine specimens of printing done with these goods in Machinery Hall and the Campbell press-rooms.

J. Reynolds, Philadelphia (T 48), has a full line of his writing-inks on exhibition.

J. S. Thompson, 737 Broadway, New York (T 48), exhibits a non-erasable record-ink.

INK-STANDS.

Brower Bros., New-York (P 74), have three neat cases filled with various kinds of inkstands in bronze, nickel-plate, verd antique, and gilt; also in pressed and cut glass. These goods are of their own especial designs and manufacture. They also show several of the patent copying-press stands with water-bowl attached, their patent Euroid inkstand, and Adams' permanent letter-file.

Nicholas Muller's Sons (P 76) have a large case with walnut frame panelled with Hungarian and pearl ash. They exhibit a fine line of bronze inkstands, thermometers, and like goods. Their novelty and elegance of design and beauty of finish will compare favorably with those of foreign manufacture. On inspection of their case it will be seen that they are constantly adding new designs. One of the most elaborate of their inkstands is the new Allegorical (No. 636), representing Columbia holding an eagle in her hand, on a base typifying the States of the Union. The thirteen stars in front represent the thirteen original States. On either side are two thermometer inkstands of Gothic design. There are also a large variety of cheap inkstands in neat and tasty designs, made of composition bronze, the bottles principally of cut glass.

LEAD-PENCILS.

The Dixon Crucible Co., Jersey City (P 72), exhibit their goods with the Esterbrook Steel Pen Co. They have four round-front counter-cases arranged at right angles, and a square upright case on the corner of the angle. The cases are filled with lead-pencils of all grades, together with coils of lead, 4000 feet long, as it is run from their machines, leads in lengths for pencils, cedar in blocks and pencil stock in each stage of manufacture until completed. They have a large number of specimens of graphite, out of which is cut an image of Shakespeare, an eagle, a hound, and a hammer. Most of these specimens of graphite come from their works and mines at Ticonderoga, N. Y. On the top of the square case is a graphite retort made for silver-smelting, together with crucibles, stove-polish, etc. At the back of the angle is a standing case of walnut, where very large specimens of Celon and Ticonderoga graphite are exhibited, among which is a natural vein of graphite in the rock as it came from the mine. Hanging above this standing case are several hand drawings executed with the Dixon pencil, one of which was drawn by the daughter of Mr. Cleveland, president of the Dixon Company. In the centre of the platform, and resting on a walnut table, is a very handsome rosewood cabinet with small drawers for displaying samples of pencils to the trade, and containing 1000 pencils, no two alike. Wm. M. Babbitt is representing the goods.

Eberhard Faber, New York (P 73), has a large walnut case, and makes a fine display of lead-pencils of his own American manufacture: rubber bands for stationers, artists' gum rulers, penholders, and copying-brush handles. His exhibit is fine, but lacks a conspicuous position.

The American Lead Pencil Company, New York, has one of the most interesting cases in the stationary department, in front of the book structure (P 74). The case is in plan a series of four octagons, one rising above the other, crowned by a little dome, on which the statue of America holds Amazonian guard. The lower row of cases contains American pencils of every hue, the colored ones handsomely arranged in rainbow blending of shadings, and in every stage of progress from the finished article of this well-known and popular manufacture to the crude graphite. Above these is a series of illustrations in India-ink, further illustrating the manufacture, giving views of the several rooms in their shops. Still above are cards on which their several lines of goods are displayed, and on the upper row stacks of bundled pencils. Against the bottom of the case lean several framed drawings, showing what can be done with the American pencil when there is an American behind it.

The Eagle Pencil Company, New York, has a showy octagonal pyramidal case close by the book department (P 76). The structure is surmounted by a huge mass of graphite, weighing something like half a ton, on the summit of which the American eagle perches, his wings spread as if to carry the huge Eagle office-pencil which he holds in his talons—a peaceful thunderbolt—to the ends of the earth. The lower range of eight cases is filled with a most interesting exhibit of their pencils, in cedar and other woods, examples of the pencil in its different stages of manufacture, leads, copying-brush handles, colored pencils in every imaginable tint, with specimens of the crayon-chalk from which they are made, etc., to an infinity. The upright cases above are filled with their pencils in rows like little organ tubes, and the gable roof is ornamented with more stacks of the Eagle pencils and representations of the medals obtained for them at the Paris and London World Fairs.

PAPER.

THE MOUNT HOLLY PAPER COMPANY, Mount Holly Springs, Pa. (P 73), exhibit a case filled with their ruled and folded papers, together with their patent safety-papers. This exhibit is not so large as some of the others, but is a practical and creditable display.

THE OWEN PAPER CO., Housatonic, Mass. (P 73), represented by W. P. Moreton, exhibit the largest and most varied line of fine writing-papers at the Exposition — all of their own manufacture. They show their goods in flat and in all the cut sizes and wrappings in which they are sold by the manufacturer, the jobber, and the retailer. Among the most notable of their papers are their blank-book and ledger, linen record, linen drawing, wedding royals and folios, extra superfine thin linen for notes, letters, and caps, linen copying-papers, etc., etc. Their showcases are of black walnut, with fine French-plate glass, enclosed by a rail. On one end of the case is a large register, made of their own paper, in which visitors may write their names, and also several blank-books, made up to show the paper of which they are composed.

THE L. L. BROWN PAPER CO., South Adams, Mass. (P 74). occupy a very handsome large case, in which they show their well-known ledger papers piled in a pyramidal form in the centre, alternately "laid" and "wove." A ream of "Antiquarian," 31 x 53 inches, is on the bottom of this pyramid, and all the other sizes down to cap are represented. In each of the corners of the case are smaller piles of linen bond-papers in various thicknesses.

CAMPBELL, HALL & CO., New York (P 74), have a small, neat showcase, in which they exhibit their National Safety Check-paper.

THE CARSON & BROWN PAPER CO., Dalton, Mass. (P 74), show a great column of writing-papers in all the different sizes. They are put up in the usual style of wrappers, and represent the actual goods that this mill is daily shipping.

CHAPIN & GOULD ("Crescent Mills"), Springfield, Mass. (P 74), display their paper in a glass case. Their goods are exhibited in the style in which they are sold from the mill. They do not make so handsome a display as some others, but a very practical one.

CRANE BROS., Westfield, Mass. (P 74), exhibit in a tall pyramid-shaped case their line of bank, ledger, and record paper, in all sizes. Their display is certainly very creditable. They have a photograph of their mills on the top of their case, and also display in the Main Building Annex their Japanese baskets and paper belting, which they claim to be equal in strength to leather. Their paper belt is driving Lockwood's automatic envelope machine in Machinery Hall.

CRANE & CO., Dalton, Mass. (P 74), exhibit a huge pyramid of bank, bond, parchment, map, and tracing papers. Their goods are taken from the ordinary stock which they make at their mill.

L. DEJONGE & CO., New York (P 74), make a very attractive show of fancy-figured, embossed, watered, and plain papers. Their papers are arranged in small rows upon a column of shelves in a cone shape, which is placed upon a handsome walnut base and made to revolve by machinery. The papers are in every shade and color, and attract attention immediately. Lying upon the base are sample books of their various other goods.

JESSUP & MOORE, Philadelphia and New York (P 74), display the material called wood cellulose, but which is more generally known as wood paper. The case in which this is exhibited is of a pentagonal shape, three of the sides having glass fronts, and being quite high. In the case is a large roll of thin paper, 80 inches high, supposed to weigh 1900 pounds. They have other specimens of their papers with maps, charts, periodicals, etc., printed upon them.

MEGARGEE BROS., Philadelphia (P 74), display their goods in a very large and handsome walnut case. Their line consists of envelope-papers in all colors and shades, granite cover-papers, super calendered white and tinted, also fine plated papers. These goods are said to have been taken from their regular stock, and not made expressly to exhibit. They make a very handsome show and are tastefully arranged.

THE NASHUA CARD AND GLAZED PAPER CO., Nashua, N. H. (P 74), exhibit a case of cut cards, and card stock in sheets and rolls, very tastefully arranged. Chas. W. Jencks & Bro., of Providence, exhibit their paper boxes in the same case.

THE PARSONS PAPER CO., Holyoke, Mass. (P 74), have their writing and envelope papers in a massive pile, unwrapped, showing all the various colors which they make. The column is nearly 20 feet high, and shows great skill in the display of so plain a line of goods.

THEO. VAN SKELLINE, Brooklyn, N. Y. (P 74), displays tinted motto-papers in various shapes and designs, which make a pretty show. He exhibits several medals from the different States.

BYRON WESTON, Dalton, Massachusetts (P 76), makes a notable show of his fine ledger papers. They are arranged in a pyramid fourteen feet high on a platform, enclosed with a handsome nickel-plated railing. On the bottom is a huge ream, 5 x 10 feet and weighing 1000 pounds called the Leviathan. The next is the Emperor, 31 x 43, and weighing 200 pounds; the next, a ream of Antiquarian, which is the largest size usually made, and so they run smaller and smaller up to the top, which is a ream of cap. There are several smaller pyramids, making a handsome exhibit. This firm is represented by G. F. Barden.

THE HURLBUT PAPER COMPANY, South Lee,

Mass. (P 75), have a square case standing on a walnut table. They exhibit a number of reams of their flat and folded papers, in their usual style.

THE SEYMOUR PAPER COMPANY, Windsor Locks, Ct.—New York office, 45 John street—(P 75), exhibit in a handsome ashwood case made in desk shape, which shows their goods to advantage. They show their granites, plate, chromo, lithographic, book, and catalogue papers, colored mediums and magazine covers, tinted note and envelope papers, in full-sized flat sheets.

THE SOUTHWORTH COMPANY, Mittineaque, Mass. (P 76), exhibit their full line of bank ledger and first-class writing-papers in notes, letters, and caps. Their papers are displayed loose, and in their different styles of wrappers. The case is of an odd shape, something of the style of a library writing-desk, in black-walnut.

JOSEPH STELWAGON & SON, Philadelphia (P 76), have a large line of roofing and felt papers in rolls on exhibit.

H. V. BUTLER, JR., & CO., Paterson, N. J. (P 77), have a walnut case of "Ivanhoe" flat papers. Among the papers shown are the Ivanhoe French folio, American silk copying-paper, and a fine line of folio post, in a large variety of colors and tints. On the top of the case is a roll of animal-sized writing paper, said to be one half-mile in length. The manner in which these goods are displayed is very creditable.

THE HALDEMAN PAPER CO., Lockland, O. (P 77), exhibit a large line of roofing-papers.

JOHN D. METS, Dubuque, Ia. (P 77), has on exhibition an individual ledger of his patent Indestructible Binding.

T. SEYMOUR SCOTT & BROS., Philadelphia (P 77), exhibit carpet and building paper in a very tasteful manner.

GEO. P. TANGEMAN & CO., Hamilton, O. (P 77), exhibit four rolls of carpet-paper.

TILESTON & HOLLINGSWORTH, Boston (P 77), exhibit in a showy walnut case their fine line of chromo, steel-plate, wood-cut, and calendered plate papers.

THE WHITING PAPER COMPANY, Holyoke, Mass. (P 77), are represented by G. B. Smith, who very readily gives all the information required. Their case occupies a space 12 x 20 feet, and 14 feet high, made of ebony and with fine plate glass, and estimated to cost $5000. At the bottom of the case is a ream of paper 6 x 18 feet, weighing two thousand pounds, with nicely trimmed edges, called the Monarch. On top of that is another ream 5 x 10 feet, together with all the regular sizes, from Antiquarian down. On one end is a pile of fine tinted cardboard, used for wedding-cards, etc. They also have a large line of flat quadrille papers in different tints and thicknesses, colored glazed mediums, notes, letters, and caps of all grades, and bond papers in the flat ream. The whole is arranged in pyramids, and is one of the handsomest displays in the paper department.

PAPER BOXES.

B. OSBORN, Newark, N. J. (P 73), has a line of paper boxes made from Manila stock, and which are intended for ice-cream, candies, etc.

THE AMERICAN PAPER BOX COMPANY, Philadelphia (P 74), exhibit a fine line of paper boxes for druggists, perfumers, stationers, and confectioners.

CORNELL & SHELTON, Birmingham, Ct. (P 74), exhibit in a small case their patent folding paper boxes.

JOHN CROMPTON & CO., Philadelphia (P 74), have a large upright case of stained wood, in which they exhibit a line of paper boxes of various shapes.

HOWLETT, ONDERDONK & CO., Philadelphia (P 76), have a large pyramid of paper bags, in all sizes, on exhibition.

N. M. KERR & CO., New York (P 75), exhibit a fine line of boxes for jewellers' use; also a large line of boxes, of every conceivable form and style, for confectionery, fancy goods, and other purposes. Their showcase is of heavy oak, and of a square shape with bevelled corners; on each corner is a small case containing other varieties of boxes, and on the top is an ornamental dome. They have also a large space in Machinery Hall (Section D 25), where a man and three girls are employed daily making paper boxes.

SCHOOL AND OFFICE FURNITURE.

THE EXCELSIOR SCHOOL FURNITURE COMPANY, Philadelphia (T 52), make a very fine display of school furniture.

A. H. ANDREWS & CO., Chicago, Ill. (T 67), make a fine display of cylinder and other office desks, school furniture of all kinds, together with a fine line of inlaid wood backgammon and chess boards.

SLATES AND SLATE PENCILS.

THE NEW YORK SILICATE SLATE CO. (T 68) occupies a well-filled case and wall-space with its well-known line of goods in the ingenious variety in which they offer them to the trade. Their pocket-slates are something to be grateful for as an every-day convenience. Mr. Jocelyn, the president of the company, and an expert rifleman, furnishes a curiosity which attracts visitors to this case, in a fac-simile of Creedmoor and Morsemere targets, showing his prize shots. The book and stationery trades furnish several champion riflemen.

THE LEHIGH SLATE CO. (T 65) make a handsome exhibit of their school-slates, arranged in all sizes, from the tiny school to the mammoth blackboard-slate. They also exhibit a large variety of marbleized slate mantels, etc. D. C. Pratt, 16 New Church street, is their New York agent.

THE U. S. SOAPSTONE MANUFACTURING CO., Cincinnati (P 76), have a large case filled with soapstone pencils, chalk crayons, etc., in every conceivable shape. Among their specialties are their lava gas-tips.

STATIONERY (GENERAL).

CHAMBERLIN, WHITMORE & CO., New York (P 73), have a very handsome ebonized case, displaying their full line of wedding, visiting, and mourning goods, cut cards and papeteries of exquisite taste. The display of tints and the various shapes in which the goods are sold is complete. Their display is a very tasty and creditable one. Especially noticeable among their various tints are their new steel-wove and artistic cream-satin finish.

Charles J. Cohen, Philadelphia (P 75), exhibits his satinet copying-paper, ever-point leads (well-known throughout the United States), agate stylus, mucilage, and white and tinted envelopes. He has another exhibit in Machinery Hall (Section D, post 26), a new machine for making envelopes complete, excepting the cutting from flat reams. A girl is running this machine, and turning out about 3000 envelopes per hour.

Louis Dreka, Philadelphia (P 73), makes an elaborate display of fine wedding and fancy stationery of his own manufacture. His case is of handsome walnut and plate glass, richly panelled. In each of the three panels in the front of the case are the arms of France, Germany, and the United States, elegantly illuminated, on silk. There are displayed in the case some exquisite samples of illuminating, engraving, and printing. On each side of the case is a large frame with specimens of steel and copper plate engraving ; also illuminated specimens of crests and monograms in various designs. In another showcase, of smaller dimensions, can be seen, tastefully displayed, Dreka's popular Dictionary Blotter, in calf and Russia bindings, one of which is chained to the outside of the case for inspection.

W. H. Hoskins, Philadelphia (P 76), has two rows of counter show-cases facing in opposite directions. They are filled with fine wedding and fancy stationery in all sizes and tints, enticingly tied up with ribbons of various colors. He has also a very fine display of samples stamped with monograms and richly illuminated. On the top of his show-cases are samples of steel and copper plate engraving and printing. His exhibit is in a very conspicuous place, and attracts considerable attention.

Mason & Co., Philadelphia (P 73), directly opposite J. B. Lippincott & Co., have a large counter behind which they keep a steel-plate printer executing orders for cards and other work. On both ends of the counter are showcases in which they display fine stationery highly engraved and illuminated. The panels of their counter bear the crests of Great Britain, the United States, and Germany, and a shield with the monogram of Mason & Co.

Moss & Co., Philadelphia (P 77), display a large line of stationery, comprising fine writing-papers put up in papeteries of various shapes and designs, memorandum and pass books, blank and copying-books, masonic publications in various bindings ; also a fine line of masonic engravings. The goods exhibited are for every-day use, and make a very handsome display.

Tiffany & Co., New York, are located in the centre of the Main Building (N 41). They have an elaborate display of fine stationery. It comprises all the finest lines of paper to be had in the market, beautifully engraved, illuminated, and made up into all the fashionable shapes used. They have a large pavilion, and show jewelry, diamonds, and bronzes. Large crowds are attracted daily to see the diamond necklace, crosses, etc.

STEEL PENS.

The Esterbrook Steel Pen Co., Camden, N. J. (P 72), make the only exhibit of American-made steel and other metallic pens at the International Exhibition. They occupy part of the space with the Dixon Crucible Co., and are represented by E. Walter Giles. Their display is very attractive, and reflects great credit upon the taste and capacity of the company. The exhibit consists of four showcases, 16 feet in length and 6 feet high. In the upper middle case the words " Esterbrook's Metallic Pens, 1851 and 1876," are formed by a unique and beautiful combination of gilt and steel pens. The other cases are filled with pens of different qualities and patterns, in artistic designs, and of various colors, comprising, gilt, silver, black, white, gray, bronze, purple, etc. Pens in every stage of manufacture may also be seen, from the cut blanks to the finished article. The figures 1851 refer to the year when R. Esterbrook & Co. first began their manufacture in the United States. They exhibit some mammoth pens, 12 x 18 inches long, beautifully marked and engraved. The whole display is highly creditable to the company, and shows the wonderful progress which has been made in the manufacture of these little articles of every-day use. The number of styles of pens outnumber those of any European maker, and it is said their pens are equal if not superior to those made abroad.

MISCELLANEOUS.

George M. Eddy & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y. (N 57), have a handsome walnut case in which they show a complete and elegant line of tape-measures from 36 inches long to one or two hundred feet.

Henry Seymour & Co., New York (N 71), make a very handsome display of bankers' and other shears in a neat walnut case.

The Hart, Bliven & Mead Manufacturing Co., New York (P 70), exhibit a fine line of stationers' hardware, comprising letter-clips and files, paper-weights, inkstands, match-safes, twine-boxes, etc., in japanned, figured, iron and bronzed metal, with verd and antique finish.

George W. McGill, New York (P 73), shows his patent fasteners, suspending braces, and other specialties in a handsome walnut case. The upper part of this case is decorated with a star, and underneath are McGill's patent fasteners, etc., forming a fancy border. For such simple articles he has designed a neat and attractive exhibit.

William Croft & Co., New York (P 74), exhibit stencil-plates, rubber stamps, etc., of various sizes.

H. L. Lipman, Philadelphia (P 74), displays his well-known eyelet machines and eyelets in a small walnut case.

R. T. Stoddard, Boston (P 74), has a book-supporter for readers' and students' use.

Dennison & Co., Boston and New York (P 75), display, in a rich octagonal case inlaid with fancy woods, large at the base and of a dome shape, their well-known jewellers' boxes, wedding-cake boxes in great variety, Excelsior sealing-wax, Miller's jewelry-casket, cotton-waste, twine, etc. ; also their Excelsior colored tissue. Against the side of the dome, arranged in the most artistic manner on a black ground, are McGill's fasteners, cloth and gum labels, tags, lawyers' seals, etc. This is one of the most attractive displays in the Exhibition.

Joseph Parker, Son & Co., New Haven, Ct. (P 74), have on exhibition a large pile of their Treasury Blotting Paper, numbering about one hundred reams. They show their blotting-paper in the shape it is usually sold. This is known all over the civilized globe, and ranks A. No. 1. Alongside of the great pile of blotting-paper is a showcase showing the quality and various colors of their paper. On the top of the case is a fine lithograph of their mills. There is to be found constantly exposed samples of white blotting-paper, No. 120.

Koch, Sons & Co., New York (P 76), show in three handsome ebonized cases a fine line of photograph-albums, in all styles and designs of bindings, richly illuminated, and in gold and silver mountings. Their patent leaf for mounting photograph samples upon is noticeable; its principal feature is that the leaf can be removed or inserted in a patent book-cover which accompanies it. Among their exhibit are their patent scrap-books, banker's cases, etc.

W. F. Adams, 59 Murray street, New York (P 77), exhibits Amberg's cabinet of letter-files and binder. This cabinet contains thirty files, marked with the letters of the alphabet, each file having within it an indexicon, thus forming a double index. The method of filing letters in this cabinet is very simple, the usual way being to classify by initial letter of surnames, and index by initial letter of first or Christian names. In firm names the initials of the first and second names are used instead. The Amberg letter-files are in general use.

A. Dougherty, New-York (P 77), has a very handsome panelled walnut case about 5 x 2½ feet, and 9 feet high. He has it filled with all his fine grades of playing-cards, piled in a pyramid form and done up in the usual style of one dozen packs in a package. There are also loose packs showing the different styles of backs and his patent triplicate cards. The artistic manner in arranging these cards is very creditable to the house. The display is crowned with an uncut sheet of cards, showing how they are printed by the pack.

H. B. Nims & Co., Troy, N. Y., in front of the book-trade structure (P 77), display their goods in a handsome walnut and oak case. The case is very tastefully arranged with globes of all sizes and styles, making a very creditable show.

The Union Paste and Sizing Co., 200 Mulberry street, New York (P 77), have a very handsome square upright case in black walnut, with gilt trimmings. The goods inside are tastefully arranged on a circular shelving of a cone shape, with all the different sizes of bottles they use filled with perfumed paste. On each of the four corners are a large and small barrel-shaped jar filled with the same material.

J. W. Scott, New York (P 73), makes a large show of stamp-albums with specimens of postage-stamps from all the civilized countries of the globe.

MACHINERY HALL.

We have already mentioned some of the exhibits in this fascinating department in connection with the publishers. The wood-cut presses of D. Appleton & Co. (Section E 32), and the heliotype presses of James R. Osgood & Co. (Section E 4, 29), are well worthy a visit. There are other presses and machines in connection with the book and stationery trades, of which we shall endeavor to give brief descriptions.

Gustav L. Jaeger, New York (Section D 23), exhibits a very handsome machine for pasting sheets of paper together into board, which he claims will work at the rate of fifteen thousand sheets per day.

George H. Sanborn, New York (Section D 23), makes a beautiful display of this power card or paper cutting machines, one of which is self-clamping. He has a book-trimming machine, and other machinery for bookbinders' use. The latest feature of a stabbing machine is one made by this house, which is run by steam-power, with revolving needles, and is patented.

Samuel Raynor & Co., New York (D 3, Column 25), exhibit their patent envelope gumming and folding machine. The blanks are cut and forwarded to Machinery Hall, where a quantity of about 500 are placed on the feed-table of the machine. This feed-table moves out under the seal-flap gummer, which is a small roller that gums the seal-flap perfectly. The pickers then take the envelope, which is already gummed, and carry it to the folding-box, which is the size of the envelope to be made. A plunger then descends, and at the same time there comes up a movable bed with flappers which folds the envelope as it is carried down through the folding-box. The envelopes are forced into a series of screws which carry them to the bed of the machine, where they are transferred to another set of screws which are reversed, and bring the envelope to the table of the machine, where the girl counts, bands, and boxes them ready for shipping, at the rate of over 3000 an hour. This machine was patented May 26th, 1868, S. Raynor & Co., sole proprietors. They claim this machine to be the most durable, compact, and best gumming machine in the market, making 30,000 perfect envelopes in a day, with but one girl, which is said to be more than any other machine can do. It is to be seen running daily in Machinery Hall.

The Lockwood Manufacturing Company,

Philadelphia (Section D 3, P 27, centre aisle) have a machine called the automatic envelope-machine, which, taking a roll of paper, will make about six thousand envelopes. The paper is placed at one end of the machine, and the first operation is to crease the line of the fold; the sides are then turned over by a small brass thumb, the paper passing along under two wheels which are supplied with paste from a receiver. In passing a short distance farther it is cut off from the roll. The envelope is then forced between two rows of tapes which hold the sides firmly while the paste dries, and the gum is put on the flap by a brush which takes the gum from a revolving wheel. The envelopes are then dried by passing around thirteen pulleys. The gum on the flap being dry, a final fold is then put on, and the envelopes are counted and put in packs of twenty-five each. The machine turns out about one hundred and twenty-five envelopes per minute. They have also an automatic seed-bag or tobacco-envelope machine, which operates similarly to that previously described; and likewise an automatic envelope printing-press, which is said to print sixty thousand envelopes per day (of ten hours), or six times as many as an ordinary printing-press. Mr. E. D. Lockwood, one of the firm, is in attendance every afternoon.

Carver & Brown, Philadelphia (Sec. E 3, Col. 26 and 27), display a number of machines for bookbinders, printers, and card manufacturers. Their power paper-cutter, which is a recent invention, claims special attention for its clamping and narrow cutting. It is so constructed that they can clamp and cut the last half inch of paper or board as well as if it were the original cut. They have also a hand paper-cutter which can be operated entirely from the front. The operator can gauge, clamp, and cut the paper without moving from the front table of the machine. It also has an adjustment for altering the velocity of the knife in cutting by simply pulling out or pushing in a pin. The clamp on this machine is so constructed that if paper is put under one end only, it will not tilt or put any additional strain on the screw. They have also very ingenious machinery for fringing motto-paper. Another of their specialties is an adjustable card-cutting machine, making cards to any size required.

Moonert & Roschert Press Co., Syracuse, N. Y. (Section E 5, Column 39), exhibit a copying-press for railroad use, giving a pressure of 20 tons; also various standing-presses for bookbinders' use.

Hoffman & Hoyt, Evening Post Building, New York (Section E 5, Column 40), have five of their compound lever copying-presses on exhibition, in sizes of 9 x 11, 10 x 12, 12 x 16, 14 x 18, 20 x 27. These presses are particularly adapted for insurance, railway, and express companies, as they can be operated in the quickest and simplest manner, giving any amount of pressure required. They claim this to be the best press in the market.

The Standard Machine Co., Mystic River, Ct. (Section E 5, Column 40), exhibit a number of machines for bookbinders' use, among which is a 37-inch automatic power paper-cutter, patented January, 1876. It seems to be a very simple and practical machine. Their automatic book-trimmer is worth noticing. It clamps the books in the usual way. By touching the shipper-handle the machine is set in motion. The table is carried up under the knife, which then comes down and trims one side of the book; the table then recedes and at the same time revolves one quarter, and is again carried up, and another side of the book is trimmed. This operation is repeated until the book is perfectly trimmed. The machine is made to take in any size book from quarto down. They also exhibit a roller backing-machine, with power attachment for rounding the backs of books. It does the work with great rapidity, and saves the hard labor used in operating hand machines. This patent was taken out December, 1875.

W. F. Murphy, Philadelphia, is making a large display in Machinery Hall (Section E 34), where he has a bindery and printing establishment in complete running order, with all the machinery of the most recent date and improved design, as follows: Ruling-machine, stand-press, and board-cutter, made by W. O. Hickok, Harrisburg, Pa; a paging and numbering machine and stabbing machine, made by J. R. Hoole, New York; Wm. Bradwood's book-folding machine; Carver & Brown's cutting and paper-perforating machines; and two Gordon presses.

John A. Parks, New York (Section F 3, Column 24), exhibits an entirely new steam-power lithographic press. It is of the Scraper pattern and handsomely finished, and is warranted to do as fine work as any done by hand. This is the result of his experience of thirty years in the manufacture of lithographic presses, which are well known throughout the trade. This press is made for fine work, and has proved an entire success. He also exhibits his improved hand lithographic press.

The Gavit Machine Works, Philadelphia. (Section F 9, Columns 65 to 75) exhibit a Fourdrinier paper-machine 72 inches wide and about 75 feet long. This machine is run every afternoon by the Riverside Paper-Mills, Riverside, Pa., and is the only paper-making machine in the Exposition. The above mills are running book paper on this machine, but any other paper that is made can be run just as well. Below is a description of the process.

The prepared rags are brought from Riverside and operated by W. C. Hamilton & Son. The half-stuff is put into a Gould beating-engine (made by Holyoke Machine Co.) and ground very fine. It is then emptied into a reservoir, and from there the pulp is pumped into the machine and made to pass through a fine screen made of brass plates, which takes out the dirt, etc. The pulp is then conveyed to a wire cloth which passes over two section-boxes, where the surplus water is taken out. It then passes under the dandy roll, where the paper is made, either wove or laid, and from there it passes between cooch rolls, made of copper and covered with a woollen jacket. The paper is then taken on a wet felt and run between what is known as first-press rolls, from there it is taken on what is known as the short felt, and passed between the second-press rolls, thence to the dryers, six in number, each heated by steam. After the paper is perfectly dried it is run through seven chilled-iron calender rollers, where it is made smooth and wound on reels. The reels are placed on a cone-pulley cutter, and there cut into sheets of any desired length.

Cottrell & Babcock, New York (Section F. 3 column 26), exhibit a new stop-cylinder press. The advantage which they claim over all others is a massive arch-girt forming a solid foundation for the bed and binding the side-frames together, thus preventing even the possibility of springing. It also has a patent roller-frame by which the distributing rollers are readily raised from the form rollers, so facilitating the instant removal of any one. Another valuable improvement for which they have a patent is their sheet-delivery wheels for carrying the sheets out from the impression cylinder to the fly without the use of tapes, or without touching any portion of the printed matter. The general appearance of this press is excellent. They have also another press which they call a two-roller first-class drum, with the well-known air-spring improvement, the governor attachment, geared slides, patent turn-over stand for readily releasing the rollers, patent friction attachment for regulating the momentum of the cylinder, patent sheet-delivery, and, last, the noiseless gripper. The press, although running at the rate of twelve hundred impressions per hour, is almost noiseless, and is very apt to deceive a person as to the speed with which it is running. This press is also very neat in appearance, as well as one of the most serviceable. We understand that all the improvements were made by C. B. Cottrell. Their house is represented by E. A. Blake.

FRANCE.

The display of the French Cercle de la Librairie and of individual publishers occupies the large space from pillars F–H, 47–49. The arrangement is simply an interior, and therefore does not admit of illustration; we can only give, therefore, a ground-plan of the arrangement of cases. The outer side of the walls is used as wall-space for other departments, most of the space being covered with tapestries. Inside the department is very simple in color—for there is no decoration—and in plan. The cases are plain back, with names gilded, after the style set by the French Commissioners, and the walls are of a salmon tint, on which, in the Cercle department, the names of its exhibitors are blazoned in gold. M. Ed. Terquem, a courteous French bookseller, who was for some time in New York and understands our trade as well as our language, represents the Cercle and most of the individual publishers, also some of the stationers exhibiting. The French exhibit does not at first sight strike the visitor as remarkable, but as he becomes acquainted with it, it proves the finest collection of books in the building. Our printers, publishers, and binders will find much to learn from the goods here exhibited, some of which are sumptuous works, seldom or never brought to this country, though with the most of them we are familiar. It is estimated that the collection is worth about $20,000, and nearly half the exhibit has been sold outright for the library of the new John Hopkins University, whose president, Professor Gilman, is one of the jurors in education. Other sales have also been made, to a considerable amount, so that the display is commercially as well as otherwise a success. The exhibit has attracted much attention, and received the other day a long visit from the Brazilian Emperor, who proved himself remarkably learned and au courant as to French works. It is to be hoped the American trade will give it as careful attention.

Hachette et Cie., the leading publishing house of France, and rivalling with Brockhaus as the leading publishers of the world, have by far the finest individual exhibit, admirably arranged and railed off at one side of the apartment. M. René Fouret, of the house, is one of the international jury, and they have taken special pains to prepare fully for this exhibition. There can be had on application a handsome pamphlet, in English, giving a history of the house, a descriptive notice of its publications, and some information as to forthcoming works. The house does not manufacture, in the sense of having its own printing establishment, but the display it makes is the best proof of the position that publishing depends not upon who owns the printing-presses, but upon who puts the brains into the work. The Hachette house was originally educational, and its lines of books for school use, as well as its popular libraries, the "Popular Editions," "Mixed Library," "Library of Wonders," "Rose Library" (for children), etc., and the books published for the army, are still among its most important features. But of late years it has made itself foremost in grand illustrated works, the finest produced in the world, of which Bida's Gospels and Book of Ruth rightly occupy the central place in the exhibit. Their beauty of text and etchings cannot be surpassed. On either side of this showcase are Doré's London and Wey's Rome, exemplifying woodcut illustration at its best. The centre wall-space is occupied by displayed engravings from this class of works; while on either side two large bookcases contain their standard works, among which Littré's Dictionary is pre-eminent, but which include also a wonderful variety of encyclopedic works and the best productions of French literature. The bindings of some of these should be especially noted: they are in absolutely plain crushed levant, of which the dark colors are peculiarly rich, and this simplicity gives an elegance which is perfection itself. Smaller cuts from their books are displayed at either end of the exhibit.

Veuve A. Morel et Cie., leading architectural publishers, have a fine show of sumptuous works, mostly folios and bound in the favorite French fashion of half-red morocco, half cloth. These books are ranged on open shelves in the centre of their space, from which extends on each side a broad inclined shelf, covered with green cloth, on which they may be laid out for inspection, the wall space above being occupied by displayed plates from the works. This arrangement proves practically very successful; the ordinary visitor feels restrained from taking down the books, while the bookworm readily understands that they are at his service. The special triumph of this house is in its color-printing, of which the superb volume on "Arabic Art" is the finest example. The lithographic and other illustrations of these splendid works, in all departments of architecture, are scarcely less noteworthy.

A. Ducher et Cie., only second to Morel in their architectural publications, of which they also make a specialty, have another superb line of their works, similarly shown. They have a special representative here in Mr. Robert Nordblom. One of their finest works is the descriptive work on "The New Opera House in Paris," with the finest photographs giving full architectural and art details. The work on the Suez Canal is also remarkable. The "Grands Prix d'Architecture" is exceedingly valuable, containing all the competing designs which have received first premiums from the Academy of Architecture. They are the publishers of the works of M. Cesar Daly, editor of "The Architect's Library," and one of the foremost of French architects.

Dunod, who is the leader in works on engineering and mining, sends a good collection in these lines. These are illustrated with drawings admirably clear in detail. This publisher issues the Bibliothèque illustrée de l'ingénieur et de l'architecture, complete at 5000 francs, and a number of important periodicals, the Annales des Mines, started in 1795, Annales télégraphiques, and Annales des ponts et chaussées.

Charpentier et Cie., world renowned for their popularization of literature through their publishing enterprises, make an exhibit imposing not in variety of display, but in usefulness. Here are to be found, strictly uniform in shape (like Bohn's), in the familiar yellow-paper covers, (very unlike the American yellow cover), the long lines of their Bibliothèque Charpentier, a collection of six hundred volumes at the uniform price of 3½ francs, containing the best works of foreign as well as French literature, a library as cheap and nearly as extensive as the Bohn series. The only American representatives in this are, curiously, Channing and Mrs. Stowe, but the house also publishes and exhibits several works on America, Chotteau's Les Français en Amérique, etc. They also exhibit lovely little volumes, such as the works of De Musset, illustrated with the most exquisite of etchings, and other lines worth examining with critical care.

Jouaust, who makes a specialty of the reprints of early classics, in editions de luxe, has a beautiful series of specimen works in his case, such as won medals at Paris and Vienna. These are most beautiful specimens of bookmaking, in their rich paper, clean Elzevirean typography, and exquisite illustrations, in which again etching, of the finest character, is chiefly employed. The head-pieces in etching, such as those in the Paul et Virginie, are particularly delightful. Several memoirs of the stage, and the miniature library of facetiæ, may also be noted.

The house of Gauthier-Villars, whose specialty is the presentation of mathematical works in superb typography and with extreme accuracy of text, are also worthily represented. Here will be shown, by M. Terquem, as typical of the progress of book-making in this specialty, the first edition of La Grange's great work alongside the latest: they seem much more than a century apart. The fineness of the color and black work in the illustrations to Father Secchi's volume on the sun is remarkable, and the exquisite taste with which the specimen pages displayed are framed are worthy of notice.

J. Rothschild, whose chef d'œuvre is Alphand's great work on the "Promenades de Paris," which is known to most connoisseurs in this country as a triumph of art-books, shows this and other publications only less magnificent. "The Column of Trajan," with fine photographic plates, is another of these, and they include a great variety of works on the fine arts and architecture. M. A. Lutton, who is to be found at the French art pavilion, is the special representative of this house.

Ch. Delagrave, who leads in geographical publications, exhibits a fine line of these, including globes and maps. Among the latter is a large relief-map of France, taken by intelligent visitors for a help to the blind. M. Delagrave publishes for the Geographical Society of France, and also issues the works of M. Levasseur, the delegate and geographer, who is a member of the international jury. A line of classical works is also on his catalogue.

J. Baudry is another publisher who makes engineering and architecture a specialty, a class peculiarly well represented at Philadelphia. Besides his excellent books, he shows their illustrations tastefully displayed in a large frame. Among M. Baudry's publications is the journal La Mode Universelle.

The house of Bouasse-Lebel confines itself chiefly to lithographic and fancy cards for Catholic devotional purposes, and of these they exhibit a wonderful variety in all styles, costing from 5 cents to $3 per dozen. Those in fancy tissues, pull-out fashion, like our valentines, are especially gorgeous and curious. The Catholic trade will do well to examine these goods, with the help of M. Terquem.

We reach now the collective exhibit proper, that of the Cercle de la Librairie, which occupies half of the east side and also a case opposite, the latter including a display of printing-inks from Chs. Lorilleux et Cie., who make a very creditable show, the products of the type-foundries, engravers, etc., a class of manufacturers which, as well as publishers proper, is to some extent included in the Cercle. This organization is an important one in France, and it publishes weekly the official Bibliographie de la France, with its Chronique for such news as it gives and Feuilleton for advertisements, a publication that should have been more prominently brought forward in the exhibit. A neat catalogue, giving, by publishers alphabetically, one or two pages each, a list of the most notable books exhibited by each, has been printed by the Cercle, but had not yet arrived; on a table inside the railing the catalogues of the individual firms may now be found. The general catalogue will not be so pretty as the exquisite one prepared for the Vienna Exposition, but it will be a great help in viewing the general display.

Most prominent among the exhibitors in the Cercle space is the house (at Tours) of A. Mame et Cie., who publish especially Catholic works. One of the most interesting of their volumes is a description and illustrated account, in édition de luxe, of their establishment and its products, prepared for the exhibition at Vienna. Among their chief books are the Doré Bible, a superb mass service in quarto, on parchment paper, bound in crushed levant, with steel mountings, a miniature devotional library, in lovely bindings, etc. Firmin-Didot et Cie. show but a few books out of their immense stock, their fine lines of French and ancient classics being among the missing. The Firmin-Didot exhibit includes their superb Ornament-Polychrome, the Jesus Christ, Jeanne d'Arc, Lacroix's works, and the like, with their splendid illustrations in chromo-lithrography and wood-engraving; and samples of their exquisite miniature editions of Horace, Virgil, and others of the classics, the quintessence of book-making. Reinwald has an interesting exhibit, chiefly of scientific books, including Darwin, and among his miscellaneous books Bret Harte is to be noted. Dumaine shows his military works. The names of other contributors will be found in the list, and we regret that we can not afford individual treatment to each one.

In the next section, to the east of this department, A. Ballue, Paris, exhibits his art publications, in which he is represented by Lindsay & Baker, Philadelphia. They include that sumptuous periodical, L'Art, and superb art works, with etching illustrations, by René Ménard and others.

A little further along is the case of M. Lortic, artist-binder, of Paris, who displays by all means the finest collection of bindings in the Exhibition—a display which has rather startled the American competitors in the lines represented by him. The special points to be noted are the "scholarship" of these bindings, the fineness of their patterns, both in inlaid work and in toolings, and the exquisite finish of the latter work. The house makes a specialty of binding books in the style of the century with which, by date or character, they are associated. Here, for instance, is Balbus de Janua' Catholicon, of the fifteenth century, in a superb binding of that era, which has required six months' uninterrupted labor. The house has also designed a peculiar "nineteenth-century" style, of which the finest example shown is a copy of Montesquieu's "Le Temple de Gnide," in quarto, the binding of which cost 3000 francs. It is all in fine checker-work, each alternate checker holding a rose, the petals of which are in inlaid leather of different colors; the ground-work and other checkers are in the finest tooling imaginable. No one at all versed in bindings can afford to pass this case without giving it careful examination.

The French have also an excellent stationery display, collected in the section next east from the book department, and in those still farther east. The fineness of their goods is worthy of special attention.

Blanchet frères & Kleber, of Paris, France, represented in this country by Willy Wallach (who represents also the albumenized paper shown by Trapp & Munch, in the photographic hall), have a most beautiful display of their fine papers. The papier Chiné français shown by them, for éditions de luxe, is among the finest paper shown in the whole exhibition. They also show writing-papers, envelopes, etc., of the first quality, and of most lovely tints.

Gonthier-Dreyfuss have one of the most remarkable shows of blank-books in the building. They are superb, in undressed leather of various colors, the edges in nickel, brass, or other metal, so that the usual canvas cover is not needed for their durability. They show also other lines of blank-books, copying-inks, wax, and other lines of stationery.

Bourgeois has a very beautiful exhibit of crayons and other colors, arranged so as to display the articles in the most tasteful combinations.

Doubourget shows a large case in the centre of the section filled with an extraordinary variety of fancy inkstands, those in steel bronze being particularly beautiful. Our own makers have no need to be ashamed, nevertheless, alongside of this exhibit. Letter-clips, etc., are also shown, and a number of medals brought away from other large exhibitions.

Hayman frères (Vosges) show paper bags, of their folded corner pattern, in almost every possible size and color.

Aug. Godchaux et Cie. exhibit illustrations of their method of printing on both sides at once from a continuous roll, with a picture of the upright press on which the work is done.

Plateau shows his "Encrigene," or ink-making material, of which one sheet to a glass of water is said to produce an excellent quality of ink, in red, blue, black, green, violet, magenta, or copying.

Larenaudieu exhibits a full line of the Guyot inks, of all tints, put up in pottery bottles.

Toiray-Maurin shows his Syrienne and Parisienne inks, etc., put up in pottery and glass of various odd shapes, also sealing-wax, etc.

L. Antoine fils (represented by Aug. Bucherer) show full lines of their celebrated writing and copying inks, and mucilage, making an excellent display.

E. Panier shows drawing materials (instruments, etc.) of the finest quality; his American agent is W. H. W. Campbell, Norwich, Ct.

Blanzy-Poure et Cie. have a case of steel pens and penholders finely displayed.

The Papeterie Maguet has a remarkably beautiful exhibit of monograms, and the new papier filagramme, in which a faint tracing of large monograms, presenting almost the appearance of water-mark, takes the place of the usual illuminated or stamped device.

THE German book trade is collectively represented by a very satisfactory exhibit, its structure occupying a space of 64 x 30 feet, at T 35–38. The pavilion is an unroofed enclosure, furnishing outside and inside abundant counter and wall space. We present a sketch after a photograph taken from the north-east, which will give some imperfect idea of its appearance; also a ground-plan, showing the positions of the leading classes or publishers. It was impossible, in a collection not classified strictly one way or the other, to present all the names on the plan. The pavilion is in excellent taste, in black wood relieved with gilt ornamentation and lettering, the wall space and counters being covered with a drab cloth, finished with a Greek pattern in black, the gray color setting off the books, of which most of the larger ones are in the favorite red, with admirable effect. The walls are about twelve feet high, and at the angles rise staves, supporting a green garland which is festooned about the structure. They have sloping counters, five feet in width, projecting on the outside as well as the inside, so that the space is made the most of. Inside are three octagon tables for books, with square pedestals rising from them, on which are placed a variety of globes. Four sets of standards with revolving leaves for the display of engravings, etc., were also intended to be placed within; but as this crowded the interior, they have mostly been placed just outside, to the west. The doorways, which are surmounted by the German eagle, were to be two on each of the long fronts, at either side of the central division, and in the corners were to be windows, through which the interior might be seen, part of the space being occupied with little towers, having book-shelves on each side and surmounted with busts of pioneers in the trade arts. It was found desirable, however, to turn the windows on the main face, that toward the north, into doors, two busts being therefore placed on each of the back towers. These are of Gutenberg, the inventor of printing; Dürer, the father of illustration on wood; Sennefelder, the discoverer of lithography, and König, the inventor of the German Schnellpresse, or machine press.

Around the cornice of the structure is to be noted one of its most interesting features, the proverbs in various languages, which are displayed over each wall-space. These are: Man soll nicht das Buch richten nach dem Titel. (You may not judge the book from its title.) Mit Büchern ist gut Freundschaft halten. (With books good friendship is held.) Viel Bücher machens ist kein Ende. (Of the making of many books there is no end.) Μεγα βιβλιον μεγα κακον. (A great book is a great evil.) Bücher machen Narren und Weise. (Books make fools and wise men.) Der Buchstabe tödtet, aber der Geist macht lebendig. (The letter killeth, the spirit giveth life.) Il libro serrato non fa l'uomo litterato. (The book closed does not make the man of letters.) A book is a friend who has no end [sic].) These are on the interior; outside are: Das Urtheil ist nicht leicht; das Buch hat viele Seiten. (The judgment is not easy; books have many pages.) Nullus liber tam malus est, quin parte aliqua prodesse queat.—Plinius. (No book is so bad but that in some part it may be productive.) Die Feder ist mächtiger als das Schwert. (The pen is mightier than the sword.) Die Kritik ist leicht, die Kunst ist schwer. (Criticism is easy; art is difficult.) Wer unberedet wünscht zu bleiben, der muss schweigen. (Who would remain uncriticised must be silent.) Ein gutes Buch lobt sich selbst. (A good book is its own praise.) Der guten Bücher ist noch nie keinmal zu viel gewesen. (Of good books there have never yet been too many.—Old German.) Ohne Bücher ist böse studiren. (Without books it's hard studying.)

The German book exhibit is under the charge of Herr A. Mentzel, himself a publisher of Leipsic and an exhibitor. It is arranged, as we have suggested, rather for convenience in placing than by publisher or class, although, as far as possible, the books of any individual publisher are kept together. It is the most easy of examination of any of the book exhibits, for the books are not only before you uncased, but the counters are of just the right height to permit of examining the books comfortably, when the visitor is seated at his leisure. There is of course a drawback—that the books are likely to be much injured by general handling, as some have already been. It is also comparatively easy to make off with them; several volumes are already missing, and one visitor was caught in the act of carrying a valuable book of plates off under her arm.

The collection is very varied, including nearly all the branches cognate to the field of the book trade union—type-founding, music-publishing, wood-engraving, and chromo-lithography. Although some leading houses are missing, the exhibit is very general, 145 being entered in all. A neat catalogue was prepared by the Börsenverein at the time of the "proof-exhibition" of the structure and its contents, made at Leipsic, and after much delay copies have at last arrived. Catalogues of individual publishers may also be found on the shelves at one of the rear doorways. In the general German catalogue there will be found interesting descriptive data concerning the German book trade. In regard to the general characteristics of this exhibit, the best illustration is that in water-color chromo and in wood-engraving, in which latter the German school has always been pre-eminent for its virile strength. The typography is of course very fine in the sumptuous works which do such credit to German art-publishing, but in the average book it is scarcely so good as our own, while in cloth bindings the Germans are, as a rule, much behind us. This is largely owing to the prevalence of paper covers, which promotes good work in fine binding, but not in cloth. Unfortunately, little fine work is shown. As to specialties, the counter of the music publishers is an interesting feature, for the firms represented, such as Breitkopf & Haertel, C. L. Peters, etc., are the great music publishers of the world, which have just given us the works of the masters. The type-foundry work shows a considerable variety of letter, though the German character proper, which is fast giving way to the Roman, especially in scientific books, does not admit of the varied treatment of the latter. Bauer, Frankfort, shows the original stamps and punches for a new job Gothic, cut expressly for the Centennial Exhibition. The maps are very fine, especially, of course, in their scholarly accuracy, but the school-books do not compare with our own. There is the same contrast between the art-work and the children's toy-books; Germany has some of the best artists for children, yet the colored toy-books here shown are crude in color and not nearly so good as the English. But the art publications are extraordinarily fine, both such works as the fine chromo, "The Young Fortune-Teller," whose original, alongside of it, can scarcely be told apart, Carl Werner's Nile sketches, etc., exhibited by Seitz, etc., and the books of illustrations such as Ackermann of Munich shows, in his "Reiche Kappelle," etc. The wood-engraving is shown especially at the north-western corner, and is remarkably good; among it are cuts from the house of Brend'amour, Düsseldorf, which won the Vienna medal in this branch. The specimens of photographic and zinc reproduction should also be noted.

We would, however, call the particular attention of the American trade to the specialty of bibliography, in which the Germans surpass all other countries. The publishers in this department are first the Börsenverein itself, which publishes daily the Börsenblatt, in which all titles are officially registered, and announcements made. Next comes Hinrichs, who publishes first a weekly alphabetical collection of titles; then a monthly classified compilation of them; then a half-yearly catalogue, alphabetical, with classified index, the chief reliance of the German trade. Every five years these are collected into a one-alphabet list for that time, and recently, the demand for some of these five-yearly volumes having exhausted the supply, a fifteen-year volume, in one alphabet, has been issued. The Hinrichs' semi-annuals now number 155 volumes. of which the later ones are shown. Next comes T. O. Weigel, who has "Kayser's Complete Book Lexicon" on exhibition; this includes, in 18 volumes of different periods, every book issued in Germany from 1750 to 1870. It should be remembered by our own trade, that all the current bibliography of Germany is based on the books themselves, which are sent, usually with extra title-pages, to the recognized recording offices. Mr. Weigel, we should add, is also an author; his "Beginnings of the Art of Printing," in two folio volumes, also in the collection, is an important feature of the very specialty we are treating of. Finally comes O. A. Schulz, with his annual address-book of the German book trade, printed every year since 1839, giving all the trade in double classification, making a volume of 700 pages. Mr. Schulz also shows his portraits of eminent German publishers. This bibliographical exhibit should be carefully studied by our trade, and we would suggest to Mr. Mentzel that, at least during the Convention, publications in this specialty should be collected together upon one counter, so arranged as to show their regular sequence under the German system.

Of individual displays, the finest is naturally made by the foremost German house, that of F. A. Brockhaus, Leipsic, Berlin, and Vienna. Although established so late as 1805, in Amsterdam, this house is now the largest in the world, and presents the most varied line of industries in this department. The central house in Leipsic publishes, acts as commissioner (or jobbing agent) for a great number of houses, prints its own books as well as many for other publishers, binds the books, includes departments for steel, copper, and wood engraving, lithographic and other like work, and finally manufactures its own type—a very fair example of the concentration of the German trade at Leipsic. This house exhibits at the western end, outside, a representative line of its varied works, headed by that huge volume, the illustrations to Schlagentweit's great work, about 4 ft. by 2½ in size. Here also is the great Conversations-Lexikon. the corner-stone of the house and the household authority of Germany; its fifteen volumes cost there but $25, and it is already in its twelfth edition. Here, too, are the great Shakespeare, Goethe, Schiller, and Lessing Galleries, with their suberb illustrations; the long lines of foreign works, in every tongue, of which this house makes a specialty; besides the volumes in Germany's own literature in which their catalogue is so full.

We may next mention Cotta, of Stuttgart, represented here by E. F. Steinacker as well as by Herr Mentzel. This house, though surpassed in quantity of late years by the Brockhaus establishment, still remains the great publishing exponent of the magnificent German literature. It was founded more than two centuries ago, in 1640, and has been in direct relations with most of the great German authors. Until a few years back, when the copyrights expired, it held the exclusive rights to Goethe's and Schiller's works. Its display is, nevertheless, not very extensive; it shows several editions of these writers, of Uhland and the other German classics, and some of the scientific works in which the house has found its later specialty.

Justus Perthes, Gotha, the greatest of geographical publishers, occupies a good space with his interesting display of maps, atlases, and geographical works, which won him a diploma of honor at Vienna.

Karl Baedeker, the publisher of world-known guides, issued here, by arrangement, by Messrs. Jas. R. Osgood & Co., exhibits a full line of his itineraries in one of the front doorways.

That friend of English readers outside of England, B. Tauchnitz, is represented with a line of his remarkable series of reprints.

We are sorry that our friend, young Auerbach, has not put in his yet modest line of publications. But were we to attempt to mention individually even the leading publishers here represented, we should run quite beyond bounds. We will note further only that among the interesting establishments represented is the publishing and printing house of the Orphan Asylum, at Halle, founded in 1698; that the journals of the book centre are also represented, of which the Leipziger Zeitung dates back to 1660; and that Herr Mentzel, the publisher in charge, is represented by books on botany and free-thinking. We advise the trade to give at least as careful an examination to this exhibit as did our cousin of Brazil, who has made several visits, the first of which was so very incog. that he was funnily put aside in his queries because some lady visitors claimed the prior rights of their sex. We can not close without expressing thanks to the German as to other foreign trades who have contributed, at so much cost, to this department of our world's fair. The sales which have been made, though they amount to something, are neither motive nor recompense for this pleasant act of friendship, which is both unselfish and wise. We hope American publishers will not fail to reciprocate in future exhibitions abroad, for the spread of such feeling will do much for the elevation of our own trade above the plane of mere pecuniary success.

The German exhibit of stationery embraces a considerable variety, located mainly to the west of the German book-trade structure. The finest display is made by the pencil manufacturers, headed, of course, by the house known wherever pencils have been heard of. Their exhibit therefore demands first attention.

The house of A. W. Faber & Co. virtually exhibits in two departments. The display of the parent or foreign house, in the German department, is arranged in a neat showcase, consisting of an upright case 24 feet long divided in six sections by mirrors, together with flat showcases (all of rosewood) placed in front of the upright case. In the upright case are all the varied lines of this world-known concern, beginning at the left hand with artists' materials, crayons, etc.; the centre sections filled with a very fine exhibit of their many-colored and various lead-pencils; the slates, the right hand. Each section is completely filled with the goods of its appropriate class, any detailed description of which would far exceed the limits of this article. We get some idea of the details of the business from the flat showcases, one of which fronts each section of the upright case, and is filled with single samples of the goods that are shown in larger quantity in the large case. The whole is surmounted by a handsome sign of carved rosewood, appropriately ornamented, and lettered with the addresses of the principal branches, on either side of the sign of the parent factory.

Next comes the other great house of Schwanhaüsser, of Nuremberg, formerly Grossberger & King. The display is very handsome, and in allusion to the name of the house, it is surmounted by a swan. The case is very noteworthy, being not only very large, but exceptional for the rich carving with which it is elaborately adorned. Here are shown lead-pencils and artists' pencils in every conceivable variety of style and color, gum, chalk, slate-pencils, copying-pencils, and drawing materials of all sorts. The display makes a friendly rivalry with the older house.

The Munich-Dachau Machine Paper Co., Munich, show a considerable and interesting line of papers, of which their fine tissues are most noticeable. They make a specialty of papers for artificial flowers and like purposes, but show also a variety of writing, printing, and letter papers. This house turns out 200 cwt. of paper a day.

Herm. Schölt, of Rhenish Prussia, has a fine large case of fancy papers, smooth-pressed in all styles, especially intended for furnishing and decorating boxes for fine goods. His silver papers and fancy patterns are a specialty.

C. F. Meissner & Son also make a notable display of papers and fibres; their papers are largely made of 75 per cent of cellulose, or wood fibre, 15 cotton rags, and 10 china clay. The variety shown is considerable.

Mr. Mayer makes a very showy and beautiful display of envelopes with illuminated monograms.

Ed. Büttner & Co. show especially lines of dance-cards and other fancy cards, and little chromos.

H. Pensel & Co. are large manufacturers of slates, employing in this specialty alone 45 workmen in their manufactory at Ludwigstadt.

The Joint Stock Co. of the United Stralsund Playing Cards establishments, uniting several previous houses, have cards for all sorts of games very curiously but cleverly displayed.

Among other exhibits catalogued, but of which we have no special notes, are Ed. Beyer, writing and fancy inks; three houses, Lochbaum, Knipp, and Vité, who show albums and pattern work; Heinitz & Sickelson, fancy papers; König & Ebhardt, blank-books in Russia and hogskin; and Rulfuss, also blank-books of various sorts. The German stationers are generally represented at Philadelphia by the agency of Schmidt & Grüninger.

NETHERLANDS.

THE exhibit of the Netherlands Booksellers' Association is one of the chief book features of the Exhibition, and differs from all the others in being classified entirely by subjects. The spirit which animated our Dutch brethren is best shown by a quotation from the preface to their catalogue, which says: "The Association of Booksellers in the Netherlands is convinced that the best method of extending and promoting the interests of the trade is, to promulgate as much as possible in foreign parts an accurate knowledge of the works issued and dealt in. In furtherance of this object, it has been deemed advisable, for the benefit of visitors to the Philadelphia Exhibition, to form a collection of original Dutch books, for the greater part of later date, remarkable for their contents or for the form in which they have appeared, and sent in by a great number of publishers." "In order to afford an easy sight of the whole," the different subjects have been systematically classified and arranged on the shelves (large illustrated works of course excepted), and in like order in the catalogue. Each book is numbered on the sheet opposite the title-page by its catalogue number, and in the latter the price is given. The catalogue itself, an octavo of 237 pages, is very neat, giving the full titles in Dutch of all the 2098 entries of books and 235 additional of periodicals. The exhibit has been prepared under the direction of D. A. Thieme, Chairman; N. G. van Kampen, Secretary; and C. L. Brinkman, Jan D. Brouwer, B. Van Dijk, and Tj. van Holkema, Executive Committee of the Netherlands Booksellers' Association. It is under charge of Mr. C. L. Brinkman, Jr., son of the leading Amsterdam publisher who heads the Committee, by whom the visitor is sure to be received courteously.

It is in the spirit of the preface quoted that these publishers, numbering 126, have surrendered their individuality to thus exhibit the Dutch book production in its best light. The neat pavilion which they have erected (N 63-64) occupies a space of about 20 feet by 10, and is about 10 feet high. Its general plan is of three sides of an interior, the front space being occupied by a square ornamental showcase. The whole pavilion is in a lavender gray, ornamented with brown and decorated in gilt. The finishing ornaments above are peculiarly Hollandish. The centre case contains a pyramidal display of illustrated and other leading works—the Bible illustrated by Doré, the History of the Netherlands, and, above all, the works of Vondel, the Dutch Shakespeare, crowned by his bust. On the cornice of this case are smaller busts of noted Dutch authors, Van Lennep, Tollens, Vondel again, and Bilderdijk. The shelves on the front at either side are occupied with school-books proper.

The department of bibliography occupies the first division of the catalogue, and should receive especial attention. C. L. Brinkman publishes and exhibits Alphabetical Title-lists of Dutch books, the three volumes—1790 to 1862—in quarto, at 15 florins, or $6, and annual volumes since 1846 in small octavo, at 1 florin, or 40 cents, yearly. We note also several historical and practical works on the printing art; Nyhoff's Bibliotheca juridica; Asher's essay on the Dutch books and pamphlets relating to New Netherlands; Fred. Muller's Catalogue of Books, maps and plates on America and early voyages, an essay toward a Dutch-American bibliography offered at 8 florins, etc.

In theology are to be noted two fine editions of the Doré Bible, and also an important series of works on The Religions of the World, in twelve volumes, quarto, by Dr. Meijboom, Holland's leading theological writer of the time, and others, published by Kruseman and Willink, Haarlem. The display in law is of course good, for the Hollandish have always been foremost apostles in "states right," and they naturally display Grotius with some pride. In history, the works on the Netherlands themselves are patriotically many, and in colonial geography the publications of the Royal Society for the ethnology and philology of the Dutch possessions in the Indian archipelago include a remarkable series of works, foremost among which is Schwaner's Borneo, in two large volumes with colored plates. An important bibliographical work is classified under the sixth division, natural sciences—namely, Mulder Bosgoed's Bibliotheca ichthyologica et piscatoria, containing notices of 6436 books on fishes and angling; Dr. Burgersdijk's great treatise on The Animal Kingdom, in three large volumes, with 246 colored plates, Van Vollenhoven's entomological works and the fine works on the flora of the Netherlands should not be overlooked. There is a very notable series of volumes under military science—namely, the publications of the Royal Military Academy at Breda, an entire course of text-books on literature, as well as less peaceful subjects, in queer little handy volumes done up in coarse blue paper with white labels. We may also note under the sciences, though they are entered as collectivities under the first division, the sixty-two (62) volumes of publications of the Royal Academy of Sciences at Amsterdam, and the illustrated cyclopædia in seven volumes, published by Brinkman.

Under division seventh, Philology and Literature, classical as well as Dutch literature finds a good representation; in the latter the most noticeable volumes are the works of Vondel, before referred to, published in twelve fine octavo volumes, at 212 florins ($85) the set, by Jos. Binge, of Amsterdam. This poet, who lived 1587–1679, produced thirty-six tragedies and numerous minor works, lyrics, etc. The edition is one of the finest of any author, and occupied from 1849 to 1869 for its production. It is editorially and bibliographically well made, and has many fine illustrations by Dutch artists, as well as fac-similes of documents and MSS. The illustrations are in almost every variety of work, all executed in the publisher's establishment. Next should come the edition of Van Lennep, romancer and poet, called the Dutch Dickens, published by Thieme. We should also not fail to call attention to the "Guldens-Edition," in one hundred volumes, at one florin each, from Thieme's also, of novels by the best Dutch authors, cheaply but excellently issued.

In the division of fine arts there are some splendidly illustrated volumes, led by the etchings of William Unger, already published also in this country. The finest color-work is the "Ecole Hollandaise" in oleography, with introduction by Charles Blanc, printed by Arnaud, giving in each part eight chromo plates of great ancient or modern paintings, at 9 florins the part. Lithography seems to be the favorite illustrative method of the Dutch; it is very fine in their best books, rather poor in their average productions.

Among the juvenile literature, which is considerable, is a school library of importance from Brinkman, in thirty-six volumes, at 24 florins ($9.60) the set.

The second grand division of the catalogue deals with educational literature, and here the display is very good. No great pains is put into the printing of most of the text-books, but their literary quality seems excellent. The maps, which are hung around the structure outside, demand very careful attention. The study of English is represented by fifty volumes.

The third grand division is of periodicals, and the newspaper publishers deserve great credit for their full and interesting representation. Some of their newspapers are indeed old; the Amsterdamsche Courant dates back 256 years. Among the collections, booksellers may look with interest for our courteous and enterprising contemporary, the Nieuwsblad voor den Boekhandel (News-sheet for the Book-trade), published bi-weekly at Amsterdam, at 7 florins the year.

The display of the Netherlands is altogether an honor to this plucky little country, the more that it shows entirely its own work, admitting no translations, save in such exceptions as have been incidentally alluded to.

Some few stationers are entered on the general catalogue, but personal search and inquiry of the Commission ferreted out only the pasteboard exhibit of Mr. Cramer, which is very good, and a creditable display of blank-books by Abrahams Bros., Middleburg.

BRITISH EMPIRE.

ENGLAND has not done itself credit in the book department. It might have been supposed that the English houses, who do so large a business with this country, would have made pre-eminently fine displays; it is only fair to say, however, that the apathy in some cases arose from the mistaken supposition that branch houses here would exhibit in the American department. The lack of organization or co-operation in the English book trade is another difficulty, as hitherto it has been in this country.

There is one very notable exception, for Messrs. Bradbury, Agnew & Co. have the most tasteful individual structure in the Main Building, in the book or other departments. This is a charming little pavilion, perhaps 10 feet square, at 24 between B and F, called "Mr. Punch's Bookcase." It was designed by John Leighton, F.S.A., and is a lovely bit of tiny architecture. It has a wainscot and frame of wood, in "constructive" fashion, painted of an olive color, most of the sides being of clear glass, but with one panel of exquisite stained glass, from a Paris atelier. It is hung with rich maroon curtains, and is topped with a gabled roof of greenish glass. Around the cornice is the inscription, from Shakespeare,

> "Come and take choice of all my library,
> And so beguile thy sorrow."

Mr. Punch's quaint figure beckons the visitor in, and he finds the interior not less delightful. The publications displayed are chiefly the English Cyclopedia, of which a magnificent circular is distributed, sets of Punch, the works of John Leech, and the "Handy Volume" editions. A little catalogue states that Messrs. Scribner, Welford & Armstrong, who have charge of the case, through Mr. T. A. Vandergrift, a most pleasant representative, supply the books at 40 cents on the shilling, and their orders, we learn, have been considerable. Mr. George Merrie, of the firm, came on to see the case put up, etc., but has since returned to London.

Cassell, Petter & Galpin are another exception, and their case of popular illustrated works, educational books, and electrotypes is well worth visiting. Their larger works, well known in America, are shown to very good advantage. Messrs. Lockwood, Crosby & Co., publishers of Weale's well-known series, have an individual case in which they exhibit these and like technical or educational works. The Sunday-School Union makes an excellent show of its books, reward tickets, etc.; Dickinson & Higham exhibit a very handsome copy, on large paper, six royal quarto volumes, of their "Hexaglot Bible," in Hebrew or Syriac, Greek, Latin, English, German and French; the map publishers, such as Johnston, Bartholomew, and others, enter more largely in proportion than any other class, and the list is completed with a few minor entries, mostly "authors of one book," and that not great.

Of the English stationery trade, about the same is to be said. Marcus Ward & Co. lead the small list; their case (or two cases arched together with neat effect) contains in one division a full stock of their excellent and popular Royal Irish Linen Papers in every variety of style and shape suitable for this market, and in the other are fine albums, pocket-books, and other fancy goods, and specimens of their excellent color-work in fancy cards, children's toy-books, etc., which is also exemplified in the illustrations to the admirable British official catalogue.

Alexander Pirie & Sons also display, though in a less ornamental case, an extensive assortment of their well-known writing, cardboard, and enamelled papers, in all tints, and Mr. Chas. T. Bainbridge, of the American agents, Porter & Bainbridge, is in attendance Tuesdays and Saturdays, when visiting stationers will do well to look him up. The papers are all in rolls, not cut, as solidly packed for transportation.

Robert Fletcher & Son, of the Kersley Works, exhibit a noticeable display of tissue and other papers, in varied tints, white paper being a specialty. They make fine tissues for artificial flowers and decorative purposes generally, and their satinized paper is shown made up for screen ornaments.

The Ford Works Co., Sunderland, under Thos. Routledge's management (Rice, Kendall & Co., Boston, American agents), exhibit paper stock, the goods in various stages, and the finished product, as produced from grass and like fibres under Routledge's process. Among the materials made use of are Esparto, Bamboo, Megasse, Phornium tenax (New Zealand flax), Maize, Rice straw, and other fibres.

Chas. Goodall & Co. make a very good display of their well-known and beautiful lines of playing-cards, although it is not arranged so showily as those in other countries.

Several manufacturers show inks, copying-fluids, wax, and like goods, among them Henry C. Stevens, John Blackwood & Co., Cooper & Co., etc. Hinks, Wells & Co., Birmingham, have a well-arranged case of pens, among which is a line of Centennial pens, and others for the American market. Eugene Rimmel displays his valentines and other pretty knick-knacks; among the others mentioned in the catalogue. but whose smaller exhibits we failed to ferret out, are Arch. Winterbottom, tracing-cloth; Ortner & Houle, engravers; Henry Webster, inkstands and writing-cases; J. Sloper, system of cancellation by perforation, etc.

CANADA.

The bookseller's eye is most likely to be attracted at first sight to the large case containing books in the government display for the educational department. Here, at B 17, he will find the bête noir of the Canadian trade, the Government Depository. This is an institution to which, happily, we have no parallel, except so far as our own government interferes with the private business of the stationers, by furnishing envelopes below cost. It offers to the schools a selected list of books at one half off, from which list they are to draw their books for prizes, etc. Naturally, the list is said to be antiquated and otherwise objectionable, for private business is not best done by public departments; but of this the visiting trade may judge for themselves, since in this large case (No. 63) is displayed attractively the full list.

The private exhibits of books and stationery will be found for the most part in three cases ranging along the aisle in front of F 21–22. This exhibition is varied and curious. Mr. W. H. Frazer, or Mr. Stevenson, of the Government Commission, may be asked to show it, in case opportunity for detailed examination is desired. First in this department should be noticed the displays of the Lovel Printing & Publishing Co., Montreal; Jas. Campbell, Toronto; Hunter, Rose & Co., Toronto; and A. & W. McKinlay & Co., who exhibit educational and other books. Quite a number of map publications are shown by the last-named house, Tackabury, and others. In this field there are some real curiosities, as the general atlas, from Antwerp, on whose maps America has no place in the world. A large quarto atlas of the Dominion, from Walker & Miles, Toronto, is worthy of commendation for its fulness of detail. There are a number of Bibles shown, one as old as 1496, printed at London "by the deputies of Christopher Barker," and Rev. Dr. de Sola, of Montreal, exhibits Jewish publications. The other exhibits are mostly minor ones, hid away in the cases, and difficult to mention categorically.

The stationery and what are supposed to be kindred articles, are curiously mixed up with each other and with the books. There is a very good display of blank-books, which appear to be a universal product, since they are exhibited in almost every country. Among the contributors in this specialty are Dawson Bros., Brown Bros., Hunter, Rose & Co., McKinlay, A. Mudge & Co., J. A. Macmillan & Co., and other less well-known houses. Paper-bags make a great show, from J. C. Wilson & Co., Montreal; Kilgorm Bros., Toronto, etc. Gibbs & Coursolle, Ottawa, call attention to their artificial parchment. There is quite a display also of samples of wrapping and printing papers, envelopes, etc., in which the Dupont Manufacturing Co., Province of Quebec; Gore Paper Mills, Dundas, Ontario; W. Barber & Bros., Georgetown, Ontario; the Canada Paper Co., Montreal, and others have part, and in some other minor lines the Dominion is also represented.

AUSTRALIA.

There are several minor exhibits from the Australian colonies. The Government of Victoria exhibits official reports, etc., and some blank-books made by prisoners at its penal establishment, and Samuel Ramsden, Melbourne, has a creditable stock of wrapping and colored papers of various styles and sizes, "all made on the same machine" (T 11–13). Queensland sends a well-printed and well-bound volume of parliamentary debates, reports statutes, blank-work, etc. In the New South Wales court, a good display of government reports, a great work on the animals of Australia, and blank-books, is made by Thomas Richards, Government Printer, Sydney (F 13). The decoration of the Australian blank-book work is very curious. It looks like inlaying, but is composed of narrow strips of colored leathers sewed through the covers, forming ornaments in regular geometrical patterns.

OTHER FOREIGN EXHIBITS.

THE ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.

On a pyramid of open shelves, surmounted by busts of her distinguished leaders, in the centre of the department of the Argentine Republic (P. 3) is a very creditable show of books and like articles. The Minister of Public Education sends an official representation of works on science, education, law, politics, finance, etc., and there are private exhibits by Senors Calderon, Aguilera, Mulhall, Espeche, Barros, Kahl, and Espejo. Senor Quiroga exhibits "regulations for public libraries," and that of Catamarca illustrates its workings by a copy of its rules. Among the publications exhibited are a three-volume history of the United States, translated from J. A. Spencer's history, "brought up to our own days by Horace Greeley;" a copy of Paradise Lost, with Doré's illustrations, published in Buenos Ayres; a full set of the Revista de Buenos Ayres, specimens of newspapers, works in general literature, school-books, guides, official documents, etc. The books are quite well printed, but on a rather poor paper, and the binding is mostly paper or the German half-bound style. The stationery and like trades are represented in the Argentine Republic by Senor Benelische, who shows blank-books, diaries, and bindings; and Senor Estrada, who exhibits the products of his type-foundry.

AUSTRIA.

The only book display in Austria is composed of the scientific and technical works shown in connection with the fine exhibit of the Austrian Society of Civil Engineers and Architects (P 27–28). Among these are works having the imprints of C. Gerold's Son, Lehmann & Wentzel, Von Ernst & Korn, Von Waldheim, and the University Publisher, who is said to be one of the examples of governmental interference. The large volumes of plans, etc., are especially creditable.

A beautiful display of fine fancy embossed papers, for lamp-shades, etc., from Osterretzer Brothers, Vienna, represented by Mr. Katzmeyer, is to be found at U 27, and alongside of it is a neat show of fancy paper boxes, from C. Opitz & Son, Teplitz. A remarkable display of colored papers, in bound sample-books, is made close by, by Vienna manufacturers. The line of marbled papers is especially noticeable.

The display of Vienna goods and fancy ware, such as frequently form a part of a stationer's stock, is not so extensive as might have been hoped, since these articles would form a pretty exhibition by themselves. A few cases will be found here and there in strolling through the spacious Austrian department—spacious because there are so few goods to fill the considerable space allotted.

BELGIUM.

Though a paper-producing country, Belgium is not at all represented in books or stationery, save for one or two minor exhibits. These are one or two lines of papers, "safety envelopes," etc.

BRAZIL.

Our southern sister, whose lively emperor is the most vigorous sight-seer at the Fair, with no little interest in the book departments, exhibits a very good display of books in the front court (H 59–60) of its gay edifice, while the province of Sancta Catherina sends blank-books and inkstands to the stationery department. A considerable exhibit comes from the National Printing House, Rio Janeiro. There is a good representation of educational text-books, as well as of pupils' work from the Rio schools, and private publishers send lines of books, some of them in English and French text. We note also a list of works published by officers of the Brazilian navy. Most of the work is fair printing on rather poor paper; there is some pretty good colored work in plates. Several binders also exhibit and show good plain or fine work, conspicuous among which is a copy of "Picturesque America."

CHILI.

Chili sends one of the most creditable shows presented by any of the South American States. There are three cases, in the neighborhood of P 4, of which the one on the west side is devoted almost entirely to fine bindings, shown by Senor Federico Schrebler, of Santiago, who took medals in 1872 and 1875. Noticeable are a copy of Alphand's Promenades de Paris, bound in full panelled brown morocco, the edges gilt and decorated with panels giving miniature water-color views of Paris monuments, and the "Album del Santa Lucia," a photographic volume, similarly bound in green. In the two eastern cases are to be noted "Chili Illustrated," a creditable illustrated volume, with wood-cut views, an elaborate work on the science of agriculture, a neatly-bound set of the works of G. V. Lastarria, in fourteen volumes, government reports, etc. There are also some well-bound blank-books. One of the Chilian Commissioners, M. Edouard Sère, Consul-General for Belgium there, has caused to be printed for distribution here his work on "Chili as it is," a descriptive and statistical volume of 666 pages, forming the first of the report made by the Belgian Commission from the Chilian International Exhibition of last year.

DENMARK.

In the Danish department are exhibited a few industrial works, especially the Industri-Tidenden bound, government surveys, etc. (N 12.)

As regards stationery and the like (P 12), there are quaint playing-cards from L. P. Holmblad, Copenhagen; impregnated pasteboard from C. Hansen & Co., Ebeltoft, and specimens of printing and photo-lithography from C. Ferslew & Co., Copenhagen.

EGYPT.

The display of the Egyptians, at the rear of their section (T 13, 14), is considerable and creditable. Three large bookcases, in black and gold, peculiarly decorated, contain most of the exhibit, which includes many works printed in Arabic, shown with opened pages, some of them with French and Italian translations in parallel columns, which may or may not help the visitor to an understanding of the Arabic characters; other works in French, very good specimens of printing; some sumptuous bindings with the Khedive's arms; dictionaries and school-books from the ministry of public instruction; curious types and raised works for the education of the blind, from Mr. Onsy, of Cairo; ancient manuscripts, etc., etc.

For the curiosity of the stationer, the National Museum has sent a collection of stationers' articles used in the Orient, quaint penholders, knives, ink-pouches, etc., in the flat case, and there is quite a good line of papers to be seen, white and tinted, some of the latter having a strong resemblance to our "granite" and "ashes of roses" goods.

ITALY.

At the northern end (rear) of the Italian division (A 3–4) there is a considerable display of publications. Music is the most prominent the house of Ricordi making a very large exhibit, the tastefulness of whose color-lithography in paper covers may give a hint or two to book publishers. Senor Brigola, Milan, has a shelf-full of medical and other standard books, mostly in paper, after the French fashion. There are some few samples of the exquisite Italian printing, but the most is ordinary work. A few other publishers, of Milan and Palermo, and some authors, exhibit books, but they are of minor importance. The display is scarcely representative.

There is some display of stationery goods, chiefly papers, in conjunction with the Italian book display. A Messina manufacturer, Welbatus, sends one of the finest sets of heavy blank-book bindings in the Exhibition, huge journals in full calf, with solid metal mountings and clasps. The paper exhibited is mostly of a parchment sort, for music, etc.; there are also colored boards, etc. One man exhibits paper bricks, and stationers can obtain of another the proper "form of contract with nurses."

JAPAN.

We suppose most booksellers are content to confine their dealings with Japan to the Japanese publishing house of G. P. Putnam's Sons, but they will find material for their curiosity on and back of the screen at the rear of the Japanese department (U 7–10). Chiefly noticeable is the bulky "English and Japanese Dictionary, illustrated by above 500 engravings on wood. New edition. Yokohama, Ni-shu-sha Printing Office, 6th year of Meiji." The rows of pamphlets along this shelf deserve attention for the remarkably neat and curious sewing, binding, and stacking. There are a good many real Japanese books, opening quite the wrong way, in the case near by, some with French and English translations opposite the queer characters, and the panoramic books of pictures along the screen are very odd and beautiful. The educational department exhibits also maps, slates, relief charts, etc. The peculiarly fine paper in the Japanese section of course deserves note. The thinness of some, the tough fabric of others, made from bark, and the curious decoration of still others are extraordinary. A screen in front of T 8 shows a considerable assortment.

MEXICO.

In the north-eastern corner of Mexico there is a good exhibit of books, well arranged, from Francisco Diaz de Leon, City of Mexico. They comprise a variety of literary and statistical works, the printing and paper being perhaps the best from any Spanish-American country. One édition de luxe, a large quarto, displays open interesting crayon lithograph illustrations in tint.

NORWAY.

At the rear of the Norwegian division (A 5) is a miniature school-room, in connection with which are the few items exhibited by Norway. The two or three books amount to nothing; but in stationery, T. Moestue & Co., Christiania, show an excellent line of well-bound blank-books in various styles, and printing-paper from the Christiansand Mills, wood pulp for paper, etc., are to be noted.

PERU.

A neat bookcase in the Peruvian department (T 4) contains books—and cigars (This is worse than the famous Crandall !) The case is locked, probably because of the cigars; the books include a dictionary of the Peruvian language, historical, religious, and educational works in various lines of not remarkable bindings.

PORTUGAL.

The book display of Portugal, in two neat cases at T 15, is the best from any of the smaller countries. The National Printing-Office, Lisbon, a government institution, but self-supporting, is especially well represented, and a neat pamphlet, giving its history and workings, may be had of the commissioners, among whom Mr. Cotter, an assistant commissioner, is himself a literary man. Especial mention is made in this pamphlet of the fact that the office purchased at the Vienna Exposition an American Degener press which is highly spoken of. But the office must be damaging to private publishers in Portugal, although these also are creditably represented. It includes a type-foundry (which supplies also Brazil), printing, binding, and lithographic departments, and a manufactory of playing-cards; and it is represented in all these directions. A very good piece of printing is a quarto containing the episode of Ignez de Castro, from Camoen's "Luziad," the national epic, translated into thirteen languages. The complete works of Camoen are shown in several editions. There is a copy of the royal charter of Portugal, printed on parchment, and a large Roman missal is another specimen of good printing. Samples are shown of "The Douro Illustrated," a fine illustrated work printed with text in Portuguese, French, and English, now in course of publication by Magalhaes & Moniz. An interesting exhibit is that of the Actualidade newspaper, with its Bibliotheca of standard Portuguese authors, a new volume of which it presents annually to its subscribers as a premium.

RUSSIA.

The exhibit of Russia (about T 20–22) is a very interesting one, although the display of books proper is confined to a few illuminated books of design, and a half-score volumes in the curious Russian character, which looks like small caps run mad. But the little catalogue of the Pedagogic Museum, Ministry of War, (!) which is distributed gratuitously, contains many interesting facts, especially as to the "publications for the people," of the "company of general utility." Included in its display are text-books, books for the blind, relief-maps, etc.

There is also some stationery—solid-looking blank-books, curiously lettered and stamped, some with rounded corners; several lines of writing and other papers, envelopes with monograms, etc.

SANDWICH ISLANDS.

A few books and photographs relating to the Sandwich Islands are exhibited in a case at the north-east corner of this department. (T 13.)

SPAIN.

The display of Spain seems to be confined to a large upright case (T 18) containing an extraordinary variety of fantastic playing-cards, from Senor Olea, Cadiz, and others. There is a case of curious paper, like cigarette-paper, close by, from the Socios de la Peña, Bilbao. (T 17.)

SWEDEN.

A case of books in the Swedish department (F 8, 9) has a varied exhibit of publications from that country. Anatomical treatises are most prominent, the color-printing in which is remarkably brilliant. Works illustrated in almost every method are also shown open, and are very creditable. The neatness of a line of popular manuals in paper may be commended. Some books in this case have an historical interest: they are publications of two and more centuries back, giving an account of Swedish settlements in America. A collection of current newspapers is also shown.

The Swedish paper department makes a considerable show. The Munksjö Paper Factory has a pyramid, reaching almost to the roof, of its wrapping-paper and boards, neatly labelled and priced. This is a very notable display. Other paper manufacturers exhibit pulp, wrapping, drawing, writing, and other papers, wall hangings, etc. Several exhibits of pens, playing-cards, etc., are catalogued, but they seemed to be beyond finding.

SWITZERLAND.

There is no special book display from Swiss publishers, but in the admirably arranged educational court of that country (F H 53–54) there is a considerable show of school-books, admirable in their educational system, but far behind American works of their kind as regards typographical appearance, the paper in especial being cheap. Among the official works exhibited by the Canton of Berne, some curious cloth bindings are to be noted. They are mostly in red cloth, but the panel is divided by a diagonal line into two parts, one of which is in black cloth. Most of the Swiss bindings are of red cloth, with the Swiss cross cut out in centre, where white board is inserted and lettered.

TURKEY.

A table in Turkey (P 16) contains the interesting photographic work (text in French) published under the patronage of the Turkish Commission to Vienna, and having the imprint of the Levant Times; also a line of medical books in Arabic—(these fellows were the fathers of medicine)—which are all in hieroglyphics, begin at the back, and are otherwise unintelligible.

WE shall issue in the early fall a list of our new publications, which we shall be glad to send free upon application.

TEACHER'S BIBLE.

We have imported from London and Glasgow the sheets of the Bible, printed especially for ourselves on the finest paper that can be made, and with these have bound up twelve Maps, Chronological Chart, Tables, Indexes, Harmonies, etc., and our valuable Bible Text-Book, making a most complete book for Teachers' use.

We have these books in sizes as follows:

RUBY.—References down the centre of the page:

Morocco, limp or stiff	$4 00
" circuit	6 00
" Levant, kid lined, with pocket	9 00

NONPAREIL.—The well-known book, with references on the side of the page:

Morocco, limp or stiff	$4 00
" circuit	6 00
" Levant kid-lined, with pocket	10 00

MINION.—References between the verses, a very popular style:

Morocco, limp or stiff	$4 00
" circuit	6 00
" Levant, kid-lined, with pocket	10 00

LARGE PRINT.—An elegant large-faced Minion book, with references down the centre:

Morocco, limp or stiff	$6 00
Levant, kid-lined, with pocket	11 00
Centennial Book, with fine lock on side, and handle for convenience in carrying, something entirely new, our own design	16 00

(DOES NOT CONTAIN THE "BIBLE TEXT-BOOK.")

While our regular edition of the Teacher's Bible has met the want of almost every one, yet we have had inquiries for a book with a verbal concordance in it, suited for general use by teachers and scholars who have not free access to larger and more complete concordances. To meet this want we have issued the Teacher's Bible with an entirely new Concordance, most carefully prepared, with one or more references to every verse in the Bible except the lists of names, and printed from new plates, containing 235 pages. We also insert a Scripture Index, which has been thoroughly revised, and is equalled by none now issued. It has also a new Table of Proper Names with their meaning and pronunciation, containing 16 pages and much more full and correct than anything before offered to teachers.

In addition to these special features, this edition contains all the Maps, Tables, Indexes, Charts, etc., of the other editions of the Teacher's Bible.

This Book should be ordered as the "TEACHER'S BIBLE, CONCORDANCE EDITION," and is sold at the same prices as the other.

"LARGE PAPER" EDITION.

Having had many calls for a Bible specially suited for annotations, etc., we have had an edition of our Large Print Bible printed on fine writing paper, thin and opaque.

It is beautifully printed, and has a margin of an inch around the page, thus giving ample room for notes and references.

Even with this large margin, the book is one that is easily portable and of convenient size for pulpit or class use, being but 8½ inches long, 6½ inches wide, and 1½ inches thick, including covers.

With this book we bind up the Bible Text-Book, with all the Tables, Charts, Indexes, etc., and an entirely new set of maps, comprising among others double-page maps of Assyria, Chaldea, etc.; countries mentioned in the Bible; Travels of Apostle Paul; Palestine in the time of Christ, and two maps of Modern Palestine, containing the Northern and Southern divisions, with the very latest explorations, each portion making a full double-page map. The single-page maps are Jerusalem and environs, Roman and Persian empires, Canaan and its tribes, Palestine in time of David, etc.

These maps have all been drawn for us at great expense, and we believe for clearness, beauty, and accuracy, are unequalled.

With a portion of this edition we bind up our new Scripture Index, with Maps, Tables, etc., in the place of our "Bible Text Book," etc., making a thinner book than the other. We bind these books only in our very best style:

"Large Paper" Edition, with Scripture Index, kid-lined, and pocket	$13 00
"Large Paper" Edition, with Bible Text-Book, kid-lined, and Pocket	14 00

APPLETONS' JOURNAL. A Household Weekly Magazine.

APPLETONS' JOURNAL is published weekly, and consists of thirty-two quarto pages, each number attractively illustrated. Its contents consist of serial Novels and short Stories, Essays upon Literary and Social Topics, Sketches of Travel and Adventure, and papers upon all the various subjects that pertain to the pursuits and recreations of the people, whether of town or country.

Terms.—Price, 10 cents per number; or $4 per annum, in advance. Subscriptions received for twelve, six, or three months.

For five subscriptions, and remittance of $20, an extra copy, one year, gratis; for fifteen subscriptions, and $50, an extra copy gratis.

SPECIAL INDUCEMENTS TO SUBSCRIBERS TO APPLETONS' JOURNAL.—The publishers have procured, exclusively for subscribers to APPLETONS' JOURNAL, a splendid steel engraving of "Charles Dickens in his Study," which is offered, under special terms, to every subscriber—in advance—to the JOURNAL for 1876. This steel engraving is in line and stipple. It is not a fancy picture, but an actual representation of Charles Dickens's study at Gadshill, while the portrait of the distinguished author is strikingly faithful. The size of the plate is 20 x 14, printed on heavy plate-paper 24 x 30, making a large and handsome engraving for the parlor or library wall. The execution of the plate is of a superior order. The ordinary price of a steel engraving of this character in the print-shops would not be less than $5 and perhaps $6. It is offered exclusively to subscribers, in addition to the JOURNAL for one year, for $5; or, with the JOURNAL in Monthly Parts, for $5.50. This engraving is entirely new. It has never been for sale in the print-shops, and cannot be obtained except in connection with APPLETONS' JOURNAL upon the terms and conditions given above.

Monthly parts, per annum (in advance), $4.50.

The publication of the JOURNAL began April 3, 1869. Back numbers can always be supplied. A volume begins every January and July of each year.

Binding Cases for APPLETONS' JOURNAL, Cloth, gilt back and side, uniform with bound volumes. Price each, 75 cents.

Portfolio for holding APPLETONS' JOURNAL. Price $1.00.

Bound volumes 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, and 14, now ready. Price per volume, in Cloth, extra, $3.50. Half Morocco, $6.00.

"It is of the handiest of sizes, the paper is good, and the type, which seems to be new, is very clear and beautiful. There are no pictures. The whole charm of the presentment of the volume consists in its handiness, and the tempting clearness and beauty of the type, which almost convert into a pleasure the mere act of following the printer's lines, and leave the author's mind to exert its unobstructed force upon the reader."—Examiner.

GENERAL ORDERS No. 6.—The following order, received from the War Department, is published for the information and guidance of the Army:

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON CITY, July 17, 1873.

The revision of Upton's Infantry Tactics by the author, and the Tactics for Artillery and Cavalry [including the proceedings of the board—Major-General Schofield, President—instituted by General Orders No. 60, Headquarters of the Army, Adjutant-General's Office, series of 1869], assimilated to the Tactics for Infantry, pursuant to instructions from the General of the Army, by—

Lieutenant-Colonel Emory Upton, 1st Artillery, Instructor of Tactics, U. S. Military Academy;

Captain Henry A. Du Pont, 5th Artillery, commanding Battery "F," 5th Artillery;

Captain John E. Tourtellotte, 7th Cavalry, Colonel and Aide-de-Camp to the General;

Captain Alfred E. Bates, 2d Cavalry, Assistant Instructor of Cavalry Tactics, U. S. Military Academy—having been approved by the President, are adopted for the instruction of the Army and Militia of the United States.

To insure uniformity, all exercises, evolutions, and ceremonies not embraced in these Tactics are prohibited, and those therein prescribed will be strictly observed.

WM. W. BELKNAP, Secretary of War.

By command of General Sherman.

WILLIAM D. WHIPPLE, Assistant Adjutant-General.

HIGHER THOUGHT.

Evolution and Progress:

An Exposition and Defence. The Foundation of Evolution Philosophically Expounded, and its Arguments (divested of insignificant and distracting physical details) succinctly stated; together with a review of leading opponents, as Dawson and Winchell, and quasi-opponents, as Le Conte and Carpenter. By REV. WILLIAM I. GILL, A. M., of Newark Conference, N. J. The first volume of the International Prize Series. THIRD EDITION. Cloth extra, imitation morocco, fine paper, 295 pp., 12mo., Price . $1 50

Each volume in this series was awarded a prize of Two Hundred Dollars in addition to copyright, in a competition which was open one year to the world, and where over three hundred manuscripts were submitted and read.

DESCRIPTIVE OPINIONS OF EVOLUTION AND PROGRESS.

One of our most candid and thoughtful writers.—Dr. Crane.

It is ably written. Builds on philosophical principles.—Brooklyn Union.

The attitude of Mr. Gill, and his courage in maintaining it, are worthy of note.—New York World.

I rejoice in all attempts of this kind, made in a spirit like that which prompts your work.—Herbert Spencer.

His writings are marked by strong common sense, sound logic, and clear demonstration.—Methodist Home Journal.

It is a book of original thinking on one of the greatest themes.....A keen, thoughtful, vigorous volume.—Golden Age.

He strikes with no velvet glove, but with a steel-clad hand, dealing his blows with equal profusion and impartiality.—New York Tribune.

His effort is earnest, able and bold..... It presents, in all their naked strength, thoughts and arguments which will have to be met and answered.—The Methodist, New York.

Analytical Processes;

Or, The Primary Principle of Philosophy. By REV. WILLIAM I. GILL, A. M., author of "Evolution and Progress." The Third Volume of the International Prize Series. Cloth extra, fine paper, uniform with "Evolution and Progress," 450 pp., 12mo. Price $2 00.

A work which the committee cannot describe without seeming to exaggerate. It is marked by extraordinary depth and originality, and yet it is so clear and convincing as to make its novel conclusions appear like familiar common sense.—From Report of Committee of Prize Award.

It contains a vast amount of able and conscientious thought and acute criticism.—Dr. McCosh, Prest. Princeton College.

A specimen of robust thinking. I am very much gratified with its thoroughness, acuteness and logical coherence.—Dr. Anderson, Pres't Rochester University.

Ecclesiology:

A Fresh Inquiry as to the Fundamental Idea and Constitution of the New Testament Church; with a Supplement on Ordination. By REV. E. J. FISH, D. D. Cloth extra, fine paper, 400 pp., 12mo. . Price $2 00.

DOCTOR FISH disposes this volume into four parts.—I. The Fundamental Idea of the Church; II. The New Testament Church Constitution; III. Application of Principles; IV. A Supplement on Ordinaton—and addresses himself to his themes with the full earnestness of ability, clearness of logic, and conscientiousness of spirit which comprehensive treatment requires. As a "building fitly framed together," it is a fair-minded and standard contribution to the best religious literature of the Christian age.

The Beauty of the King:

By REV. A. H. HOLLOWAY, A. M., author of "Good Words for S. S. Teachers," "Teachers' Meetings," etc. Cloth extra, 168 pp. 12mo.....Price, $1 00

A remarkably clear, comprehensive and intelligible exposition of the natural and spiritual causes, processes and effects of the birth, life and death of Jesus—a subject much discussed, yet not generally understood now-a-days.

Life for a Look:

By REV. A. H. HOLLOWAY, A. M. Paper covers, 32mo. Price, 15 cts.

Earnest, cogent words, marrowy with the spirit of honest, old-fashioned Religion.

PRACTICAL THOUGHT.

The Grangers;

Or the Valuation of Commodities for a Fair Trade. By M. R. PILON. Handsomely printed, 8vo., paper, 100 pp., ... Price 35 cents.

The author has brought broad experience and comprehensive research to bear upon his subjects. His style is terse and perspicuous. He uses the easy and concise language of an educated business man; and, with wonderful art, invests every chapter with the grace and charm of a well-told story.

Free Trade:

Labor, Values, Prices, Foreign and Fair Trade, Scarcity of Money and the Causes of Inflation. By M. R. PILON, author of "The Grangers." Uniform with "The Grangers,"—(In Press.) . . Price 50 cents.

Gold and Free Banks:

Ways to arrive at the Demonetization of Gold and Silver, and the establishment of Private Banks under control of the National Government. By. M. R. PILON, author of "The Grangers." FIFTH EDITION. 8vo., 186 pp., paper cover, . . Price 75 cents.

The work is interesting, and especially valuable to financiers.—Jersey City Daily Journal.

He gives expression to a good deal of sound financial principle.—Louisville Daily Commercial.

It is full of common sense.....Valuable for its facts, its thoughts and its suggestions.—Troy Daily Whig.

Is written in an interesting and popular style and contains much useful information.—Oakland, Cal., Daily News.

The subject of the high valuation of gold and silver currency is fully discussed, and offers some new ideas worthy the attention of those interested in monetary affairs.—Toledo Commercial.

The author is a merchant who has extensively studied the currency problem. His hits are often sharp and incisive.....Mr. Pilon would provide ample banking facilities for every city, town and village, with both stock and land security.—Cincinnati Daily Star.

.....Discussing the currency question in an original, forcible and entertaining style. The author has brought together a great amount of varied information upon the whole subject of money.....Those interested will find unquestioned ability in the author's handling of it.—Baltimore Methodist Protestant.

Depicted in strong terms.—Baptist Union, New York.

With freshness, clearness, and vigor.—Neb. Watchman.

Delightful book.—Saturday Review, Louisville, Ky.

Lays open a whole network of the tender and emotional.—Williamsport (Pa.) Daily Register.

The unity is well preserved, the characters maintaining that probability so essential in the higher forms of fiction.—Baltimore Methodist Protestant.

There is a peculiar charm in the reading of this book, which every one who peruses it must feel. It is very like to that which is inspired in reading any of Hawthorne's romances.—Hartford Religious Herald.

Wild Flowers:

Poems. By CHARLES W. HUBNER, author of "Souvenirs of Luther." Elegantly printed on fine tinted paper, with portrait of the Author, imitation morocco and beveled edges, 196 pp., 12mo. Just ready, Price $1 25. The same, gilt edges, . . $1 75

As a poet Mr. HUBNER is conservative—always tender and delicate, never turbid or erratic. He evinces a strong love of nature and high spirituality, and brings us, from the humblest places and in the humblest guises, beauties of the heart, the life, the universe, and, while placing them before our vision, has glorified them and shown that within them of whose existence we had never dreamed.

Her Waiting Heart:

A Novel. By LOU CAPSADELL, author of "Hallow E'en." Cloth extra, 192 pp., 12mo. Just ready. $1 25.

A story of New York—drawn from the familiar phases of life, which, under the calmest surfaces, cover the greatest depths. Charming skill is shown in the naturalness of characterization, development of plot and narrative, strength of action and delicacy of thought.

Shadowed Perils:

A Novel. By M. A. AVERY, author of "The Loyal Bride," etc. English cloth, 260 pp., 12mo, . . . $1 25

The story is bold and dramatic in action, graceful in narrative, strong in characterization, intense in interest, sweet and pure in tone, and is marked by keen sympathy with the lowly and oppressed.

Egypt Ennis; or, Prisons Without Walls:

A Novel. By KELSIC ETHERIDGE. Paper, 97 pp., 8vo., ... Price, 50 cents.

Has the curiosity-exciting tendency.—Boston Beacon.

The interest grows and retains attention to the end.—N. O. Picayune.

Short, sententious, marrowy, and spiced with episodes. Has a warm southern aroma of orange and magnolia blossoms.—Baltimore Meth. Prot.

Of rare beauty and power in its vivid, life-like picturing of men and places. . . . . Through such artistic touches of skill and strength we are wafted in thought as we follow the hero and heroine through the mazes of the old, old story.—Ladies' Pearl, St. Louis.

The Travelers' Grab-Bag; or, the Heart of a Quiet Hour:

A Hand-book for utilizing fragments of leisure in railroad trains, steamboats, way stations and easy chairs. Edited by AN OLD TRAVELER. . . . Paper, 100 pp., 8vo. . . . . Price, 50 cents.

Full of spice and fun.—Baltimore Meth. Prot.

No traveler should be without it.—N. Y. Forest and Stream.

Teeming with rollicking humor and a kind of satire that will be enjoyable.—Pittsburgh Commercial.

Guarded by a Fear:

By MRS. M. B. SHERIDAN. Paper. 8vo, 77 pp. Price, ... 30 cents.

A good story, vividly and beautifully told, full of attractive originality, character and ingenuity of plot.

Women's Secrets; or, How to be Beautiful:

DEALER IN

RADICAL, REFORMATORY, AND PROGRESSIVE PUBLICATIONS.

EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR OF THE TRUTH SEEKER,

A Weekly Journal of Freethought and Reform. After Jan., 1877, it will contain 16 pages, at $3.00. THE LARGEST AND CHEAPEST LIBERAL PAPER IN THE WORLD!

THE WORLD'S SAGES, INFIDELS, AND THINKERS. A crown-octavo volume. By D. M. BENNETT, Editor of THE TRUTH SEEKER. With a steel-plate engraving of the author. Being he biographies and important doctrines of the most di-tinguished Teachers, Philosophers, Reformers, Innovators, Founders of New Schools of Thought and Religion, Disbelievers in current Theology, and the deepest Thinkers and most active Humanitarians of the world, from Menu down, through the following three thousand years to our own time. It is believed that the work fills a want long felt, and adds materially to the general information touching the characters treated, affording a succinct aud correct account of the best and truest persons who have lived in the world, and concerning whom large numbers of volumes would have to be consulted to derive this information: and all in a convenient and economical form. It is divided into four parts. Part I, from Menu to Christ. Part II, from Christ to Thomas Paine. Part III, from Thomas Paine to Geo. Sand. Part IV, Living Characters. To all of whom the world owes much for the progress it has made in the evolution of Thought, Truth, and Reason. Among the two hundred and fifty characters treated of in the work are Christna, Buddha, Confucius, Zoroaster, Lycurgus, Solon, Pythagoras, Democritus, Socrates, Plato, Aristotle, Carneades, Cicero, Apollonius, Plutarch, Epictetus, Marcus Aurelius, Porphyry, Proclus, Mohammed, Averroes, Copernicus, Roger Bacon, Bruno, Vanini, Lord Bacon, Shakspere, Galileo, Spinoza, Bolingbroke, Voltaire, Benjamin Franklin, Buffon, Kant, D'Holbach, Geo. Washington, Thos. Paine, Thos. Jefferson, Goethe, Talleyrand, Volney, Dr. Gall, Mary Wollstonecraft, Thorild, Fichte, Humboldt, Hegel, Godfrey Higgins, Fourier, Geo. The work is printed on new type and good paper, and bound in good style. Price in cloth $3.00 leather 4 00.

CHAMPIONS OF THE CHURCH; or, Biographical Sketches of Eminent Christians. [A com, anion book, or counterpart to the foregoing.] Will be issued about the close of 1876. Containing a correct history of such distinguished Ornaments of the Church as Constantine, St. Cyril, Clovis, Pepin, Charlemagne, Irene, Pope Joan, John XII, John XIII, Alexander I, Alexander III, Innocent III, Boniface VIII, Benedict XII, John XXII, John XXIII, Alexander VI, and some fifty others of the Popes; Godfrey of Bouillon, Guy Lusignan, Simon Montfort, St. Dominic, Peter the Cruel, Sigismund, Louis XI of France, Loyola, Ojeda, Torquemada, Luther, Calvin, Munzer, Ferdinand and Isabella, Cortez, Pizarro, Henry VIII of England, Bloody Mary, Alva, Cranmer, Elizabeth, Charles IX of France, Catherine de Medici, Philip II of Spain, Guy Fawkes, Oliver Cromwell, Jeffrey, Charles II, Louis XIV, of France, John Graham, (Claverhouse.) James II, Parris, Cotton Mather, and hosts of others of the same fraternity: including wily, designing, libidinous, lecherous fathers, bishops, priests and pastors, for many centuries.

A free history is given of the bloody wars of Christianity, which have been inhumanly waged to spread its rule. The wars of the Crusades; the terrible operations for hundreds of years of the Holy Inquisition with its auto-da-fe; the merciless persecutions and exterminations of the Vaudois, the Albigenses, the Waldenses, the Moors and Jews of Spain, the Huguenots of France, the Protestant Netherlanders; the Independents, Quakers and Dissenters of England; the Quakers and witches of New England. It contains a history of Jesuitism for three centuries: of the granting and selling of indulgences by the Church, to commit all kinds of crimes and immoralities, as well as culpable defections of recent date. The biographical portion is preceded by a historical examination of Primitive Christianity—its origin, its semblance to pre-existing systems of religion, its adoption of Pagan rites, its political growth and influence. The whole based upon Christian authorities. By D. M. BENNETT, Editor of THE TRUTH SEEKER. 1,000 pages. Crown-octavo. Cloth, $3.00; leather, $4.00,

THE HEATHENS OF THE HEATH, a Romance, by Wm. McDonnell, author of "Exeter Hall," etc. This work is rich in romantic and pathetic incidents, and exhibits with an overwhelming array of facts the atrocities committed by the Church. It shows that the purest morality exists without the Bible, and that many of the heathen philosophers were lovers of virtue. Shocking instances are given of the depravity of Christian ministers, and the prevailing immorality among Christian people. The folly of Christian ministers is fully portrayed. Hypocrisy and bigotry are clearly exposed, and the road to virtue and true happiness plainly marked out. A most pleasing romance is woven into the work, in which much chance is afforded the author for fine descriptions and beautiful sentiments, which he so well knows how to give utterance to. The characters in the tale are invested with much interest; the hero and heroine gain the love of every reader. "On the whole, it is the work of a master hand—a work of unaffected beauty and the deepest interest." "One of the most valuable features of the work is, its positions are all proved . . Every thinking, enquiring mind should peruse it." 500 pp., 12 mo. Price, in paper, $1; cloth, $1 50.

THE BURGESS-UNDERWOOD DEBATE, between PROF. O. A. BURGESS, President of the North western Christian University at Indianapolis, and B. F. Underwood, of Boston, Mass. Held during four days at Aylmer, Ont., Commencing June 29, 1875. Reported by JOHN T. HAWKE. First Proposition—"The Christian Religion, as set forth in the New Testament, is true in fact, and of divine origin." BURGESS in the affirmative; UNDERWOOD in the negative. Second Proposition—"The Bible is erroneous in many of its teachings regarding Science and Morals, and is of human origin." UNDERWOOD in the affirmative; BURGESS in the negative. Every person fond of hearing both sides of questions of the magnitude of those here presented, will, in this volume, be thoroughly pleased, and should avail themselves of the opportunity of procuring it. 12 mo., 180 pp. Price, in paper, 60 cents; in cloth, $1.

Maroquette, a recent French invention, is an excellent imitation of morocco, and in Europe, where it is extensively used, has given the best satisfaction.

The designs of the stamps for these books are entirely new, the rims and clasps are well made and gilt.

The publishers can confidently recommend these styles as the best-selling books now in the market.

Our Fine VELVET PRAYER-BOOKS, for the Holidays, now ready.

Our ENGLISH CALF, and TURKEY MOROCCO Bindings, made with special care, by superior workmen, and well known to the trade as unequaled, on hand in great variety.

HOMŒOPATHIC PUBLICATIONS

BOERICKE & TAFEL,

New York,

PHILADELPHIA, BALTIMORE, SAN FRANCISCO.

Aconite, Monograph on, its Therapeutic and Physiological Effects, together with its Uses, and Accurate Statements, derived from the Various Sources of Medical Literature. By A. Reil, M.D. Translated from the German by H. B. Millard, M.D. Prize Essay. 168 pages, 8vo. 75 cents.

Allen, Dr. T. F. The Encyclopedia of Pure Materia Medica, a Record of the Positive Effects of Drugs upon the Healthy Human Organism. With contributions from Dr. Richard Hughes, of England; Dr. C. Hering, of Philadelphia; Dr. Carroll Dunham, of New York; Dr. Adolph Lippe, of Philadelphia, and others. Vol. I and II. Price per volume, in cloth, $6.00; in sheep, $7.00; half morocco, $7.50.

☞ The first volume of this grand work contains on its 638 closely printed pages, the pathogenesis of one hundred and six remedies—ending with Atropine; and the second volume, on 640 pages, the pathogenesis of seventy-four remedies—ending with Carduus marianus. The work is steadily proceeding, and the third volume will probably be complete in November, 1875. The whole work will be completed in about ten volumes.

Annual Record of Homœopathic Literature, 1870. Edited by C. G. Raue, M.D. 496 pages, 8vo. $3.50.

☞ In the preparation of the ANNUAL RECORD, Professor Raue has been assisted by an able corps of collaborators, and no labor or expense has been spared to have the whole a complete digest of all the valuable information scattered throughout the periodical literature of homœopathy, during the year 1869. The journals of the United States, England, Germany, France, Spain, and other countries, have furnished materials for this great work.

Annual Record of Homœopathic Literature, 1871. Edited by C. G. Raue, M.D. 255 pages, 8vo. $2.50.

☞ The arrangement of the work is the same as that of last year. Dr. C. Hering has arranged the part on materia medica, Dr. T. F. Allen, the chapter on the eye, Dr. M. McFarlan, the surgical part, and the rest by Dr. C. G. Raue. There is no appendix to this volume.

Annual Record of Homœopathic Literature, 1872. Edited by C. G. Raue, M.D. 338 pages, 8vo. $3.00.

Annual Record of Homœopathic Literature, 1873. Edited by C. G. Raue, M.D. 332 pages, 8vo. $3.00.

Annual Record of Homœopathic Literature, 1874. Edited by C. G. Raue, M.D. 376 pages, 8vo. $3.00.

Apis Mellifica, or the Poison of the Honey Bee, considered as a Therapeutic Agent. By Dr. C. W. Wolff. 80 pages, 12mo. 25 cents.

Baehr, Dr. B. The Science of Therapeutics, according to the Principles of Homœopathy. Translated and enriched with numerous additions from Kafka and other sources. By C. J. Hempel, M.D. 2 vols., 1387 pages, royal 8vo. $10.00.

☞ This work is to take the place of the late Hartmann's Acute and Chronic Diseases, but in point of scientific value and practical usefulness, it is far superior to the former. Dr. Hempel has incorporated large sections from Kafka in the same; has also, on suitable occasions, introduced the new remedies, and has made valuable additions from our journals and his personal records.

Becker, Dr. A. C. Diseases of the Digestive Organs and Constipation, treated Homœopathically. Second American from the third London edition, with additions. 128 pages, 12mo. 50 cents.

Becker, Dr. A. C. Dentition, according to some of the best and latest German authorities. 82 pages, 12mo. 50 cents.

Jahr, Dr. G. H. G. Therapeutic Guide; the most important results of more than forty years' practice, with personal observations regarding the truly reliable and practically verified curative indications in actual cases of disease. Translated, with notes and new remedies, by C. J. Hempel, M.D. 364 pages, 8vo. $3.50.

Jahr, Dr. G. H. G. Clinical Guide; or, Pocket Repertory for the treatment of Acute and Chronic Diseases. Translated by C. J. Hempel, M.D. Second American revised and enlarged edition, from the third German edition, enriched by the addition of the new remedies. By S. Lilienthal, M.D. 624 pages, 12mo. $3.00.

Jahr, Dr. G. H. G. The Homœopathic Treatment of Diseases of Females and Infants at the Breast. Translated from the French by C. J. Hempel, M.D. 422 pages, 8vo. $2.50.

☞ This work deserves the most careful attention on the part of Homœopathic practitioners. The diseases to which the female organism is subject are described with the most minute correctness, and the treatment is likewise indicated with a care that would seem to defy criticism. No one can fail to study this work with profit and pleasure.

Jahr, Dr. G. H. G. Diseases of the Skin; or, Alphabetical Repertory of the Skin Symptoms, and External Alterations of Substance, together with the Morbid Phenomena observed in the Glandular, Osseous, Mucous and Circulatory Symptoms, arranged with Pathological Remarks on Diseases of the Skin. Edited by C. J. Hempel, M.D. 515 pages, 18mo. $1.50.

Jahr, Dr. G. H. G. New Manual of the Homœopathic Materia Medica, with Possart's additions, arranged with reference to well-authenticated observations at the sick-bed, and accompanied by an alphabetical repertory, to facilitate and secure the selection of a suitable remedy in any given case. Fifth edition, revised and enlarged by the author. SYMPTOMATOLOGY and REPERTORY. Translated and edited by C. J. Hempel, M.D. 923 pages, 12mo. $4.50.

☞ In this work a condensed pathogenesis is given of two hundred and twenty-six remedies, eighty-two of which are additions by Possart, and are not contained in Jahr's former works. A well-arranged Repertory of 225 pages completes the work, and renders it an admirable companion at the bedside.

Jahr, Dr. G. H. G. The Venereal Diseases, their Pathological Nature, correct Diagnosis, and Homœopathic Treatment. Prepared in accordance with the author's own as well as with the experience of other physicians, and accompanied with critical discussions. Translated, with numerous and important additions from the works of other authors and from his own experience, by C. J. Hempel, M.D. 428 pages, 8vo. $4.00.

Index to the first eighteen volumes of the North American Journal of Homœopathy. 8vo. $2.00.

Joslin, Dr. B. F. Principles of Homœopathy. In a Series of Lectures. 185 pages. 75 cents.

Joslin, Dr. B. F. Homœopathic Treatment of Epidemic Cholera. Third edition, with additions. 252 pages. 12mo. $1.00.

☞ This work offers the advantage of a threefold arrangement of the principal medicines, viz.: 1, to the varieties of cholera; 2, to its stages; and, 3, to its symptoms as arranged in repertories. These last will give the work a prominent value in treating the more frequent complaints of summer.

Kreussler, Dr. E. The Homœopathic Treatment of Acute and Chronic Diseases. Traslated from the German, with important additions and revisions. By C. J. Hempel, M.D. 190 pages, 12mo. 75 cents.

☞ The author is a practitioner of great experience and acknowledged talent. This work is distinguished by concise brevity and lucid simplicity in the description of the various diseases that usually come under the observation of physicians, and the remedies for the various symptoms are carefully indicated. Dr. Hempel has interspersed it with a number of highly useful and interesting notes, which cannot fail to enhance the value of this work to American physicians.

Laurie, Dr. J. Homœopathic Domestic. By A. Gerald Hull, M.D. Small edition. 264 pages, 18mo. 60 cents.

Laurie, Dr. J. Elements of Homœopathic Practice of Physics. An appendix to Laurie's Domestic, containing also all the Diseases of the Urinary and Genital Organs. 372 pages, 12mo. $1.25.

Laurie, Dr. J. The Parent's Guide. Containing the Diseases of Infancy and Childhood, and their Homœopathic Treatment. To which is added a Treatise on the Method of Rearing Children from their Earliest Infancy; comprising the essential branches of moral and physical education. Edited with additions. By W. Williamson, M.D. 460 pages, 12mo. $1.00.

☞ All the diseases to which children are liable, are described in this volume with remarkable conciseness and accuracy, and their treatment is indicated in such plain and precise language that no intelligent parent can have any difficulty in conducting to a satisfactory termination the various diseases described in this work.

Laurie, Dr. J. The Homœopathic Domestic Medicine. Fifth American from the twenty-first English edition. Edited and revised, with numerous important additions, and the introduction of the new remedies. By R. J. McClatchey, M.D. 1034 pages, 8vo. $5.00.

☞ The merits of "Laurie's Homœopathic Domestic Medicine" are best attested by the popularity of the work in Great Britain, where upwards of twenty-one thousand copies have been sold to the most intelligent portion of the community, and in this country the work rau through three editions in the first year.

Lippe, Dr. A. Key to the Materia Medica. 144 pages, 8vo. 75 cents.

☞ This is the first and only number of a series which were to contain a characteristic Materia Medica. The following remedies are treated of in this number: Aconitum nap., Arsenicum alb., Belladonna, Pulsatilla, Sepia, Sulphur, Phosphorus, Calcarea carb., Tilia europ., Agaricus musc., Rhus tox.

Lord, I. S. P. On Intermittent Fever and other Malarious Diseases. 341 pages, 8vo. $3.00.

☞ In an introduction of forty-seven pages, the author lays down his theory, and substantiates his views by a record of two hundred and fifteen cases of ague, of all kinds, giving their treatment, and a running commentary thereon. To these a very copious double index—one to the remedies and the other to the symptoms—serves as a concordance.

Lutze, Dr. A. Manual of Homœopathic Theory and Practice, Designed for the use of Physicians and Families. Translated from the German, with additions. By C. J. Hempel, M.D. From the sixtieth thousand of the German edition. 750 pages, 8vo. $2.50.

☞ This work, from the pen of the late Dr. Arthur Lutze, has the largest circulation of any Homœopathic work in Germany, no less than sixty thousand copies having been sold. The Introduction, occupying over fifty pages, contains the question of dose and rules for examining the patient, and diet; the next sixty pages contain a condensed pathogenesis of the remedies treated of in the work; the description and treatment of diseases occupy four hundred and eighteen pages, and the whole concludes with one hundred and seventy-three pages of Repertory and a copious Index; thus forming a concise and complete work on Theory and Practice.

Madden. Uterine Diseases, with an Appendix, containing Abstracts of 180 cases of Uterine Diseases and their Treatment; together with Analytical Tables of results, ages, symptoms, dose, etc., to which is added a Clinical Record of interesting cases, treated in the Manchester Homœopathic Hospital. 111 pages, 8vo. 50 cents.

Physician's Visiting List. The Homœopathic. By R. Faulkner, M.D., with a Repertory by W. J. Blakely, M.D. Morocco, gilt edge, 12mo. $2.00.

☞ This visiting list differs materially from any hitherto published, and has been arranged with a view of affording the physician a book much less cumbersome than those at present in use, and yet containing everything necessary in a work of this kind. This has been accomplished by increasing the length, and by the omission of a large number of pages usually devoted to subjects entirely foreign, and of which but little use is made by the physician.

Practical Guide to the Treatment of the Common Disorders with Homœopathic Remedies. With Instructions as to Diet and Hygienic Recommendations. 64 pages, 64mo. 20 cents.

Philadelphia Journal of Homœopathy, edited by W. A. Gardiner, M.D., assisted by the following contributors: Drs. B. F. Joslin, A. H. Okie, H. C. Preston, I. P. Dake, P. P. Wells, W. E. Payne, C. Dunham, Jas. Kitchen, W. S. Helmuth, A. E. Small, S. R. Dubbs. 4 volumes. Bound, 8vo. $8.00.

Rapou, Dr. A. Treatise on Typhoid Fever and its Homœopathic Treatment Translated from the French. By A. A. Granville. 96 pages, 12mo. 50 cents.

☞ Dr. Rapou has earned his title to instruct us on the subject he has chosen, at the bedside of from seventy to eighty patients attacked with Typhoid Fever, in all degrees of severity, of whom he has not lost a single case.

Rau, Dr. G. L. Organon of the Specific Healing Art of Homœopathy. By C. J. Hempel, M.D. 200 pages, 8vo. $1.25.

Raue, Dr. C. G. Special Pathology and Diagnosis, with Therapeutic Hints. 644 pages, extra 8vo. $5.00.

☞ This standard work is used as a text-book in all our colleges, and is found in almost every physician's library. An especially commendable feature is, that it contains the application of nearly all the new remedies contained in Dr. Hale's work on Materia Medica.

Raue, Dr. C. G. Annual Record of Homœopathic Literature, 1870, 496 pages, 8vo. $3.50.

Raue, Dr. C. G. Annual Record of Homœopathic Literature, 1871, 255 pages, 8vo. $2.50.

Raue, Dr. C. G. Annual Record of Homœopathic Literature, 1872, 338 pages, 8vo. $3.00.

Raue, Dr. C. G. Annual Record of Homœopathic Literature, 1873, 332 pages, 8vo. $3.00.

Raue, Dr. C. G. Annual Record of Homœopathic Literature, 1874, 376 pages, 8vo. $3.00.

Reil, Dr. A. Monograph on Aconite, its Therapeutic and Physiological Effects, together with its Uses and Accurate Statements, derived from the various sources of Medical Literature. Translated from the German by H. B. Millard, M.D. Prize essay. 168 pages, 8vo. 75 cents.

☞ Few remedies in the Materia Medica enjoy a higher and more deserved reputation for usefulness than that which is the subject of this Monograph, or have received more consideration from writers eminent in medicine, of every age and school. The Essay of Dr. Reil, containing the most recent facts and experience in relation to the subject, and completely exhausting, as it does, everything of interest connected with it, may be justly regarded as the most thorough and complete treatise upon Aconite ever yet presented.

Rokitansky's Pathological Anatomy. The Abnormal Conditions of the Organs of Respiration. Translated from the German, with additions on Diagnosis from Schönlein, Skoda, and others, by J. C. Peters, M.D. 164 pages, 8vo. 75 cents.

☞ Rokitansky's book is what it professes to be: it is morbid anatomy in its densest and most compact form, scarcely ever alleviated by cases, histories, or hypotheses; it is just such a work as might be expected from its author, who is said to have written in it the results of his experience gained in the careful examination of over twelve thousand bodies, and who is possessed of a truly marvelous power of observing and amassing facts.

Rueckert, Dr. E. F. Therapeutics; or, Successful Homœopathic Cures, collected from the best Homœopathic periodicals. Translated and edited by C. J. Hempel, M.D. 496 pages, 8vo. $4.00.

☞ We possess a rich treasure of successful cures, all of which are of great importance to the practitioner. Those cures which have been effected by one single, or at most two or three remedies, appear to be the most instructive, and the present collection is chiefly composed of such cases. The author has intermixed them with practical remarks, and he constantly indicates the source whence the information has been derived.

Ruddock, Dr. E. H. The Diseases of Infants and Children, and their Homœopathic Treatment, with Hints on the General Management of Children. $2.00.

Ruoff's Repertory of Homœopathic Medicine. Nosologically arranged. Translated from the German by A. H. Okie, M.D. With additions and improvements by G. Humphrey, M.D. 251 pages, 12mo. $1.50.

☞ As a book of reference for the practitioner, the present work far excels every other work, presenting him at a glance what he might otherwise seek for amidst a confused mass of records and never find. The indefatigable author has drawn his matter from the infallible results of experience, leaving out all guesswork and hypothesis.

Rush, Dr. John. Veterinary Surgeon. The Hand-Book to Veterinary Homœopathy, or the Homœopathic Treatment of Horses, Cattle, Sheep, Dogs, and Swine. From the London edition. With numerous additions from the seventh German edition of Dr. F. E. Günther's "Homœopathic Veterinary." Translated by J. F. Sheek, M.D. 150 pages, 24mo. 50 cents.

Schaefer, J. C. New Manual of Homœopathic Veterinary Medicine. An easy and comprehensive arrangement of diseases, adapted to the use of every owner of domestic animals, and especially designed for the farmer, living out of the reach of medical advice, and showing him the way of treating his sick horses, cattle, sheep, swine, and dogs, in the most simple, expeditious, safe, and cheap manner. Translated from the German, with numerous additions from other veterinary manuals. By C. J. Hempel, M.D. 321 pages, 8vo. $2.00.

Schuessler, Dr. The Twelve Tissue Remedies and Their Use in Trituration, recommended for investigation. By C. Hering, M.D Third edition, much improved. I—Introduction. II—History. III—How they were Found. IV—Indications. V—Repertory. 91 pages, 16mo. 60 cents.

Sharp, W. Tracts on Homœopathy. Twelve numbers, 50 cents. Bound in muslin, 12mo. 75 cents.

Small, Dr. A. E. Manual of Homœopathic Practice, for the use of Families and Private Individuals. Fourteenth enlarged edition. 831 pages, 8vo. $3.00.

Small, Dr. A. E. Manual of Homœopathic Practice. Translated into German. By C. J. Hempel, M.D. Eleventh edition. 643 pages, 8vo. $3.00.

Small, Dr. A. E. The Pocket Manual of Homœopathic Practice. Abridged from the "Manual of Homœopathic Practice." By J. F. Sheek, M.D. 126 pages, 36mo. 40 cents.

Small, Dr. A. E. Diseases of the Nervous System, to which is added a Treatise on the Diseases of the Skin, by Dr. C. E. Toothacker. 216 pages, 8vo. $1.00.

☞ This treatise is from the pen of the distinguished author of the well-known and highly popular work, entitled "Small's Domestic Practice;" it contains an elaborate description of the various diseases of the nervous system, together with a full statement of the remedies which have been used with beneficial effect in the treatment of these disorders.

Stapf, Dr. E. Additions to the Materia Medica Pura. Translated by C. J. Hempel, M.D. 292 pages, 8vo. $1.50.

☞ This work is an indispensable appendix to Hahnemann's Materia Medica Pura. Every remedy is accompanied with extensive and most interesting clinical remarks and a variety of cases illustrative of its therapeutical uses.

Tarbell, Dr. J. A. Sources of Health and the Prevention of Disease; or, Mental and Physical Hygiene. 170 pages, 12mo. 50 cents.

Tessier, Dr. J. P. Clinical Researches concerning the Homœopathic Treatment of Asiatic Cholera. Translated by C. J. Hempel, M.D. 109 pages, 8vo. 75 cents.

Tessier, Dr. J. P. Clinical Remarks concerning the Homœopathic Treatment of Pneumonia, preceded by retrospective views of the Allopathic Materia Medica, and an explanation of the Homœopathic Law of Cure. Translated by C. J. Hempel. 131 pages, 8vo. 75 cents.

Williamson, Dr. W. Diseases of Females and Children, and their Homœopathic Treatment. Third enlarged edition. 256 pages. 12mo. $1.00.

☞ This work contains a short treatise on the Homœopathic treatment of the diseases of females and children, the conduct to be observed during pregnancy, labor, and confinement, and directions for the management of new-born infants.

Wolf, Dr. C. W. Apis Mellifica; or, the Poison of the Honey Bee, considered as a Therapeutic Agent. 80 pages, 12mo. 25 cents.

☞ This is the most elaborate treatise upon the above drug in print, as the author (one of our most skilful physicians) spared no pains in making it an excellent exponent of Apis mellifica and its medical virtues.

AUTHORS IMPROVED

Authors in its various forms is the most popular game ever published, and AUTHORS IMPROVED, invented and patented by the publishers, is so far superior in method to the original game, that it is almost new. New plates have been prepared this season, in which portraits of the authors are introduced in the same manner that several years ago Dickens and his characters were illustrated in the game of Popular Characters from Dickens. The cards also are finished with the cream enamel water-proof, which gives them a beautiful surface and renders them so perfectly water-proof that even ink spots may be washed off. For beauty of design and perfection of finish these cards are unequaled, and if the patented method of play is also considered, the game far excels all others.

In elegant morocco and gilt case, ... 1.50

AMERICAN BELL & HAMMER

An old and very popular German game, remodeled with original and improved rules and appurtenances that render it a new American Game. Very different from all other games in the market.
Price, two styles, 75 cts. and $1.00.

AMERICAN HISTORY.

A simple jolly game of Revolutionary history, with portraits of patriots. Adapted to the Centennial year. Price, 50 cts.

AMERICAN JACK STRAWS

A very neat style of a game, always popular. The sticks are worked to their various forms from wood by machinery invented for the purpose, and are the only machine-made Jack Straws ever manufactured from wood or other material sufficiently light to be desirable.
Two styles; price, No. 1, 60 cts.; No. 2, 30 cts.

ALPHABET AND OBJECT TABLETS

Heavy pasteboard picture cards, with alphabet on backs. Price, 25 cts.

The jolliest game known for a whole family. No thought or mental effort necessary. The acme of sociability and fun. The popularity of this game has demanded several styles.

KINDERGARTEN Weaving and Braiding.

A popular amusement and profitable recreation for little misses, which may be enjoyed without companions. Adapted to the home from the Kindergarten. Price, 65 cts.

The Kindergarten Alphabet and Building Blocks, originated by us several years ago, and since become very popular, were the first practical combination of letters, figures, etc., with blocks of suitable forms for building. The blocks are in the forms of whole and divided bricks, which forms are recognized not only in the Kindergarten, but in practical architecture as the best possible for building. The colors are in oil, and with the letters, figures, animals, etc., are very attractive and instructive. Various styles at the following prices: 25 cents, 40 cents, 50 cents, 80 cents, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75.

The Little Object Teacher.

This is a fine black walnut box containing a series of picture tablets, and a large number of alphabets mounted on heavy paper board, and cut up accurately so as to fit into grooves or the inside of the box cover. The names of the objects on the tablets may be set up beneath them from the alphabets like type-setting, or in the same way short sentences may be set up. Two styles; prices, 75 cents and 50 cents.

Queen's Guards.

A very pleasing Game of skill on folding board from the English.

Two styles; prices, 50 cents, and 25 cents.

Improved Robinson Crusoe

A splendid Game of chance played on a large folding board 18x18 inches. Method new and original. Pleasing for parents and small children together. Price, $1.25.

Two smaller and more simple editions for children. Prices, 50 cents and 25 cents.

Robbers and Giant.

A small folding board complete without box. Price, 25 cents.

OUR PANORAMAS.

The following series of Panoramas are universally popular, because they combine instruction with amusement. The simple idea of pasting together a number of disconnected pictures in the form of a Panorama, has little interest to a child after having seen them once, but if the pictures have a historical connection, and are accompanied by such explanations as render them intelligible, the interest then becomes permanent, and the result is the unconscious reception of a valuable store of knowledge by the child.

The Historiscope.

A PANORAMA AND HISTORY OF AMERICA.

This is a miniature Panorama of the early history of this Country, beautifully colored, mounted on rollers, and enclosed in a neat box, containing, together with the Panorama, a sheet of admission tickets, a show-bill advertising the exhibition, and a brief Descriptive Lecture, which, together with the pictures, serve to fix in the mind the principle events of history, in their chronological order.

As the most interesting events relate to the early years of the present century, this is specially interesting for the Centennial. Price, $1.25.

The Myriopticon.

A Historical Panorama of the late war, arranged on the same general plan as the Historiscope. Price, $1.25.

AMERICAN KINDER-GARTEN

Gifts and Occupation Material.

First Gift. Six Soft Colored Balls. Price per set, $1.00.

Second Gift. Sphere, Cubes and Cylinder of Wood, with holes and staples, in wooden box with gibbet. Per box, $0.70.

Third Gift. Large Cube, consisting of 8 small Cubes. Wooden box. $0.30.

Fourth Gift. Large Cube, consisting of 8 oblong blocks. Wooden box. $0.30.

Fifth Gift. Large Cube, consisting of 21 whole, 6 half, and 12 quarter cubes. Wooden box. $0.75.

Sixth Gift. Large Cube consisting of 18 whole, and 3 lengthwise, and 6 breadthwise, divided oblong blocks. Wooden box. $0.75.

Seventh Gift. Quadrangular and triangular tablets—five different kinds—for laying figures. The whole set made of heavy paper board. In paper boxes, $1.25. In wooden boxes—Box A, 8 squares, $0.30. Box B, 64 half squares, $0.75. Box C, 24 equilateral triangles, colored, $0.60. Box D, 64 obtuse angled triangles, $0.75. Box E, 56 right angled 30° triangles, $0.75. All the diagrams for the first seven gifts are furnished in Parts I and II of PARADISE OF CHILDHOOD.

Eighth Gift. Wooden Staffs, or small sticks, for laying figures of straight lines—1,000 sticks, 5½ inches long. $0.30.

Ninth Gift. Whole and half wire rings, for laying figures of curved lines. Per box. $0.75.

Tenth Gift. The material used is first, a slate ruled with squares on one side, and next paper ruled in squares on both sides. Slates 9x12, each, $0.40. Paper, 25 sheets, fine squares, and 25 sheets, coarser squares, making 50 sheets in package, $0.50. All the diagrams for eighth, ninth, and tenth gifts are in Part III of PARADISE OF CHILDHOOD.

Eleventh Gift. Material for perforating ; 150 sheets, heavy paper, 4½x6½ inches, $0.50. Needles with ebony handles, each, $0.10. Per dozen, $1.00. The ruled drawing-paper of the tenth gift is folded over the plain paper of the eleventh gift as a guide, and the pricking done through both.

Twelfth Gift. Material for embroidering. At the commencement the paper of the eleventh gift is used, but at the suggestion of prominent American Kinder-gartners, we have prepared a set of dies for pricking cards for embroidering. We offer bristol cards 3¾x4½, pricked in 42 designs. Also printed diagrams of 8 additional designs on thin paper large enough to be folded over blank cards for a guide in pricking by hand. As there are over 500 holes in some of the pricked cards, the great saving in time to teachers by their use is evident. Full sheets of diagrams furnished to the trade, from which they can order the pricked cards by numbers.

Pricked cards, per 100,	$1.25.
Printed designs, per set of 8,	0.05.
Set of designs, animals, etc.,	0.07.

Thirteenth Gift. Cutting of paper, and combining the parts so produced into figures. Complete instructions and diagrams are published in Part IV, PARADISE OF CHILDHOOD, for this most curious and interesting gift. Formerly the teacher was obliged to make cutting marks on the folded papers, but we have prepared papers with faint lines, accurately ruled on them, corresponding with the designs, so that the pupils are enabled to prepare their own papers, thereby relieving the teachers and affording the scholars more practice and instruction.

Fifty ruled squares of white paper, and 45 pieces 10 inches square of fine heavy blue paper are put up in a portfolio, thus furnishing sufficient material to produce, mounted, the designs furnished in the "Paradise of Childhood." Price per set as above, 75 cents.

The ruled white papers at 60 cents per one hundred sheets. These sheets are necessarily made with the greatest care as each piece must be exactly square and must be ruled with perfect accuracy.

Fourteenth Gift. Material for weaving or braiding. Strips of colored paper are by means of a steel needle of peculiar construction, woven into a differently colored sheet of paper which is cut into strips throughout its entire surface, except a margin at each end to confine the strips in place. The greatest variety of designs are produced, and inventive powers of teacher and pupil constantly increase their numbers.

We prepare these papers in strips of two widths, ⅛ and ¼ inch, which we designate wide and narrow, and put up in boxes. A neat box containing twelve sheets of slitted paper with a suitable number of strips for braiding, and one steel weaving needle constitute a set of material. The widths are not assorted in same box. Assorted colors in each box. Per box, 40 cents. The mats and strips assorted colors in bulk, per dozen sets, 20 cents. Steel weaving needles, per dozen, $1.20.

Fifteenth Gift. Fifty slats, 10 inches long for interlacing. Per set, 30 cents.

Sixteenth Gift. A set of jointed slats with four, six, eight, and sixteen links. Four jointed pieces form a set. In a hox, per set, 60 cents.

Seventeenth Gift. Paper strips for lacing. Paper strips of various colors—eight, or ten inches long, and folded lengthwise—are used to represent a variety of fanciful forms, by hending and twistiug them according to certain rules ; 100 strips assorted lengths, widths and colors, 20 cents.

Eighteenth Gift. Material for paper folding. Square pieces of paper are here used to form variously-shaped objects by folding. The variety is endless, and the work prepares the pupil for many a useful similar manual performance in practical life. The paper must he cut exactly square. Paper cut to size in package of 480 sheets. Per package, 75 cents.

Nineteenth Gift. Material for Peas-Work. Peas are soaked for twelve hours in water, and pieces of wire of various lengths, pointed at the ends, are stuck into them, for the purpose of imitating ohjects of life and the various geometrical figures. Skeletons are thus produced, which develop tho eye for perspective drawing most successfully. A set of one hundred wires, pointed at each end, and of assorted lengths of 1, 1½, 2, 2½, 3, 3½ and 4 inches; in hox. Per hox, 20 cents.

Twentieth Gift. Matcrial for Modeling. Bees-wax, clay or other material, worked with a small wooden knife, on a light smooth board, are used for this purpose. Modeling Knives, of wood, each, 10 cents to 20 cents. Modeling Boards, each, 12 cents.

For the use of families, we put up a complete set of the ahove gifts, with a copy of WIEBE'S PARADISE OF CHILDHOOD, in an elegant Black Walnut Case, at the greatly reduced price of $12.00.

The Only complete Kinder-garten Instructor in the English Language,

THE PARADISE OF CHILDHOOD.

A Manual for Self-Instruction in Friedrich Froebel's Educational Principles, and a Practical Guide to Kinder-Gartners.—By EDWARD WIEBE.

This book contains seventy-six large donble column quarto pages of letter press, and seventy-four full page Lithographed plates. The engravings are from German plates that have been carefully revised and corrected by Prof. Wiehe. The work is for the use of teachers and mothers; it is published in Four Parts, each complete in itself. Part I.—Contains First, Second, Third and Fonrth Gifts with nine plates. Part II.—Contains Fifth, Sixth and Seventh Gifts and twenty plates. Part III.—Contains Eighth, Ninth and Tenth Gifts, and seventeen plates. Part IV.—Contains Eleventh to Twentieth Gifts inclusive, and twenty-eight plates. Each part paper cover, $0.75. Four parts, paper cover, $2.50. Four parts bound in one Volume, fancy cloth and gilt side, $3.00.

This standard work, allowed to be the most perfect ever published in any language, supplies in addition to a full exposition of the Kinder-garten method, a complete set of diagrams for all of the gifts, which are in this way procured in a permanent form much cheaper than they can otherwise be obtained. Every parent and teacher in this country should have a copy of PARADISE OF CHILDHOOD.

Special attention is invited to the pricked cards for the Twelfth Gift, which are made hy no other party. Also to the ruled papers for the Thirteenth Gift, which are original with us.

Kinder-garten, Weaving and Braiding for the Family. The 14th Gift, with full directions and diagrams which we have published for several years, has proved one of the most valuable playthings, or occupations in many a family.

Bradley's Kinder-garten Alphabet and Building Blocks Are strictly the 6th Gift enlarged, colored and ornamented with animals, alphabets, &c. No other class of Blocks are as interesting or valuable in every way to children of all ages as the Kinder-garten forms. The application of colors and designs to the surfaces of Kinder-garten forms, is original with us, and has produced the most popular line of hlocks ever manufactured.

The Little Object Teacher. A valuable occupation instructor for school or family; combining spelling game and puzzle, with colored pictures of familiar objects. Price, $0.75.

Alphabets and Objects Bewitched. Multum in parvo. Letter Game, Spelling Puzzle, Rebus Game and Puzzles, Object Teacher, &c., all in one package, Price, only 25 cents.

The Magiscope. A wonderful, instructive and amusing optical toy and parlor ornament. Any one can see through a grindstone hecause there is a hole in it; but ordinary mortals can not see through a solid block of wood or metal. With this magical toy any person can render a block of wood transparent or opaque at pleasure. The company may examine the block as critically as they please, and not detect the trick. Entirely novel in its operation. Also without the secret manipulation of the operator it forms an amusing, instructive and elegant ornament for the parlor table. Price, $1.75.

BRADLEY'S NEW

ORNAMENTAL BUSINESS CARDS.

The Black Design Cards. UNIQUE AND NOVEL. Size, 4¾ x 2¾. Fine Black Bristol Cards, lithographed with ornaments in Bronze, so ingeniously designed that type found in any well-appointed printing office can be arranged to produce effects equal to engraved cards. Six original designs, each printed in four colors of Bronze—assorted Gold, Silver, Fire and Green. This is an entirely original and unique line of cards, adapted to the use of first-class business houses. An elegant and standard thing.

Floral Chromo Cards. NEW AND ORIGINAL. Size, 3⅜ x 2. A set of five new Floral designs, on black ground with white panel. The finest Floral Cards ever published for the price.

National Flags. WITH PANEL. Size, 3⅜ x 2¼. A set of Six National Flags with neutral tint ground and white panel, large enough to afford ample room for printing an advertisement. Entirely new arrangement. The Flags are United States, Great Britain, France, Germany, Spain, Brazil. This Series has proved the most popular in the market for this international season.

National Flags. DIAMOND PATTERN. Size, 3¼ x 2. Advertisement to be printed on back. Six Flags, as follows:—United States, Great Britain, (Royal Standard,) Germany, (Imperial Standard,) France, Russia, Brazil.

The above cards are all printed and cut so accurately that they will register perfectly, each set requiring but one form and one setting of gauges. Those printers who have tried to use some of the illuminated cards heretofore offered, will appreciate the above quality, which is secured in our cards at a very considerable additional expense in cutting.

The quality of printing is very superior, and the colors used in the Chromo Cards are of the best imported.

A complete illustrated price-list furnished the trade on application.

A line of samples—23 cards—furnished the trade, together with price-list, for 15 cents.

Novelties constantly being added.

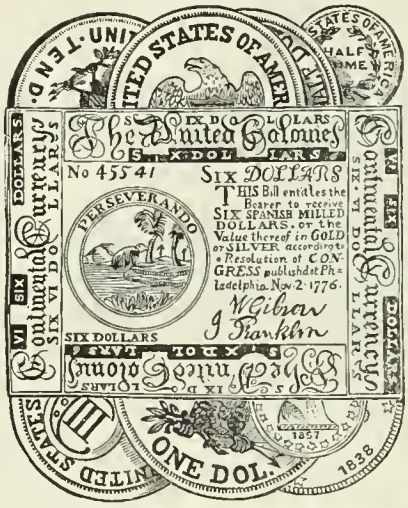
Price-list and stock ready for early fall trade.



CENTENNALIA.

A PATRIOTIC GAME.

This original and exciting game is played with cards bearing the portraits of twenty-two patriots of one hundred years ago, and other historical and emblematical designs.

The method of the game is very social, entirely original, and must become immensely popular while the historical events brought constantly to mind, are instructive, and at this time, very interesting.

The cards are finished in cream water-proof enamel, having fancy backs, and are elegant in every respect. Price, 50 cents.

PITCH-A-RING.

The Champion Game of the Century.

☞ Entirely new in method, intensely exciting and interesting.
A companion for the Croquet on the lawn, and the universal favorite in the parlor.

A NEW SERIES OF CATHOLIC SCHOOL BOOKS.

"The Young Catholic's Illustrated School Series."

The Catholic Publication Society has now in press, and in preparation, a new Series of School-Books, to be known by the above title, which is copyrighted. The following books are now ready for delivery:

The Young Catholic's Illustrated Primer,	$0 20
" " " " Speller,	25
" " " " First Reader,	25
" " " " Second Reader,	45
" " " " Third Reader,	60
" " " " Fourth Reader,	75
" " " " Fifth Reader,	1 25
" " " " Sixth Reader,	1 50
Young Ladies' Reader,	1 25

These readers are compiled by competent hands, and the proof-sheets have been carefully read and revised by Rev. J. L. Spalding, S.T.L. It is also the intention of The Catholic Publication Society to issue from time to time all the books needed in a well-regulated Catholic School. Special terms given for introduction.

Approbations of "The Young Catholic's School Readers," etc.

From the Archbishop of Oregon.

Portland, Oregon, Aug. 21, 1875.

L. Kehoe, Esq.:

Dear Sir: Among the many services which The Catholic Publication Society is rendering to our holy Church, that of having published a Series of new school-books, entitled "The Young Catholic's School Series," is one of the greatest. It, having spared neither labor nor expense, has been well rewarded in making the Series not only equal to any of a like character, but also, in matter of arrangement and choice, far superior to any yet presented to the Catholic public. As such, I approve and recommend the Series to parents, teachers, and public patronage.—Yours truly, ✠ F. N. Blanchet, Archbishop of Oregon.

P.S.—Your Series is in use in Oregon since last year.

From the Bishop of Detroit.

Detroit, Sept. 21, 1875.

L. Kehoe, Esq., Agent of The Catholic Publication Society:

Dear Sir: We take pleasure in acknowledging the receipt of "The Young Catholic's Illustrated School Series," from the Primer to the Sixth Reader, published by The Catholic Publication Society. As this Series has the merit of having been "compiled by competent hands," and received the favorable recommendations of experienced schoolmen and of able judges, we doubt not that it will be welcomed by, and meet with the approval of, all who are interested in the Catholic schools in our diocese.—Yours in Christ,

✠ C. H. Borgess, Bishop of Detroit.

From the Bishop of Newark.

NEWARK, June 6, 1876.

L. KEHOE, Esq., New York:

DEAR SIR: The school-books prepared by The Catholic Publication Society are in general use in the parochial schools of this diocese, and in every instance, as far as I have been able to ascertain, they have given complete satisfaction. I trust The Catholic Publication Society will be encouraged to extend its labors still further, and to give us standard text-books in every department of study.—Very truly yours, ✠ MICHAEL, Bishop of Newark.

From the Bishop of Erie.

ERIE, July 29, 1875.

MR. LAWRENCE KEHOE:

DEAR SIR: The "Young Ladies' Reader," published at the establishment of which you are the general agent, is, in my opinion, the best work of the kind I have seen. Its lessons are entertaining and instructive. Such of them as treat of religious subjects are not only interesting but edifying, while the general style in which all are written leaves nothing to be desired. Your "Full Catechism of the Catholic Religion," translated from the German of Rev. J. Deharbe, S.J., by Rev. John Fander, I have examined, as yet, only in a very cursory manner; but what I have read of it convinces me that the popularity it has enjoyed in Germany, since its publication in 1847, is well deserved.

I hope the efforts you are making to supply the Catholic community with an excellent series of school-books will meet with the encouragement it so well deserves.

Yours sincerely, ✠ T. MULLEN, Bishop of Erie.

From Bishop McNeirny.

ALBANY, Nov. 1, 1875.

The Series of Readers published by The Catholic Publication Society appear to me worthy of the patronage of Catholic houses of education. I very cheerfully approve this series, and commend it to the Catholics of the Diocese of Albany.

✠ FRANCIS, Bp. Adm'r of Albany.

From Miss Nardin.

ST. MARY'S ACADEMY,
BUFFALO, Oct. 18, 1875.

I have introduced into my schools "The Young Catholic's Series of Readers," published by The Catholic Publication Society, New York.

I believe it to be the best Series of Catholic Readers now in use. E. NARDIN.

From Rev. John G. Venneman, S.J.

ST. IGNATIUS' COLLEGE, 413 W. 12TH ST.,
CHICAGO, ILL., July 26, 1874.

L. KEHOE, ESQ., New York:

DEAR SIR: Please to accept the thanks of the Faculty for the three volumes entitled "Young Catholic's Illustrated School Series"—Primer, First Reader, Second Reader. Upon hasty perusal I find them excellent for the use of our schools, and my wish is that they may be introduced into every Catholic school in the States.

Very respectfully,
JOHN G. VENNEMAN, S.J., Sec.

From Bro. Flavian.

ST. ALOYSIUS' ACADEMY,
FRANKFORT, KY., May 22, 1875.

DEAR SIR: The "Sixth, Fifth, Fourth, and Third Readers" of "The Young Catholic's Series," which you sent me, are received with many thanks. I assure you that I have found none so well adapted for Catholic schools as this series. The subjects in the reading lessons are of the best in every respect. I have introduced them into this Academy, and will advise others to do the same.—Yours respectfully, B. FLAVIAN.

From Bro. Stephen.

CATHEDRAL SCHOOL,
VINCENNES, IND., June 22, 1875.

MR. L. KEHOE:

DEAR SIR: Last February we introduced "The Young Catholic's Readers" into our school, and I assure you I have never found books so well adapted to our wants. The subjects of the lessons are instructive, and interest the little readers so that they cannot but make progress.

Wishing you success in your undertaking, I subscribe myself, yours respectfully, BRO. STEPHEN.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

From the Cincinnati Catholic Telegraph.

They are decidedly the best Catholic Readers published in this country. The grading is almost perfect, the illustrations are very far ahead of those in any other of our Catholic Readers, and the literary selections are made with good judgment and excellent taste. They have another great merit rarely found in Catholic school-books—that of durability. They are strongly put together, and cannot be easily torn apart. The leaves are banded, and not merely joined together with thread and paste.

From the Southern Cross.

"The Young Catholic's Illustrated School Series" has just been forwarded to us. These nine books are so many gems for which the Catholic Church of America will never be too grateful to The Catholic Publication Society. It is our opinion, after a careful review of them and comparison with others that have been in the hands of our children up to this year, that these are by far the best suited to instruct, edify, and interest those for whom they are intended. The numberless engravings with which they are adorned are of a purity of design and a success of execution to suit the artistic taste of the most fastidious.

From the New Orleans Star.

We congratulate The Catholic Publication Society upon the issue of these high-toned, intellectual, and instructive school series, beautiful in binding, clear in type, excellent in matter, and superior to any books of the kind in present use among our schools.

From the Ave Maria.

The Readers we cannot sufficiently praise; they are carefully graded, and compiled with great taste and judgment. The illustrations are good, and we are delighted at the number of religious subjects chosen. Those who know anything about children will readily understand the importance of this. The higher Readers are excellent; the selections are mostly new and well adapted to foster a taste for solid reading. As to the mechanical part of the series—binding, printing, paper, etc.—it is enough to say that it is in keeping with the other books of The Catholic Publication Society. Other school-books—geographies, histories, grammars, etc.—are to be added to the Young Catholic's Series in course of time, and we have reason to think they will be up to the standard of those already published.

From the Boston Pilot.

Unlike the school-books hitherto used by Catholic children, the illustrations in this series are connected with the matter printed in the same page. The illustrations have the advantage of being well drawn and well engraved, and will themselves give children a good lesson in picturesque art. We shall be glad to see this series complete, and we hope the books to come will do no discredit to those before us. . . . The "Third Reader" is certainly one of the best school-readers we have ever seen. It is admirably arranged, the selections are interesting, and the engravings give life and beauty to the book.

The Illustrated Table-Book, and first Lessons in Numbers, . . . , ... $0 20

From the Boston Pilot.

The "Illustrated Table-Book" of the Young Catholic's Series strikes us as being the best primary work of its sort that we have ever seen. It is excellently graded, beginning at the simplest questions—such as: "If you had two cents and spent them, how many would you have left?" "How many are three pencils and one pencil?" etc. The book is illustrated suitably; and the pupil is gradually led up the hill by stages easy and interesting. All that is needed to make this book as nearly perfect as possible is a union of kindergarten teaching with its literary lessons. . . . Our later school-books partake more and more of the object-teaching system; and this primary table-book from The Catholic Publication Society is the best we have yet seen.

EXCELSIOR!

The Cheapest and Most Beautiful System of Writing ever issued.

Thompson's Complete System of Practical Business Penmanship.

ONLY 90 CENTS PER DOZEN.

THE author has been a teacher of penmanship for several years, and, being acquainted with the many systems of writing now in use, he has had an opportunity of examining their merits, and he has invariably observed that the principles of those systems are so complicated as to confuse the pupil, by leading him into a labyrinth of useless flourishes, unnecessary curves, and superfluous rules. To remedy this evil, so prevalent in our schools, Mr. THOMPSON conceived the idea of presenting a system combining elegance with simplicity, and embracing only those graceful, easy movements suggested by nature and good taste.

BOOK I. contains simple and combined exercises on the first three principles. It is designed to teach the proper method of combining the elements of the thirteen short letters. The page is ruled with horizontal lines. Red lines divide it, so that the pupil may write down the columns, and not across the whole page. An analysis of the principles of each letter is given over each copy. After the combinations are fully explained, suggestions are added regarding the method of instruction.

THE LEFT SIDE POSITION is the most convenient; but the style of desks and the direction of the light should always be considered.

BOOK II. contains the stem and looped letters in combination with the short letters. The complete alphabet is given in this book. Minute directions, embracing form and method of teaching, are placed over the head of each copy. The size of the writing is the same as in the preceding number, and it should not be given to a class until No. 1 has been thoroughly studied and carefully written.

BOOK III. opens with the elements of the capitals, exhibiting at a glance the three principles upon which all the capital letters are founded. It contains both alphabets complete. Each capital is carefully analyzed at the head of the copy in which it occurs. The size of the writing is reduced to that of a large business hand. The height of the capitals and looped letters is regulated by two additional red lines. On each page a column is set apart for figures.

BOOK IV. contains two styles of capitals in alphabetical order. Each style is given singly and in combination with the small letters. The size of the writing is now reduced to correspond with the standard business hand.

BOOK V. contains short sentences alphabetically arranged, with a capital on the left and a word on the right. The special principle of each capital is placed at the beginning of the copy. Abundant practice on each capital is thus secured. Red lines divide the page into columns, but the head-line has been removed so as to allow greater freedom.

BOOK VI. contains long sentences alphabetically arranged. The relative size of the letters is based on a scale of fourths. This book supplies the pupils with the most perfect series of copies ever engraved. Each letter is formed according to the principles explained in the lower number of the series, and the size of the writing is suitable for advanced students. It is an excellent book for ladies who do not admire the angular style of writing.

BOOK VII. is devoted to business forms, including promissory notes, drafts, receipts, checks, and ledger headings. The size of the writing is based on that which has been found most useful for business purposes. The copies furnish approved forms for commercial paper.

BOOK VIII. contains two short sentences on each page, the copies being alphabetically arranged. The head-lines of this book are based on the angular style, and are specimens of the very finest writing. No. 8 is better adapted for ladies than any book of the kind published.

BOOK IX. contains poetic selections, invitations, bills, receipts, and other forms suitable for ladies. The scale, size, and style of the writing are the same as in No. 8.

Books 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 form a complete series for boys.

Books 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, and 9 form a complete series for girls.

The head-lines of this series were engraved by the most skilful artist in the United States. The success which attended his efforts called forth the highest praise, and he has since been engaged by leading publishers to engrave the new editions of their series.

TESTIMONIALS.

From the New York Mail.

A very excellent series of progressive writing-books. The copies, which are very nicely engraved, are a full, plain hand, the general adoption of which would be a great convenience to editors and the rest of the world.

From the Daily Chronicle, Washington, D. C.

. . . Thompson's system is the best we have ever had occasion to examine, and we unhesitatingly assert the best one of the many now in use, in our opinion.

From Thos. Hunter, President of the Normal College, New York.

Having carefully examined a series of writing-books by Geo. H. Thompson, I can conscientiously recommend them to my fellow-teachers throughout the city as equal to any now in use and superior to a great many.

From the Sister-Directress, St. Joseph's Academy, Emmittsburg, Md.

We have examined your copy-books carefully, and must acknowledge that they appear to embrace a thorough course.

From the New York Public School Journal.

The Department of Public Instruction of this city, and numerous school boards and private schools in the United States, have adopted the above as a successful effort in the art of caligraphy, and worthy of the study of the children committed to their care. The system is modern and easily acquired. . . . The copy-books are manufactured of the best paper, and the engraving of the head-lines, ruling, etc., are of a very superior character.

From the Mother-Superior, Convent of Mercy, Batavia, N. Y.

We intend to adopt your system of writing entirely in our schools; it is so well adapted to class-writing that we prefer it to any other we have yet seen.

From the Nuns of St. Benedict, Shakopee, Minn.

We are using Thompson's Practical System of Penmanship with the best success in our schools. We recommend the same as the best assistant in teaching penmanship thoroughly.

JUSTICES' BLANKS.

The following lists of Blanks for the use of Justices of the Peace in Ohio will be found very complete, and the Blanks themselves of the latest and most approved forms. The publishers have aimed to incorporate into them such improvements as have been suggested from time to time by those most experienced in their use. They are neat, uniform, and printed on good white paper, with the proper blanks for indorsement on the back of each.

The Blanks are arranged somewhat in the order of their use.

The first column indicates the number of Blanks to a sheet, and the second column the price per quire.

JUSTICE'S CIVIL DOCKET.

This Docket has been carefully prepared from the most approved forms, and will recommend itself to general use, for the following reasons:

1. It insures greater uniformity in the proceedings as they appear upon the record, which is very desirable in all that pertains to legal matters.

2. It suggests readily to the Justice the different items required in the Record, and in the Fee Bill in the margin, and somewhat the order in which they occur. Thus, if the suit is an ordinary one by summons, strike out the words "Bond and Affidavit, Complaint," and then record the Bill of Particulars.

If it is a suit in Attachment, strike out "Complaint," and record the Affidavit, etc.

If it is a suit in Replevin, strike out "Bill of Particulars, Bond, and" and "Complaint," and record the Affidavit, etc.

If it is a suit in Forcible Detainer, strike out "Bill of Particulars, Bond, and Affidavit," and record the Complaint, etc.

So in filling the next blank after "Issued Summons," if in Attachment, follow with Order of Attachment and Notice to Garnishee, to (John Smith), Constable, etc.

So in the Marginal Fee List, each item that may arise in ordinary suits is so placed as to call attention to it readily, and thus will be likely to save to the Justice more in Fees than will pay the difference in cost between this and the ordinary blank Docket.

He opened the way for mercy, and furnished the strongest arguments and helps to repentance.

Disappointed in the Last Day. 24 pp. 6

Show me Myself. 12 pp. 3
A striking story, how this prayer made a girl despair, till "Show me Thyself" gave her peace.

A Family Link. 12 pp. 3
Conversational, showing that one sin is enough to destroy the soul:—readable.

How can a Man be Born when he is Old? 18 pp. 5
Conversion of a hardened man of fifty-eight years, an impressive narrative.

Will, or Must? 12 pp. 3
Excellent, to illustrate the peace which attends cheerful acquiescence in, instead of the misery of reluctant submission to God's providences.

How to become a Christian. 16 pp. 5
Plain, scriptural, helpful.

Not Happy in Heaven. 12 pp. 3
Shows that they can have no comfort in heaven who now have no love for God, for prayer and worship.

The Little Ones Gone Before. By Rev. John R. Thurston. 60 pp. 10
Sweet, tender; the consolations of Christ.

Do you Mean what you Say? 16 pp. 5
What you say in songs, in prayers, in confessions of sin, and in professions of service?—Searching.

Spiritualism. By Austin Phelps, D.D. 36 pp. 6
"Spiritualism is not science; it is not religion; it is not good morals. It is probably of Satanic origin."

The Great Temptation. From "Harvestings." 24 pp. 5
A Christian finds temptation in his wealth, his care of it, and desire to increase it; is in darkness for years, by reason of it.

Conflict and Victory. From "Harvestings." 14 pp. .....

Illustrations in actual experience how conquest over the penurious spirit was secured. "So I went on giving till it was just as easy to give as to eat my dinner."

The Crucible. From "Harvestings." 18 pp.. 5

A believing wife after thirty years' praying, sees the conversion of an unbelieving husband. An impressive narrative.

The Risen Life in Christ Jesus, sometimes called "The Higher Christian Life." By Rev. E. K. Alden, D.D. 40 pp..... 8

A candid statement of the Scripture truth, its relation to our personal responsibility and personal sinlessness, with a correction of what seem erroneous teachings on these points.

Hints Designed to aid Christians in their Efforts to Convert Men to God. By Rev. Drs. Thomas H. Skinner and Edward Beecher. Revised. 38 pp..... 8

Should be pondered prayerfully by every Christian.

Prevailing Prayer. From "Harvestings" 8 pp..... 3

A mother, whose husband was not a Christian, so "prevailed" that her seven children were all planted in the house of the Lord: two became ministers, one a missionary-wife, two deacons, and two helpers in the Lord's Work.

"Who is my Neighbor?" From "Harvestings." 12 pp..... 3

An encouraging narrative of the way in which neglecters of the sanctuary may be won to Christ.

Power with God. From "Harvesting." 8 pp. 3

Apron-Strings, and which Way

they Pulled. By ARCHIE FELL. 16mo. Three engravings..... $1 25

Little Bert had a great horror of what the school-boys called "being tied to his mother's apron-strings," and was led by it accordingly into evil and disgrace. His judicious parents take occasion to show him that all persons are exposed to influences of some kind, good or evil, from their own inclinations or the temptations of others; and the great business of life is to scrutinize these influences, and yield only to those which are right. The lesson is not lost on Bert, and the word becomes a motto in the family. It is a very sprightly story; little "Tiz," especially, affords much amusement.

A very pleasant and instructive volume for the little folks, telling of the struggle of a family of children to break loose from the strings which bound them to pride, and passion, and selfishness, and uncharitableness.—Advance.

Annie Marlowe.

Bashie's Service; or, Where's a

Will, There's a Way. By MIRIAM ALDEN. 16mo, 224 pp. Illustrated..... 1 15

An excellent story of Christian service in behalf of the poor and friendless.

The Boys and Girls of Beech

Hill. By A. J. GREENOUGH. 16mo. Three engravings..... 1 25

A pleasant story of the events of a winter school in Beech Hill, with their effects on the character and subsequent history of the pupils. It contains some admirable analysis of motives and principles, and very judicious instructions as to the way in which young persons are to find a saving interest in Christ. We scarcely know of a book better fitted to be placed in the hands of a child who is inquiring the way of salvation.

PRICE.

Bessie Hartwell; or, Charity.

By the author of "Ruth Derwent," etc. 16mo., 319 pp. Illustrated..... $1 25

Showing how Bessie tried to exemplify this "most excellent" grace, and how she succeeded.

An excellent book for young ladies.—Advocate and Guardian.

This author we should class with those skillful and conscientious book-makers whose efforts are mainly directed to the entertainment and elevation of the young.—Methodist Home Journal.

Bessie and Her Grandfather.

By Mrs. F. B. SMITH. 18mo., 192 pp. Illustrated..... 75

A lively and interesting story, conveying useful religious lessons to the minds of youth. It especially illustrates the beauty of piety in the aged, and its influence upon the young.—Evangelical Repository, Philadelphia.

The story is an excellent one for the Sunday-school library.—S. S. Times.

Chauncey Judd: or the Stolen

Boy. A Tale of the Revolution. By ISRAEL P. WARREN. 12mo., cloth 1 50

Few of the present generation are aware that in the time of the American Revolution, there was carried on a border warfare between Long Island and the Connecticut coast, which, for a romantic incident, was not surpassed by anything described by Walter Scott, in his tales of the Scottish border. The parties in this warfare were mostly the whigs and tories of that day, between whom existed a bitterness of hostility far greater than that between the colonies and the English themselves. The details of the strife, tragic and comic, the plots and counterplots, the deeds of wild adventure, of heroism, and endurance, which then occurred, are here described.—Journal and Courier, New Haven.

PRICE.

Father Merrill.

By Miss M. D. CHELLIS. (Prize Volume.)

16mo., 410 pp. Illustrated..... $1 50

The Committee, in rendering their decision, say: "The character of Father Merrill is delightfully drawn, and discloses a very lovely and practical form of every-day religion, exhibiting itself in the ordinary intercourse and business of life without cant or even demonstration—the very beauty of holiness. It is an uncommonly sensible and admirable book, interesting enough to win the younger readers and profound enough to interest and bless the oldest."

The story is delightful, while its lessons are as truthful and salutary as its characters are natural, and its scenes life-like.—Cong.

Fifty Pictures and Stories, for Simple, easily comprehended, and graphically told, and the whole seems admirably adapted to amuse and interest the small people for whom it is designed.—Advance.

Grace Courtney; or, Seeking the Shepherd. By HOWE BENNING. 16mo. Three engravings..... 1 15

This is a charmingly-written volume, giving the experiences of a girl who leaves home to attend school at seminary. The journey, the scenery, the acquaintances, the aspirations, the different phases of character, the development of true principle, the power of truth spoken in love, the wonderful change of heart and life—these are all graphically described, leading the reader into a candid conception of the influence of true womanhood molded by divine grace. We wish that every family in the land might possess and read this excellent book.—Chicago Life Boat.

A story of a young lady who was converted while at boarding-school, and did much good, both there and afterwards, at her own home. The story is well told, and is suggestive of some of the ways in which boarding-school life, so full of temptation, may be turned to good account.—S. S. Times.

A narrative of the trials and temptations which beset young girls at boarding-school, and showing how much good one such may do, whose actions are controlled by Christian principle.—Advance.

Go-Ahead! Jack the Cabin Boy.

18mo. Three engravings..... 60

A story of a self-made man, well illustrating the old saying, "Be sure you're right, then go ahead." Describing the cabin-boy's efforts at self-advancement, his untiring zeal in the cause of God and humanity, and his final success in achieving a name and place. A most interesting story for boys.—S. S. Workman.

PRICE.

The work exhibits an illustration of the saying that the best men are self-made, and that those who are right in their principles, and work with diligence, do "go ahead."—Christian Era.

The Hand of the Diligent.

18mo. Three engravings..... $0 60

Joe Martin, in "The Hand of the Diligent," wants to be rich, but first learns the superior value of industry, sobriety, honesty and piety. When God gave him wealth he had learned before how to use it so as to bless others and himself by it.—Christian Advocate.

A capital story. A good book for the boys. It shows how one may rightly desire to be rich, how he may rightly become so, and how he may rightly use his riches.—Watchman and Reflector.

Hans the Swiss Boy.

18mo., 112 pp. 50

Jack Masters; or, the Berry-

Pickers. By LUCY A. MILLS. 16mo., 362 pp. Illustrated..... 1 50

The story is not only safe in its teaching and totally free from the love-sick stuff with which many of our Sunday-school books are made nauseous, but also picturesque in its narrative and real in its descriptions. We submitted it to a brace of young critics who do not appreciate dullness, and their verdict was "splendid!" It can be safely put on the list for the new library.—Independent.

Joanna; or, Learning to Follow

Jesus. By MARION HAVEN. 16mo. Three engravings..... 1 25

This is a book of far more than common merit. It is a story of a little German girl, who left her father's house at an early age to come to America. Her tender, boundless trust in Christ, her love for Him, and her earnest service in his cause, are here delineated with great beauty and power. No child could fail to be interested in these incidents, nor fail to be profited by the simple truths here lived out before him.—Watchman and Reflector.

A very pleasant and an exceedingly proper story. We have not found in it a single character that is not entirely unexceptionable.—Christian Union.

It is above the average standard of the large class of similar works to be found in our Sabbath-school libraries.—Association Monthly.

A volume of the better class, both as to literary merit and as to matter and moral.—Christian Advocate.

Johnnie, the Railroad Boy.

By Mrs. L. E. Poole. 16mo., 238 pp. Illustrated..... 1 15

The author is a graduate of the High-School in this city, a teacher in the public schools for seven years, and the wife of an engineer on the Connecticut River Railroad. The book is written in a lively entertaining way, and is becoming popular among the young people.—Springfield (Mass.) Union.

PRICE.

Margaret's Old Home; a Tale of Christian love. By the author of "The New Commandment," "Neighbor's House," etc. 16mo. Three engravings..... $1 50

No other branch of literary composition has shown such steady marks of progress as Sunday-School books, and if this elegant volume is really intended for this purpose, we need no better evidence of an elevation and refinement of taste among the class for which such volumes are written. Ten years ago, a book of so much literary merit, in so beautiful a dress, would have been an elegant birthday or Christmas present. This interesting story possesses also another great merit; it is entirely unsectional and unsectarian in character, being exactly what it pretends to be, "A Tale of Christian Love."—Christian Union.

It is an interesting and profitable story to place in the hands of any youth. The narrative illustrates the power of Christian love and patience in reforming the evils which have grown up in a worldly family, and also in bringing an intemperate and irreligious village under gospel influences.—Boston Traveller.

It is a story above the ordinary standard. It beautifully illustrates the refining influence of true religion in the person and the home, and the power of a single sweet-minded Christian woman to revolutionize not only a household, but a community.—Advance and Guardian.

It is a very interesting and well-written story, and one that will win its way wherever it is known. "Margaret" after many years absence, goes back to her "old home," which she finds in anything but an agreeable state. The changes wrought by her loving heart, and sweet, womanly ways, are very marvelous.—The People, Concord.

Mend Your Nets; or, Little

Jack. 18mo., 200 pp. Illustrated..... 6[illegible]

Broken nets catch no fish. So sins in the heart and conduct are a hinderance to all true prosperity, whether in the things of this life or of the next. Little Jack was a poor fisher-boy, in a very humble condition of life, and his story has little in it romantic or exciting; but he had learned that most important lesson—that the way to success and happiness is to do right, or, as his quaint old friend used to say, to "keep his nets well mended." We hope that every boy who reads the simple story of Jack will as faithfully practice it, as he did.

Mrs. Marsh's Help.

By Rev. J. J. DANA. 16mo., 336 pp. Illustrated ..... 1 [illegible]

A pleasant tale of an English orphan child in America, who in the lowliness of domestic service, learned how to use and adorn the prosperity ultimately attained by her.

PRICE.

Newlyn House; The Home of the Davenports. 16mo. Three Engravings, $1 50

This book gives us a pleasant glimpse into the character and pursuits of the younger members of the family—a motherless family of boys and girls, each striving in his or her way to attain the standard of Christian excellence left for their imitation. The narrative flows on in an easy, increasingly interesting style, recounting the various attempts of each, resulting in failures at first, but, with a firm faith in Him who says, "If any man lack wisdom, let him ask of God, who giveth to all men liberally," are crowned with success at last. This book should be placed within the reach of every child, as the influence it would exert would tend toward the formation of Christian principles never to be removed in after-life. Also a valuable edition to Sunday-school libraries.—S. S. Workman.

The literary merit of the tale is quite up to the steadily-increasing demand for children's books of sterling worth.—Christian Union.

"Newlyn House" is the narrative of a family of children left without a mother. It reminds the reader very much of Miss Yonge's "Daisy Chain." The characters are natural, well described, and will encourage children struggling to overcome faults in temper, carefulness, or self-sacrifice, to continue the hard-fought battle, assured of ultimate success.—Interior.

"Newlyn House" is one of the same books published for young folks, but it is still so good as to be read by old folks too. It is prettily bound, and will afford unbounded delight to its fortunate possessor.—Western Rural.

Nix's Offerings.

By HOWE BENNING, author of "Grace Courtney." 16mo., cloth, 400 pp. Illustrated, 1 50

The offering to God of work, instead of the offering of love, can never be accepted by him. Such is the truth illustrated in this interesting story, which is one of the accomplished author's best.

The evident object of the author is to instill the principle that sacrifices do not propitiate God, nor atone for sin; that "justice, mercy and faith" are "the weightier matters of the law" so often omitted even in what is called a Christian life.—Publishers' Weekly.

This is a book in point of literary excellence above the ordinary Sunday-school books. * * * A good book for young ladies.—Advocate and Guardian.

Ollie and the Boys.

By SALLIE CHESTER. 16mo., 320 pp. Illustrated..... 1 25

A charming story, bright, witty, and at the same time fraught with weighty instruction to the little folks, as to unselfishness, patience, courage and cheerfulness. It teaches children some of the most important lessons, while they read on amused and delighted with the charming talk of Ollie and her friends, and only sad at the close to find the story ends so soon.

Posie, the Minister's Daughter.

16mo. Three Engravings $1 25

Little Posie Keith, the clergyman's daughter, was a Christian. In the simplicity of her faith she sought to do good by bringing the sweet lessons of the Bible, its admonitions, and its promises, to bear upon all her associates. And God gave her success in so doing, showing that there is a power in the purity and beauty of a loving Christian heart which few can resist. The book is written with a singular grace of style, and cannot fail to become a favorite with its youthful readers.

Smith's Saloon; or the Grays and the Grants. By MRS. L. L. WORTH. 16mo. Three Engravings..... ... 1 25

This is a well written Temperance Story. It depicts, in glowing and truthful language, the terrible brood of evils which sprang up from the planting of a "saloon" in the midst of a sober and Christian community—corrupting the morals, destroying the health, and impoverishing those drawn within its influence. Such books need to be multiplied, to impress more deeply the public mind with the fearful curse of intemperance.—Congregational Review.

The old story of temptations, struggles, falls, and risings again of the victims to strong drink. The characters are mostly young people, and the book, therefore, suited to warn and impress the young. Get it for your Sunday-school library.—S. S. Times.

A good Sunday-school book. It is directed chiefly against intemperance, arguing strongly in favor of prohibition. We think the book will interest young readers.—New York Evening Mail.

The Tover Tangle, and the Way it was Straightened Out. By ARCHIE FELL, author of "Apron Strings." 16mo., $1 25

This is a continuation of "Apron-Strings," or rather another story of the same characters, showing the true way to overcome the evil entanglements into which the young are apt to fall. Both of these are very sprightly stories, and very taking with the children.

The Three Judges: Story of the Men who Beheaded their King. By Rev. I. P. WARREN, D. D., with an introduction by Rev. LEONARD BACON, D. D. 12mo., 311 pp., with numerous illustrations, 1 50

This book relates one of the most romantic stories to be found in history—that of the Three Judges, Whalley, Goffe and Dixwell. It gives a succinct view of the great struggle for religious and civil liberty in that age, and of the condition of the little New England Colonies, and their heroism in shielding these victims of royal vengeance, who were concealed in the woods and caves, the cellars and garrets, for nearly twenty years. The narrative abounds in incident and anecdote, and is illustrated by numerous engravings.

Although this is a true and sober account of real history and real personages, yet it reads like a well-wrought romance, and holds the reader's interest unabated to the last page.—Davenport (Iowa) Gazettee.

A book of as absorbing interest as any romance.—Advance.

The story is in itself so romantic and stirring that it could hardly fail to interest however told, but Mr. Warren groups and marshals his facts so deftly, and writes with so much purity, simplicity and ease, that the narrative in his hands becomes more interesting than most fiction.—Arcadian.

The book is a really excellent sketch of the lives of the regicides and of the period with which their careers were bound up.—N. Y. Evening Post.

The whole story is one of the most thrilling chapters in English history, and ought to be made familiar by every one who would know through what struggles and dangers was acquired the great inheritance of English, and thus of American, liberty.—N. Y. Evangelist.

Two Families, and Two Aims in Life. By the author of the "White Chrysanthemum." 16mo., 372 pp. Illustrated, 1 50

Of the faultless mechanical execution of these volumes, and the rare, excellence of the illustrations which accompany them, we can speak with especial emphasis. The importance of placing before our children in the forming-time of their taste and judgment, only the best aspects of art is not sufficiently appreciated by publishers, though the progress of the last few years in this respect has been very great. We take great pleasure, therefore, in rendering our acknowledgments where they are so clearly due.—Christian Union.

PRICE.

Violet and Daisy; or, the Picture with Two Sides. By the author of "Rosa Lindsay," etc. 16mo. Three Engravings..... $1 15

We always appoach a book so chastely and elegantly bound as this one with a certain amount of consideration, and here the beautiful dress only clothes, appropriately, equally lovely thoughts. There is a peculiar fitness for girls in this story, and we are sure every one who is fortunate enough to make the acqnaintance of Violet and Daisy will be the better for it.—Christian Union.

The tone of the book is healthy, and it is fitted to awaken Christian sympathy for the poor and suffering.—Congregational Review.

"Violet and Daisy" presents a striking picture of the contrast between life among the rich and the poor, and shows very happily how each class may become a blessing to the other.—Christian Advocate.

It is a charming story. Both "sides" of the "picture" are well delineated, and we look with delight on the "side" where Violet and Daisy, sweet as the flowers whose names they bear, shine in all their freshness and purity, and with sadness upon the sorrowful "side," where Nellie and "wee Davie" are in poverty and sickness.—The People. Concord.

White Chrysanthemum. (The)

A Story. 16mo. Three Engravings..... 1 50

The "White Crysanthemum" was a pet name given by Mr. Winwood to his young daughter Agnes, because of her love of truth, of which this flower was the symbol. The design of the book is to set forth the beauty of truthfulness, and the methods by which a bright and interesting family were trained to the practice and love of it. The narrative is very entertaining, and interweaves a large amount of useful knowledge. There can be no better book for the young than this, and scarcely any more needful to correct the insincere, the crooked, and the false ways of speech and conduct so lamentably prevalent in society. It is a very handsome book of 389 pages, beautifully printed from new type, and bound in the newest and most attractive style of gold and black.

The moral of the story is excellent, and the story itself is thoroughly interesting. It is a good book for the Sunday-school library.—Sunday-School Times.

It cannot fail to have a good influence.—Advocate and Guardian.

DESCRIPTIVE PRICE LIST.

East Jersey under the Proprietary Governments. By WM. A. WHITEHEAD.

A narrative of events connected with the settlement and progress of the Province until the surrender of the government to the Crown, in 1703, drawn principally from original sources. An appendix is added, containing the model of the government of East New Jersey in America, by George Scot, of Pitlochie, from the original edition of 1685. The author, reaching far back into the history of New Jersey, has gathered together in this volume much material not elsewhere found, and it forms an exceedingly valuable and highly interesting narrative of events connected with the early history of our country.

Second edition, revised and enlarged. 1 vol. 8 vo. Cloth. Price, $4.00. Half Calf, $5.25.

Reminiscences of New Jersey. By LUCIUS Q. C. ELMER, LL.D.

A history of the Constitution and Government of the Province and State of New Jersey, biographical sketches of the Governors, from 1776 to 1845, together with reminiscences of the Bench and Bar, during more than half a century.

1 vol. 8 vo. Cloth. Price, $3.50.

New Jersey and the Rebellion. By JOHN Y. FOSTER.

Being the story of New Jersey's part in the late War of the Rebellion, with maps and a steel portrait of General Kearney. Besides a detailed account of many interresting events, and a very full record of instances of individual bravery, this book contains minute descriptions of many of the most important battles of the war. As an historical narrative, and a compendium of events, it is a valuable contribution to the historical literature of the country.

1 vol. 8 vo. Cloth. Price, $3.50. Sheep, $4.50. Half Calf, $5.00. Morocco, $6.00.

Latin Verbs. By MARTIN BÄHLER, A. M.

A new and concise method of reciting Latin Verbs, adapted to any Latin Grammar. This little book aims to supply a method by which young students may become familiar with the Latin verb in all its different inflections before beginning to read the Latin authors.

1 vol. 12 mo. Paper. Price, 25 cents.

Rudimenta Linguæ Latinæ. By DR. JULIUS D. ROSÉ.

Being a method of teaching the Latin language, by which the exercise of translation is brought into requisition before the student has thoroughly committed the declensions, conjugations and other parts of etymology. The book merely aims to be an AID, and the student who thoroughly masters its contents will be fully able to use a Latin grammar intelligently and profitably.

1 vol. 12 mo. Cloth. Price, $1.00.

Poems. By MRS. ELLEN CLEMENTINE HOWARTH.

A neat volume of Poems, chiefly semi-religious in character, full of tender sympathy and a spirit of devotion, written by one who has experienced much of the bitterness and many of the sweets of life.

Second edition. 1 vol. 12 mo. Cloth, $1.25. Morocco, $3.00.

Offsprings of Fancy. By J. H. POST.

A volume of Poems, written by a Union soldier during the late War of the Rebellion.

1 vol. 12 mo. Cloth. Price, 75 cents.

The Nation's Defenders. By JAMES BARBER.

Being a descriptive account of the National Homes for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, together with valuable statistics relative to the amount of good done by these institutions.

Second edition (enlarged). 1 vol. 12 mo. Paper. Price, 35 cents.

Carmina Princetonia.

A collection of the Student Songs of Princeton College, compiled for the use of the students and friends of the Institution, by F. A. Marquand, F. H. Markoe and W. J. Henderson, of the Class of '76.

3d edition. 1 vol. 8 vo. Cloth. Price, $1.50.

Double-Entry Book-keeping. By M. M. Sommer.

A Practical Guide in tabular form, with commercial calculations adapted to the comprehension of everybody, being a valuable assistant in solving problems, at the same time offering special suggestions to facilitate the keeping of accounts.

1 vol. 8 vo. Paper. Price, 75 cents.

Lester's Look to the East. A Ritual of the First Three Degrees of Masonry. Containing the complete work of the Entered Apprentice, Fellowcraft, and Master Mason's Degrees, and their Ceremonies, Lectures, etc. Edited by Ralph P. Lester. This complete and beautiful Pocket Manual of the First Three Degrees of Masonry, is printed in clear, legible type, and not obscured by any attempts at cipher or other perplexing contractions. It differs entirely from all other Manuals from the fact that it contains neither the passwords, grips, nor any other purely esoteric matter with which Masons, and Masons only, are necessarily entirely familiar. It affords, therefore, a thorough and valuable guide to the regular "work" in the above Degrees, divested of everything that any member of the Fraternity would object to see in print, or hesitate to carry in his pocket.

It embraces the correct routine of Opening and Closing the Lodge in each Degree; calling off and on; calling the Lodge up and down; the regular Order of Business; together with the entire Ceremonies of Initiating, Passing, and Raising Candidates, as well as the Lectures of each Degree, all Ritually and Monitorially complete.

 The reader must go through Hume, Smollett, Macaulay, Froude, Martineau, and others, to go over the ground which is well covered in this work. Not only does it give with accuracy and system the historical events from the Druidical times down to the present decade, but it also depicts minutely the manners and customs of each era. The author suggests that its title should be, a History of the English People, rather than a History of England. Numerous plates illustrate the text, and present vividly to the reader the actors and scenes of the narrative; and a copious Index facilitates reference to the contents of the work.

Count Rumford, The Works of. Carefully Collected and Edited by a Committee of the Academy, consisting of Prof. Winlock, Prof. J. P. Cooke, Jr., F. H. Storer, Esq., Prof. Wyman, J. B. Francis, Esq., E. C. Pickering, Esq., Wolcott Gibbs, Esq.; together with a Life of Count Rumford, by the Rev. GEO. E. ELLIS, D. D. Complete in five volumes. 8vo. Beautifully printed and illustrated. Cloth, $25; Half Calf. $40.00.

 This forms the only complete edition of the works of this great American philosopher and inventor, who may be properly called the PIONEER OF POPULAR SCIENCE AND ECONOMIC REFORM. The works contain full accounts of his experiments in heat, light, electricity, and his wonderful success in the introduction of reforms in the sanitary management of armies and public institutions of Europe. The Life contains all that is known of interest regarding him, from his birth in Woburn, Mass, his voluntary exile from America, his assistance to the British ministry, and afterward, his service in the royal army in America, his being knighted by George III., and appointed Count of the Holy Roman Empire by the Elector of Bavaria, his being raised to the most important positions in the Government of Bavaria, to the time of his death.

Prof. E. L. YOUMANS says of his discoveries: "Rumford was the first to reach experimentally the fundamental conclusion that heat is but a mode of motion."

Hon. ROBERT C. WINTHROP says: "We have never done honor enough to his memory in America. There ought to be a statue of him here, as there is in Munich. It is a tardy act of justice to one who did great things for the world as well as Bavaria.

His plans for the relief and prevention of pauperism would alone entitle him to the blessing of mankind. Almost everything which is valuable in our modern systems of charity may be traced to his writings."

NATURE says: "One remarkable feature of Rumford's papers is their simplicity and clearness. They are all readable to the least initiated in scientific technicalities; every page displays the clear and purely scientific intellect of the writer. He was no mere theorist, however; he carried out practically every principle he expounds. He cooked for tens of thousands in his military kitchens and House of Industry."

☞ No large public or private library should be without a set of these magnificent works.

Tylor (E. B.). Primitive Culture. Researches into the Development of Mythology, Philosophy, Religion, Art, and Custom. 2 vols. $5.00.

 "Scanty justice can be done to Mr. Tylor's admirable discussion of animism. It is in the skill and sagacity with which such illustrations are introduced that one principal charm of Mr. Tylor's book consists. The author asks us to admit nothing on a priori evidence, for which irrefragable inductive proof cannot also be cited, and at every step he halts to take his bearings, minutely scrutinizing the whole visible field. In tracking the wilderness of primeval speculation, he is a guide no less safe than delightful." — JOHN FISKE, in the North American Review.

Tylor (E. B.). The Early History of Mankind, and Development of Civilization. By EDWARD B. TYLOR, author of "Primitive Culture," "Mexico and the Mexicans," &c. 1 vol. 8vo. $2.50.

 "Nothing has appeared for half a century, on the first two books of the Pentateuch, so valuable as the present two volumes (on Genesis and Exodus). His style is lucid, animated, and often eloquent. His pages afford golden suggestions and key thoughts." —Methodist Quarterly.

"The translation here given is very beautiful, and in such explicit language as to be a rich commentary of itself; while the abundant information given in the notes charms the reader on with more than the zest of fiction." — Boston Recorder.

 The clergy of all denominations unite in pronouncing Murphy's Commentaries on the Old Testament Books THE BEST IN THE WORLD.

Critical Commentary on Genesis, Murphy's. With an Introduction by Prof. Alvah Hovey, D. D., of Newton Theological Seminary, and a Preface by Rev. J. P. Thompson, D. D., of Tabernacle Church, New York. 1 vol. Crown 8vo. $2.50.

 "The most valuable contribution that has for a long time been made to the many aids for the study of the Old Testament, is Dr. Murphy's Commentary on Genesis. This volume is racy and readable, as well as reliable. It is a good deal to say of a commentary, but we say it in all sincerity, that it furnishes about as fascinating a work for one's hours of reading as any volume of the day, in any department of literature." — Congregationalist.

"This work is one of great value, and meets the long existing want better than any work on Genesis we have yet seen." — Morning Star.

Novels.

Slaves of the Ring. By F. W. Robinson, author of "Second-Cousin Sarah," "Little Kate Kirby," "For Her Sake," "Poor Humanity," "Her Face was Her Fortune," "True to Herself," "A Woman's Ransom," &c. 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "'Slaves of the Ring' is a remarkably interesting romance, although it finds material for some of its most interesting incidents in the daily routine of farm life. The story is well written, the characters are well drawn, and racy sketches of rural life are pleasantly interwoven with the action of the narrative. The charm of the book consists in the skill with which every-day life is made to yield material for a strikingly exciting and eventful romance, that commands untiring attention through all its details, as well as admiration for the ingenuity evinced in the delineation of the numerous characters figuring in its pages." — Boston Transcript.

A Woman's Ransom. By F. W. Robinson, author of "Slaves of the Ring," "Little Kate Kirby," "For Her Sake," &c. 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "The new novel, by the author of the 'Slaves of the Ring,' is alive with incident; it is ingeniously constructed, and there is a cleverness in incident and management of the story which cannot be denied; the interest is kept up with singular vividness, and without the extravagant expedients to which popular novelists often resort." — Press.

Too Much Alone. By Mrs. J. H. Riddell, author of "A Life's Assize," "Phemie Keller," "George Geith," "Above Suspicion," &c. 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "The story is deeply interesting. It is one of the very best of recent fictions." — Worcester Spy.

Above Suspicion. By arrangement with Mrs. J. H. Riddell, author of "Too Much Alone," "A Life's Assize," &c. 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

A Tangled Skein. By Albany de Fonblanque, Jr., an author who has inherited genius of an uncommon order. 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "This novel captivates the reader when he first opens it, and holds him in strong and agreeable chains to its closing page." — Boston Traveller.

"It is so well written that, having once taken up the book, it will be impossible to lay it down until the end." — Press.

Broken Toys. By Anna C. Steele, author of "So Runs the World Away." 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "A book which charms, and which leaves pleasant memories." — Detroit Free Press.

A Family Tree. By Albany de Fonblanque, Jr., author of "Cut Adrift," "A Tangled Skein." 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

Checkmate. By J. S. Le Fanu, author of "A Lost Name," "Tenants of Malory," &c. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "Full of startling surprises, and written with great power." — N. B. Mercury.

"A powerfully written story, with an excellent plot, well carried out." — Farmer.

"This is a lively book for a leisure hour, abounding in interesting incident, with its plot well worked out. It is, in style, similar to the other works by the author." — Register.

"A work of fiction with a plot as deep as Wilkie Collins's 'Woman in White.'" — Herald.

"A society novel, with a number of characters, and of marked diversity, with great variety of incident, full of startling surprises, and written with great power." — Daily Mercury.

Open Sesame. By Florence Marryat, author of "Love's Conflict," "Prey of the Gods," "Her Lord and Master." With Illustrations. 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "The plot of this story is deeply laid." — Register.

"A story of much love." — Herald.

Deep Waters. By Anna H. Drury, author of "Misrepresentation," &c., &c. 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 What the press says: "One of the best sustained fictions of the season." "A work of more than average ability."

"A novel full of melancholy and pathos." — Democrat.

"The story opens in one of those old English homes which have been highly respectable and wealthy, and is well worth reading." — Commercial, Toledo.

Woman's Love; or, Like and Unlike. By J. F. Smith, author of "Lady Ashleigh," "Marion Burnard," &c. 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "This novel will satisfy the most exacting readers of the old style of romance." —Albany Journal.

Stretton. By Henry Kingsley, author of "Ravenshoe," "Geoffrey Hamlyn," "Hetty," &c., &c. With Illustrations. 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "A charming, bright, and sparkling novel for the tourist." — Bangor Whig,

"Henry Kingsley has done more to cultivate a correct taste among readers of modern novels, than any other author of the day." — Times, New Orleans.

Jettatrice. From the French of Madame Augustus Craven, author of "Fleurange," "A Sister's Story," &c. 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "A tale of rare purity and nobility." — Press.

"A Sicilian romance which ladies especially will find interesting, and which, while prolific in incident, contains nothing objectionable, which is more than can be said for many novels of a like scope and origin." — Palladium, Worcester.

"The scene is laid at Messina, and runs through Naples and Italy." — Courier.

Woven of Many Threads. By C. V. HAMILTON, author of "Ropes of Sand," "Crown from the Spear." 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 50 cts.

 "A story apparently of English origin, in its prevailing tone and certain peculiarities of style, is, in fact, the production of a lady artist in this city, whose vigorous and original portrait of Longfellow (recently on exhibition) elicited warm expressions of approval from the critics." — Home Journal.

"As at present advised, we may venture to say that this 'first novel of the season,' from the pen of an American lady, will meet with acceptance from the readers of fiction. It appears to be, as its name implies, intricate, or, rather, multifarious, in plot and scenes; sufficiently romantic in tone and situations; with sharply outlined and vividly contrasted characters. The style is free and glowing, and the author, locating her story in Italy, finds opportunities to show familiarity with the land of song and art, of which she makes incidental use to heighten the interest of the tale." — Boston Transcript.

Ropes of Sand. By C. V. HAMILTON, author of "Woven of Many Threads," "Crown from the Spear." 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "A work woven as well as this in plot, character, general finish, and execution, deserves to have its writer publicly heralded upon the title-page." — Times.

"These stories show considerable ingenuity and power, cultivated, one would say, rather by the study of romances, than by observation of actual human life and character." — Worcester Spy.

Crown from the Spear. By C. V. HAMILTON, author of "Woven of Many Threads," "Ropes of Sand." 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75

 "It is a story of French domestic life and character, full of interest, and written in attractive style. The moral of the story is that the crown of happiness may be won after long struggle and suffering." — Herald.

"Coming from the pen of the author of 'Woven of Many Threads,' this story is sure of a warm welcome, nor will it altogether disappoint expectation. In some respects it is an improvement upon its predecessor, having a more compact and artistic form, and more powerful interest. But it is less natural and easy. There is more of the regulation novel, both in plot and characterization." — Phil. Inquirer.

Kate Beaumont. By J. W. DE FOREST, author of "Overland," "Miss Ravenel's Conversion," "Playing the Mischief." 1 vol. 8vo. Illustrated. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "He has written a novel that is very readable, and he has given proof of being able to do more and better work. His painstaking, his careful observation and sprightliness, are qualities which will certainly achieve a more than partial success." — Nation.

"One of the chief charms of MR. DE FOREST'S writings is the quiet and delicate humor pervading them. It cannot easily be taken from its surroundings, and imprisoned in quotations, or we would fortify our opinion by examples; but it is always delightful." — Utica Herald.

"This is one of the best American novels we have ever read. It is a tale of true, genuine Southern life before the rebellion had stepped in to mar that life, and to turn its pleasant hospitalities into vague remembrances. It is written with a vigorous pen that never flags till the last word is written and the last scene closed." — People, Concord.

The Widow Lerouge. By EMILE GABORIAU, author of "The Mystery of Orcival," "File No. 113," "The Clique of Gold," "Other People's Money," "Within an Inch of His Life." 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "A novel of much power." — Journal.

"We find only one author out of a dozen worth harvesting. In Gaboriau is an author whose works are appreciated for their originality and ingenuity." — Messenger.

The Mystery of Orcival. By EMILE GABORIAU, author of "The Widow Lerouge," "File No. 113," "The Clique of Gold," "Other People's Money," "Within an Inch of His Life." 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "Is receiving unqualified praise, and cannot fail to attract attention."—Mercury.

"Admirably written, each character finely drawn. It will be read with sorrow, with pleasure, and profit. Read it, and then we have no doubt you will add it to your collection of choice novels with as much pleasure as we do." — Lawrence American.

The Clique of Gold. Translated from the French of EMILE GABORIAU, author of "File No. 113," "Other People's Money," "Within an Inch of His Life," "The Widow Lerouge," "The Mystery of Orcival," &c. 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "It is strongly sensational, but the materials are managed with so strong a dramatic insight that one has not time or inclination to think of improbabilities. M. GABORIAU is without a peer in this particular style of story." — Boston Gazette.

"Gaboriau's novels increase in power as we become familiar with his style."—Trans'pt.

Other People's Money. From the French of EMILE GABORIAU, author of "File No. 113," "The Clique of Gold," "Within an Inch of His Life," "The Widow Lerouge." "The Mystery of Orcival." 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "Exciting throughout, the story appeals not to morbid, but refined tastes, and should be read widely, as its merit is sterling." — Traveller.

"French in style, it is free from the grosser improprieties which appear to be generally tolerated in the novel-writing of that country. -- Phil. Age.

Within an Inch of His Life. From the French of EMILE GABORIAU, author of "The Widow Lerouge," "The Mystery of Orcival," "File No. 113," "The Clique of Gold," "Other People's Money." Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "An exciting and entertaining novel, full of very dramatic incident and well-figured character-pictures, is GABORIAU's 'Within an Inch of His Life.'"—Com. Adv.

File No. 113. By EMILE GABORIAU, author of "The Clique of Gold," "Other People's Money," "Within an Inch of His Life," "The Widow Lerouge," "The Mystery of Orcival." 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "As good as Gaboriau's stories of French life and character uniformly are, we think this one surpasses all his former efforts." — Journal.

"'File No. 113' has created a sensation wherever it has appeared." — Critic.

Broken Chains. Translated by FRANCES A. SHAW, from the German of E. WERNER, author of "Good Luck," &c. 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "It has spirit and action, united with power and depth of feeling. The characters are well delineated and strongly drawn, and the plot is well constructed and carried out." — Transcript.

"The plot is highly interesting, and is well developed, while an art atmosphere pervades the work, that shows both refinement and æsthetic appreciation on the part of the writer. The style is strong and vigorous, and contains scenes of great power." — Gazette.

Good Luck. By the author of "Broken Chains." 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cents.

 "An attractive and fascinating volume, with highly dramatic characters, clearly drawn and well sustained throughout, and containing many pages of absorbing interest. The translation is graceful and natural, one of the happy kind that makes us forget that the story was first written in a foreign tongue." — Enquirer.

"I began to read the proof-sheets last evening, and was compelled by the interest of the story to read into the small hours." — L. C. M.

Not Easily Jealous. 1 vol. 8vo. Price, Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "Some English travellers, meeting in Switzerland, form intimacies which are destined to influence their whole future lives. The author of 'Not Easily Jealous' weaves around this nucleus a tissue of romantic adventure which will pleasantly beguile many leisure hours." — Transcript.

"This 'Not Easily Jealous' has some bright and sparkling characters in it. There is not much plot or incident in it; but the interest is well sustained, and it is written in such a taking sort of style as to make it very fascinating." — People.

Jocelyn's Mistake. By MRS. J. K. SPENDER, author of "Her Own Fault," "Brothers in Law," &c. 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "MRS. SPENDER'S English is unusually good, and she has learned the art of working her opinions on men and things into the web of her story, instead of merely interealating homilies. . . . The Jocelyn of the book is very skilfully drawn. . . . It rises in type and diction far above the ephemeral stories of the season." — Academy.

"We may safely say the perusal of this book can but be productive of good." — Messenger.

The Lost Despatch. Translated from the German of FRIEDRICH FRIEDRICH, by L. A. WILLIAMS. 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 50 cts.

 "Lovers of pen-pictures and florid writing will not find any of their favorite style. There is no padding, no burning sensation, no bigamy, nor divorce. But there is a well constructed story, well told, and also some finely-drawn characters. The interest, too, is well sustained. 'The Lost Despatch' will serve to pass a couple of hours pleasantly enough; and what is more to the purpose, in these days of filthy novels, it may be read by all without fear or hesitation." — N. Y. Globe.

Expiated. By the author of "Six Months Hence," and "Behind the Veil." 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "The author shows power of invention, felicity in the management of details, and a keen insight into the mysteries of life." — Boston Globe.

"Six Months Hence." By the author of "Behind the Veil," "Expiated." Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "This remarkably well written story comes to us characterized by a most skilful arrangement. 'Behind the Veil' gave promise of considerable ability in the field of design. 'Six Months Hence' has fully realized this promise." —Phil. Age.

"It is of absorbing interest; and whoever takes it up will not readily put it down till the last scene is enacted, and the curtain falls." — People, Concord.

Choisy. By James P. Story. 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "We recommend the book for a pleasant companion on listless August days. While shedding a tear of sympathy over the fate of Nina Choisy, its salutary lesson cannot fail to produce lasting results." — Transcript.

"It is full of interesting and thrilling incidents from beginning to end." — Press.

"It cannot be denied that 'Choisy' is very entertaining." — Liberal Christian.

"The literary merit of the novel is of the first order." — Courier.

"It is an artistic, scholarly production from beginning to end." — Phil. Age.

Elena: An Italian Tale. By L. N. Comyn, author of "Atherstone Priory," "Ellice," &c. 1 vol. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "'Elena,' in character and plot, is excellent." — Traveller, Boston.

"A thorough love-story." — Advertiser.

"An Italian story of great power and beauty; sure to live." — Leeds Mercury.

"The most elegant and interesting fiction of the season." — London Messenger.

"A very pleasing and touching story. It is sure to be read." — London Daily News.

Atherstone Priory. By L. N. Comyn, author of "Elena," "Ellice," &c. 1 vol. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "A quiet, charming English romance of real life. The scenes are life-like, and the story interesting. The heroine at once wins the sympathy of the reader, which deepens into admiration, and an intense interest in her fortunes and misfortunes."—Examiner.

"This is a pleasant story of English domestic life, which may be read with instruction and profit in every family. The spirit which it inculcates is that of the broadest Christianity, toleration, and charity. We do not know when we have read a novel which inspires a purer sentiment, or inculcates a more valuable lesson." — Press.

Ethel Mildmay's Follies. By the author of "Petites Romance." Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "A story which we do not hesitate to recommend." — Spectator.

"'A taste would be difficult to please which could not find amusement in following the fortunes of the actors developed in this story." — Transcript.

"The characters — a gay young party of cousins — act towards each other very much like real folks, and have their jealousies, love-makings, sports, and trials." — Herald.

Maud or Nina — Like Cures Like. By G. J. WHYTE-MELVILLE, author of "Katerfelto," Holmby House," "Digby Grand," &c., &c. 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "Two love stories of the approved order. Noble lords and ladies are mixed up in the plot." — Gazette.

"Sprightly and sensational." — Vox Populi.

"The most fastidious may read Maud and Nina." — Journal.

Nobody's Fortune. By EDMUND YATES, author of "Black Sheep," "The Yellow Flag." 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "The fact that Dickens was connected, even thus indirectly, with the work, will give it additional value in the estimation of most readers." — Cleveland Herald.

"The best of his productions." — Boston Post.

The Yellow Flag. By EDMUND YATES, author of "Nobody's Fortune," "Black Sheep." 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "The story is dramatic from opening to close, keeping the reader constantly attent, and each moment giving a gratification." — New Bedford Mercury.

Zelda's Fortune. By R. E. FRANCILLON, author of "Earl Dean," "Pearl and Emerald." 1 vol. 8vo. Illustrated: Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "The secret of 'Fortune' is well kept until the last chapter in the book." — Age.

"This book shows as much power as Bulwer's early novels did." — Springfield Rep.

"Chas. G. Leland and Louise Chandler Moulton speak of it in very flattering terms." Public.

"Zelda is so altogether unique a creation that she is outside of ordinary rules as applied to human conduct. Much of the charm of the book is in the novelty it furnishes in this direction. It is not difficult to believe that the author has made a close study of gypsy life. He has certainly painted it with power in the character of his heroine and one or two other personages of his story." — Boston Gazette.

The Wicked Woods of Tobereevil. By Miss MULHOLLAND, author of "Hester History." 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "A tale of Irish life, legend and humor, sketched with vivacity, and replete with racy incident, stirring adventures, and well-depicted feeling." — Inter-Ocean.

"Ababe cursed the race of Finiston. Their riches should yield them no pleasure; they should perish with cold, and be gnawed by hunger; their lands lie waste, and their home decay; their daughters should never live past childhood, &c." — L. C. M. in N. Y. Tribune.

The Foe in the Household. By CAROLINE CHESEBRO'. 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "It is purely domestic in its character, instructive in its moral teachings, and possesses a subtle interest more absorbing than that which attaches to the conventional style of modern romances." — Press.

"A story of intense dramatic interest, and is written with a force as well as a delicacy truly admirable." — Boston Post.

Can the Old Love. By ZADEL BARNES BUDDINGTON. 1 vol. 8vo. Illustrated. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "The most unique and original portion exhibits a married man of sixty-three years of age, who falls in love with the child of his friend, on her return from boarding-school." — Phil. Age.

"The prefatory remarks by the author are certainly beautiful, and comforting to the aged. Here they are: 'For those who know themselves to be travelling down the hill of life, it may be a consolation to remember that old hearts need not be cold ones. To remember that beyond the faltering step, and fading eye, and trembling hand, and gray hair fluttering in the evening wind, and the abrupt yawning of the inevitable grave, lies the fair, free Hereafter of eternal youth, wherein all souls shall find what life and light and love so fully mean." — Christ. Advocate, Nashville.

Ruth Maxwell. By Lady BLAKE, author of "Claude," "Lady of Lyndon." 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "This story is told with a quiet charm, and contains thoroughly good and pleasant reading." — Morning Post.

"It is a gracefully written story, full of interest, and distinguished by some capital character drawings. The tone is healthy, and the style bright and spirited. The heroine is a charming conception, and is developed with rare skill and effect. We can conscientiously recommend the book as one thoroughly pure in its morality, and peculiarly adapted to summer reading." — Globe.

Lady of Lyndon. By Lady BLAKE, author of "Claude," "Ruth Maxwell." 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "There is nothing sensational in its plot; the moral it inculcates is pure, healthy, and instructive, while its literary qualifications cannot be gainsaid." — N. Y. Albion.

"It is an English story, calm, cool, and staid, as if the writer had so studied the character of her ladyship, the leading personage, that her spirit is transferred into her very sentences." — N. Y. Christian Advocate.

Not Without Thorns. By ENNIS GRAHAM. 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "A story of English domestic life, very smoothly and gracefully written, with some character-drawing which is near lifting it into a higher range than most novels that we have from English authorship. The reader may count upon being interested; and the book is one which is worthy of being placed in every library of summer reading."

A Rose in June. By MRS. OLIPHANT, author of "Story of Valentine and his Brother," "Squire Arden," "For Love and Life," "Innocent." 1 vol. 8vo. Illustrated. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 50 cts.

 "In 'A Rose in June' MRS. OLIPHANT is at her very best again. The book is full of character, drawn with the most delicate of touches." — Athenæum.

"A pleasant novel, agreeably told. MRS. OLIPHANT is accomplished in her art; her knowledge of the instrument with which she has to deal, and of the audience for whom she plays upon it, was never more thoroughly exhibited than in her latest work, 'A Rose in June.'" — Observer.

"One of the sweetest, most charming, and most natural stories which that popular writer has given us." — Boston Journal.

Something To Do. 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 It contains many things of a very instructive character." — Boston Times.

"A story of to-day, picturing characters, scenes, incidents, and accidents of the passing hour. Its rapid movement, interesting and varied conversations, and graceful style, will make 'Something to Do' very popular with readers of the best modern fiction."

My Little Girl. By the author of "With Harp and Crown," "Ready-Money Mortiboy." 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75 cts.

 "With the exception of 'Middlemarch,' we cannot call to mind any novel published within the last two years which strikes one with the same sense of originality and power." — The Arcadian.

Over 100,000 Copies of this Work have been sold in French.

Guizot's Popular History of France. Translated by Robert Black. Sold only to Subscribers. Price 50 cts. per Part.

 This great work is now offered to the American public, and the Publishers, having spared no pains or expense in its reproduction, confidently believe that, as a specimen of book-making, it is unexcelled by any book made in America. By a special arrangement with the European publishers, we have secured electrotypes of all of the original wood-cuts, by the celebrated artist, A. de Neuville, thereby securing impressions of the same fully equal to the originals. These three hundred illustrations are pronounced by some of the best Art judges in the country to be the finest wood-cuts ever printed in America. Besides the above we shall add to the work Forty magnificent Steel Line Engravings, by celebrated artists.

Persons wanting a good and reliable History of France, need have no hesitation in subscribing for this, as it is the only one of a popular nature, and by a standard historian, to be had in the English language. The Publishers offer it confidently believing that it will supply a long-felt want. The world-wide reputation of Guizot is a sufficient recommendation to the work, and a guarantee of its being a thoroughly correct and an intensely interesting history.

Testimonials.

Boston, Nov. 20, 1873.

Gentlemen: M. Guizot's History of France should be read by all who are not indifferent to historical studies. To a most interesting subject he brings the experience of a statesman, the study of a professor, and the charm of an accomplished writer. I am glad you are to place this recent work within the reach of all American readers.

Faithfully yours, CHARLES SUMNER.

Everything from the pen of Guizot is remarkable for thoroughness of investigation and exact statement. WENDELL PHILLIPS.

The work supplies a want which has long been felt, and it ought to be in the hands of all students of history. We cannot doubt that it will meet with the same favorable reception in England which has already attended its publication in France. —London Times.

The name of Guizot is a sufficient guarantee for the historical value of whatever he writes. E. G. ROBINSON, Pres. Brown University.

I should be glad to see Guizot's History of France in every school.
JOHN D. PHILBRICK, Sup't Public Schools, Boston.

Charles Knight's Popular Shakspere. Pictorial Edition.

Illustrated with 340 Woodcuts, and 36 Full-Page Plates. By SIR JOHN GILBERT, A. R. A. Together with Illustrations on Steel, from pictures by C. W. COPE, R. A., W. P. FRITH, R. A., LESLIE, R. A., MACLISE, R. A., E. M. WARD, R. A., C. CLINT, A. R. A., H. S. MARKS, A. R. A., W. Q. ORCHARDSON, A. R. A., and others.

 The text adopted in the present edition is that recently revised by Mr. CHARLES KNIGHT, who, thirty years ago, issued the first number of his Pictorial Edition of Shakspere. As a "Labor of Love," the work grew under his hands, and on its completion, in England and America, it was universally admitted to be the best edition of the works of Shakspere, and one of the noblest contributions to the literature of the day. Thoroughly familiar with all that has been added to our knowledge of the poet's writings, Mr. Knight undertook a revision of his original work. By a collation of the early editions of the separate plays which are in various public and private collections he has been enabled to produce

THE MOST ACCURATE TEXT OF SHAKSPERE EXTANT.

The size of this edition, being two volumes Royal Octavo, will keep it within the range of the book-case, as well as render it a handsome addition to books for the drawing-room table, and it is believed to be the cheapest finely illustrated edition ever offered the public.

In addition to the carefully edited text, and beautiful illustrations, it will contain a full Glossarial Index, and reprinted from the last London edition, without alteration or abridgment, thus making it invaluable to the student, as well as an ornament to the library.

The work will be published in thirty-six serial parts, at 50 cts. each.

The Picturesque World; or, Scenes in Many Lands. Unsurpassed in interest and beauty of illustration by any work ever offered to the American public. It will be profusely illustrated with more than ONE HUNDRED STEEL ENGRAVINGS, and over Eight Hundred of the finest Specimens of Wood Engraving which have ever been produced in any country. These illustrations are from designs and paintings by the very best European and American artists, among whom may be mentioned the following: —

GUSTAVE DORE,	DE LA CHARLEVIE,	WEBER,
ALPH. DE NEUVILLE,	BROCKEDON,	WERNER,
LEOPOLD FLAMING,	BATTY,	HERTEL,
GIACOMELLI,	STRUTT,	GERMANN BOHN,
ANASTASI,	SIR CHAS. EASTLAKE, R.A.	J. M. HART,
FRANCAIS,	W. H. BARTLETT,	GRANVILLE PERKINS,
DAUBIGNY,	J. STARK, R. A.	J. D. WOODWARD,
FOULQUIER,	KAULBACH,	THOMAS MORAN,
LANCELOT,		GEORGE L. BROWN, and others of equal merit and distinction. It will be prepared under the editorship of LEO DE COLANGE, LL. D., Editor Zell's Popular Encyclopædia and Dictionary, &c.

The work will be published in forty to forty-eight serial parts, at 50 cents each.

The Globe Encyclopædia of Universal Information. Edited by JOHN M. ROSS, LL. D., Senior Master of English Literature, High School of Edinburgh; formerly Assistant Editor of "Chambers' Encyclopædia;" with a numerous and able Staff of Contributors.

 (1.) The Globe Encyclopædia will contain articles on a greater number and variety of subjects than any previous work of the same character.

(2.) Though these articles will, in general, be very condensed, every particular essential to a proper understanding of the subject will be given; and where space is absolutely required, the new Encyclopædia will be as complete in treatment as much larger works.

(3.) In all the more important departments of knowledge, the Globe Encyclopædia will not only furnish the results of the most exact and solid research, but it will also seek to carry out more thoroughly than any of its predecessors the practice of referring to the best authorities on the subjects discussed or described.

(4.) The meaning of names of places, &c., always interesting and often suggestive, will be given with a fulness, and, it is believed, with an accuracy, not hitherto attempted.

(5.) Special attention will be bestowed upon the language, literature, and history of the English Nation, its Colonies and Dependencies.

(6.) The most recent statistics regarding the population, agriculture, commerce, and social condition of foreign countries, will be given, so that The Globe Encyclopædia, as the latest work of the kind, will necessarily prove of the most useful.

(7.) The articles in the scientific departments — e. g., Medicine, Chemistry, Natural History, and Botany — will be in accordance with the best and latest teaching on these subjects.

Illustrated. 1 vol. 8vo. Cloth (subscription), $3.50.

FABRE, FERDINAND.

The Abbe Tigrane; or, Who Shall be Pope? A Tale of Ambition. Translated from the French by Rev. Leonard Woolsey Bacon. 12mo. Cloth, $1.50.

"It is a vigorous narrative, to which the true lover of story reading, tired of the sentimental novels that are filling our bookshelves, will turn with increasing interest. It contains not a line of love and conventional romance, but mingles the opposite passions of hate, anger and ambition, which are its controlling forces. It pictures men in their mutual struggles for power, and has hardly a mention of women. So true to nature is the tale, that the reader's admiration is frequently changing from one character to another, but so well has the author mastered his plot that one's sympathies at the close of the story are nearly where they were placed at the beginning."—Boston Morning Star.

GOODWIN, REV. T. A., A.M.

The Mode of Man's Immortality; Or, The When, Where and How of the Future Life. 1 vol. 12mo. $1.25.

"Certainly shows with great force the well-nigh insuperable difficulties attending the common opinions of the resurrection of the actual body that is placed in the dust, and develops quite a consistent and interesting theory in reference to the nature of the resurrection life."—Zion's Herald.

GRAY, ROBERTSON (R. W. RAYMOND).

Brave Hearts. A Novel. 1 vol. 12mo. Illustrated. Cloth, $1.75.

Illustrations by Darley, Stephens, Frank Beard, and Kendrick.

"About as pure, breezy, and withal, readable a story of American life as we have met with this long time."—Congregationalist.

"Its pictures of the strange life of those early California days are simply admirable, quite as good as anything Bret Harte has written."—Lit. World.

GREENWOOD, GRACE.

New Life in New Lands. Notes of Travel Across the American Continent, from Chicago to the Pacific and Back. 1 vol. 12mo. $2.

"Among the best of the author's productions, and every way delightful."—Boston Post.

"Grace always finds lots of things no one else would see; and she has a happy knack of picking up the mountains and cities and big trees and tossing them across the continent right before the reader's eyes. It's very convenient."—Buffalo Express.

Heads and Tails. Studies and Stories of Pets. Square 16mo. Illustrated. Extra Cloth, Beveled Boards, Elaborate Gilt and Ink-Stamped Sides, Gilt Edges, $2.

"Grace Greenwood is gifted with a special knack at story-telling for young folks, and Heads and Tails, with its stories of pet birds, cats, etc., is a delightful book."—Chicago Advance.

"We don't know where there is pleasanter reading than in these stories of pets."—Boston Commonwealth.

HALLIDAY, REV. S. B.

Winning Souls. Sketches and Incidents during Forty Years of Pastoral Work. 1 vol. 12mo. Cloth, $1.

"Full of valuable suggestions to ministers in the department of active duty."—Methodist Recorder. "The book is tenderly written, and many of its pathetic scenes will be read with moistened eyes. We commend the book to pastors and people."—Boston Christian Era.

"Commissioner Raymond's energy and thoroughness, and his rare intelligence and intimate acquaintance with the subject of mining and metallurgy have been widely acknowledged."—Phila. Enquirer.

The Man in the Moon and Other People. Square 16mo. Illustrated. Extra Cloth, beveled boards, handsome gilt and ink stamped sides, gilt edges, $2.

"The characteristics of Mr. Raymond's style are simplicity, artistic brevity, and a successful method of attracting without underrating the intelligence of his little readers. His tales have won great popularity by their wit, delicate fancy, and admirable good sense."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Brave Hearts. [See Robertson Gray.]

STARR, GEORGE O.

The "Forest and Stream" Handbook for Riflemen. Giving Forms for Organization of Rifle Associations, By-Laws, Rules for Practice and Competition, Practical Hints concerning Ranges, Targets, Scoring, Rifles, Shooting, etc.; and a List of Rifle Associations in America. VERDI, T. S., M.D.

Maternity: A popular Treatise for Wives and Mothers. Fifth edition. 1 vol. 12mo. $2.25.

A monitor to young wives, a guide to young mothers, and an assistant to the family physician. It deals skillfully, sensibly and delicately with the perplexities of married life, treating of the needs, dangers, and alleviations of the duties of maternity, and giving extended, detailed instructions for the care and medical treatment of infants and children.

"The book merits an extensive circulation."—U.S. Medical and Surgical Journal (Chicago).

"There are few intelligent mothers who will not be benefited by reading and keeping by them for frequent counsel a volume so rich in valuable suggestions. With its tables, prescriptions, and indexes at the end, this book ought to do much good."—Hearth and Home.

Mothers and Daughters. Plain and Practical Studies for the Health of Girls, based upon the Physiology and Hygienic Requirements of Woman. 1 vol. 12mo. $1.50. Ready in September.

A book for the guidance of parents and instructors of girls, or for the information of young women, treating of the inner structure, functions, perils and safeguards of physical womanhood.

"Dr. Verdi is a well-known and highly-esteemed physician of the Homœopathic school, practicing in Washington City. He is also a gentleman of general culture and intelligence."—Philadelphia Age.

"The writer who meets with even moderate success in such treatment is entitled to considerable praise, while he who shows himself thoroughly master both of subject and treatment, as does Dr. Verdi, deserves the warmest and heartiest of commendation."—Detroit Free Press.

A MANUAL OF ENGLISH LITERATURE, Historical and Critical: With an Appendix on English Metres. By THOMAS ARNOLD, M. A., of University College, Oxford. American Edition. Revised. 12mo. Cloth. 549 pages $1.60 $2.00

This manual presents in a small compass an accurate and interesting view of English literature. It is divided into two sections. The first of these, treating of the history of the subject, gives a complete list of the various English authors and their works, from the earliest times down to the year 1850. This is no dull, dry record, which shall be a burden to the memory; the author has added references to foreign literature and such explanations and anecdotes as serve to enlighten the reader about the different writers and to give him a fair comprehension of the merits and characteristics of their different works. This is done more by careful accounts of the various books composing English literature than by making long, disconnected quotations, or by the mere heaping together of more or less appropriate adjectives. The different threads into which the subject naturally divides itself are all kept distinctly apart, and the comments, though brief, are apt. In the record, or critical part, the author's fuller remarks and illustrations serve to supplement the occasional brevity of the first part. A great merit of the book is that it treats English literature as a connected whole; another, that the meagre list of facts is made palatable by discreet elucidation, which nowhere assumes to take the place of original study, but rather tends to lead the student on to independent work. It will be found useful by beginners, and even advanced scholars will not disdain a book that is so full of useful and accurate information. The subject is a vast one, but no department of it has been neglected by Mr. Arnold. The appendix on Metres will be found to be of value. In short, this is a scholarly volume.

FITZ'S TERRESTRIAL GLOBE. Mounted and Operated by an entirely new Method, with a Manual designed to accompany the Globe, the whole forming an easy and practical introduction to the study of Astronomy and Physical Geography . . . . . $ 15.00

The Globe is six inches in diameter, and is mounted in an ingenious and original way, for which patents have been taken out in this and in foreign countries. The Globe, as mounted, makes such phenomena as the seasons, the changes in the length of day and night, etc., etc., at once clear to the apprehension of an ordinary child. For the usual verbal explanations which overtask the untrained imagination, it substitutes material surfaces and lines and real motions, and thus aids the mind of the learner in the highest possible degree in forming correct and lasting impressions of phenomena which, however interesting, are in the abstract not easily understood.

FITZ'S MANUAL. 12mo 80 1.00

The Manual which accompanies the above Globe contains every direction for its use, with an explanation of the subjects which it is specially designed to illustrate, such as the changes in the length of day and night, the seasons, twilight, etc.

A collection of more than forty problems is also given, with full directions for working them, and numerous practical exercises to be worked out by the learner on the Globe. Questions for examination and miscellaneous exercises are added at the end. 12mo.

HUDSON'S TEXT-BOOK OF POETRY. From WORDSWORTH, COLERIDGE, BURNS, BEATTIE, GOLDSMITH, and THOMSON. With Sketches of the Author's Lives. For use in Schools and Classes. By the REV. H. N. HUDSON. 12mo. Cloth. 704 pages 1.60 2.00

The aim of this work is, to do something towards an early setting and forming of right intellectual and literary tastes; so that the pupil's mind on leaving school may be attempered to the reading of good books. And it proceeds upon the principle that the right way to do this is by making the student thoroughly at home with a few standard authors instead of dispersing him over a multitude of brief selections, where he cannot stay with any one author long enough to find his virtue or feel his power. Two thirds of the volume is filled with Wordsworth; who has now made good his position as one of the five great chiefs of English poetry, and whose works embody, in the highest form, whatever is noblest and best in the English poetical literature of the last hundred years. The whole of The Excursion, the first two books of the Prelude, Michael, The Brothers, Tintern Abbey, Lasdamia, On the Power of Sound, Ode on Immortality, and a large number of smaller pieces are included. The selections from Coleridge are The Ancient Mariner, Christabel, Fears in Solitude, and eighteen other pieces. From Burns, The Cotter's Saturday Night, The Twa Dogs, Tam O'Shanter, The Vision, and twenty-six other poems, and also twenty-nine of the songs. From Beattie, The Minstrel; from Goldsmith, The Deserted Village; and from Thomson, The Castle of Indolence: these being generally regarded as the best poems of those authors. In all cases, except a few pieces of Wordsworth's, the poems are given entire, as the authors wrote them.

HUDSON'S TEXT-BOOK OF PROSE. From BURKE, WEBSTER, and BACON. With Notes and Sketches of the Author's Lives. By the REV. H. N. HUDSON. 12mo. Cloth. 648 pages 1 60 2.00

This work is intended as a sort of companion volume to the preceding. It is made up on the same general principle, the contents being selected with a view to unite, as far as may be, the culture of high and pure literary tastes with the attainment of liberal and useful knowledge. The selections from Burke are Letter to the Sheriffs of Bristol, Speech on Economical Reform, Speech to the Electors of Bristol, and A Letter to a Noble Lord, all given entire; also twenty-nine other pieces gathered, as seemed best, from the author's various works. From Webster, Speech in Reply to Hayne, Speech on the Presidential Protest, and discourse on The Character of Washington; also thirty-two shorter pieces from other speeches. From Bacon thirty of the fifty-eight Essays, all given entire, and several choice selections from Advancement of Learning.

HARVARD EXAMINATION PAPERS. Collected and arranged by R. F. LEIGHTON, A. M., Master of Melrose High School. Second Edition, containing papers of June and September, 1874. 12mo. Cloth. 248 pages 1.25 1.56

These are all the questions (except on the subject of Geometry), in the form of papers, which have been used in the examinations for admission to Harvard College since 1860. They will furnish an excellent series of Questions in Modern, Physical, and Ancient Geography; Grecian and Roman History; Arithmetic and Algebra; Plane and Solid Geometry; Logarithms and Trigonometry; Latin and Greek Grammar and Composition; Physics and Mechanics. They have been published in this form for the convenience of Teachers, classes in High Schools, and especially for pupils preparing for college.

OUR WORLD, No. I.; or, First Lessons in Geography. Revised edition, with new Maps, by MARY L. HALL. Small quarto. 119 pages .75 .94

Designed to give children clear and lasting impressions of the different countries and inhabitants of the earth rather than to tax the memory with mere names and details.

OUR WORLD, No. II.; or, Second Series of Lessons in Geography. By MARY L. HALL. With fine illustrations of the various countries, the inhabitants and their occupations, and two distinct series of Maps, 5 pages physical, and 19 pages of finely engraved copperplates political. Quarto. 181 pages 1.60 2.00

This book is intended, if used in connection with the First Lessons, to cover the usual course of geographical study. It is based upon the principle that it is more useful to give vivid conceptions of the physical features and political associations of different regions than to make pupils familiar with long lists of places and a great array of statistics.

OUTLINES OF THE ART OF EXPRESSION. By J. H. GILMORE, Professor of Logic, Rhetoric, and English in the University of Rochester. 12mo. Cloth. pp. 1.00 1.25

This little book was not manufactured to meet a demand, though it is believed that a demand for such a work has long existed. It grew, in the author's classroom, out of an attempt to remedy the defective training in English of students who were, in other respects, qualified to pursue to advantage a college course. With a cursory survey of English Grammar (from the logical and historical point of view) it combines brief practical suggestions with reference to Composition and Rhetoric, together with examples for criticism and topics for practice in the construction of sentences.

The book was privately printed, for the use of the author's classes, a year ago, and is given to the public, at the request of many teachers, in the hope that it may be useful to college professors who desire some brief, but comprehensive manual of English on which to condition candidates for admission to college. The lack of such a manual has compelled many a college professor either to give instruction, during the Freshman year, which should devolve on the preliminary training school, or to approach his proper work in Rhetoric and English at a very great disadvantage.

The attention of teachers of rhetoric in our colleges — and also in our academies and high schools — is especially called to the work as likely to meet a felt necessity. They will find it intensely direct and practical; yet resting, it is hoped, upon a sound theoretical basis which will facilitate the work of further and more systematic instruction.

While Professor Gilmore's ART OF EXPRESSION has this special adaptation, the publishers believe that it cannot wisely be overlooked wherever, for any reason, an intelligent review of English Grammar is desired.

SEARLE'S OUTLINES OF ASTRONOMY. By ARTHUR SEARLE, of Harvard College Observatory. 16mo. Cloth. 433 pages . 1.60 2.00

This work is intended to give such elementary instruction in the principal branches of Astronomy as is required in High Schools or by any students not far advanced in mathematics. It is illustrated by carefully prepared engravings, and contains some information on each of the following subjects: —

1. The chief results of astronomical inquiry up to the present time with regard to the general constitution of the universe, and, in particular, with regard to the stars, planets, nebulæ, comets, and meteors.
2. The methods of astronomical research, and their application to the arts.
3. The general principles of theoretical astronomy.
4. The history of astronomy.
5. Astronomical statistics.

GOODWIN'S GREEK GRAMMAR. By WILLIAM W. GOODWIN, Ph. D., Eliot Professor of Greek Literature in Harvard University. 12mo. Half morocco. 262 pages $1.25 $1.56

The object of this Grammar is to state general principles clearly and distinctly, with special regard to those who are preparing for college. In the sections on the Moods are stated, for the first time in an elementary form, the principles which are elaborated in detail in the author's "Syntax of the Greek Moods and Tenses."

GREEK MOODS AND TENSES. The Sixth Edition. By WILLIAM W. GOODWIN, Eliot Professor of Greek Literature in Harvard University. 1 vol. 12mo. Cloth. 264 pages 1.40 1.75

This work was first published in 1860, and it appeared in a new form — much enlarged and in great part rewritten — in 1865. In the present edition the whole has been again revised; some sections and notes have been rewritten, and a few notes have been added. The object of the work is to give a plain statement of the principles which govern the construction of the Greek Moods and Tenses, — the most important and the most difficult part of Greek Syntax.

GOODWIN'S GREEK READER. Consisting of Extracts from Xenophon, Plato, Herodotus, and Thucydides; being a full equivalent for the seven books of the Anabasis, now required for admission at Harvard. With Maps, Notes, References to GOODWIN'S GREEK GRAMMAR, and parallel References to CROSBY'S and HADLEY'S GRAMMARS. Edited by PROFESSOR W. W. GOODWIN, of Harvard College, and J. H. ALLEN, Cambridge. 12mo. Half morocco. 340 pages 1.60 2.00

This book contains the third and fourth books of the Anabasis (entire), the greater part of the second book of the Hellenica, and the first chapter of the Memorabilia, of Xenophon; the last part of the Apology, and the beginning and end of the Phaedo, of Plato; selections from the sixth, seventh, and eighth books of Herodotus, and from the fourth book of Thucydides.

LEIGHTON'S GREEK LESSONS. Prepared to accompany Goodwin's Greek Grammar. By R. F. LEIGHTON, Master of Melrose High School. 12mo. Half morocco. 264 pages 1.25 1.56

This work contains about one hundred lessons, with a progressive series of exercises (both Greek and English), mainly selected from the first book of Xenophon's Anabasis. The exercises on the Moods are sufficient, it is believed, to develop the general principles as stated in the Grammar. The text of four chapters of the Anabasis is given entire, with notes and references. Full vocabularies accompany the book.

We have made arrangements with Messrs. Macmillan & Co. to publish in this country their new edition of Liddell & Scott's Greek Lexicons, and are ready to supply the trade.

The English editions of Liddell & Scott are not stereotyped; but each has been thoroughly revised, enlarged, and printed anew. The sixth edition, published in 1869, is larger by one eighth than the fifth, and contains 1,865 pages. It is an entirely different work from the first edition, the whole department of etymology having been rewritten in the light of modern investigations, and the forms of the irregular verbs being given in greater detail by the aid of Veitch's Catalogue. No student of Greek can afford to dispense with this invaluable Lexicon, the price of which is now for the first time brought within the means of the great body of American scholars.

PLATO'S APOLOGY OF SOCRATES AND CRITO. Edited, for the Use of Schools, by JOHN WILLIAMS WHITE, A. M.

The basis of this work will be the German edition of Dr. Christian Cron. (Platons Vertheidigungsrede des Sokrates und Kriton. Sechste Auflage. Leipzig, Teubner, 1875.) To the matter contained in Dr. Cron's edition there will be added notes by the Editor and from other sources, analyses, and extended references to Goodwin and Hadley. The book will be for the class-room, and all matter not of direct value to the student will be rigidly excluded.

WHITE'S FIRST LESSONS IN GREEK. Prepared to accompany Goodwin's Greek Grammar, and designed as an Introduction to his Greek Reader. By JOHN WILLIAMS WHITE, A. M., Tutor in Greek in Harvard College. 12mo. Half morocco 1.20 1.50

A series of eighty lessons with progressive Greek-English and English-Greek exercises. Followed by selected passages from the first two books of Xenophon's Anabasis, and vocabularies.

WHITON'S SELECT ORATIONS OF LYSIAS. Comprising the Defence of Mantitheus, the Oration against Eratosthenes, the Reply to "The Overthrow of the Democracy," and the Areopagitic Oration concerning the Sacred Olive-Trunk. Edited by JAMES MORRIS WHITON, Ph. D. 12mo. 151 pages 1.20 1.50

These orations illustrate a period of peculiar interest in Athenian history, and its main incidents and characters have received special attention in the Introductions and Notes. Students who have not at hand the larger works of reference will here find in condensed form all that is essential for the illustration of the text. A peculiar feature of the work is its compendious treatment in topical notes of those points of the Athenian constitution which are touched upon in the orations. Each oration is accompanied with a complete logical Analysis. The grammatical notes deal almost wholly with the syntax, — as befits a work of this grade, — and have been prepared with a special aim to elucidate the usage of the verb. References are made, for the most part, to Goodwin's Greek Moods and Tenses, and Goodwin's and Hadley's Grammars.

While this edition is designed for use in Colleges, yet the style of Lysias, on account both of its purity and simplicity, is such that the advanced classes in Academies will find these orations within their capacity, while also finding the subject-matter quite as attractive as in the authors hitherto more familiar. The quantity of Greek text is about fifty pages, containing about the same amount of reading-matter as the first book of Xenophon's Anabasis.

ALLEN & GREENOUGH'S LATIN GRAMMAR: a Latin Grammar for schools and colleges, founded on Comparative Grammar. 12mo. Half morocco. 290 pages (including supplementary Outlines of Syntax, with new and greatly enlarged Index) $1.25 $1.56

The features of this grammar to which we invite attention, are: 1. The scientific form of statement in the Etymology, corresponding to the most advanced views of comparative philologists; 2. The comparison with kindred languages suggested throughout, especially in numerous brief philological notes, and in references to the syntax of Goodwin's Greek Grammar; 3. Grouping and subordination of topics in the Syntax,—which contains nearly 200 cross-references, with upwards of 1,000 citations from classic authors,—so that unusual brevity is attained without sacrifice of completeness.

ALLEN & GREENOUGH'S LATIN METHOD: a Method of Instruction in Latin; being a companion and guide in the study of Latin Grammar. With elementary instruction in Reading at Sight, Exercises in Translation and Writing, Notes, and Vocabularies; also "Outlines of Syntax," taken from the Latin Grammar. To the new edition a series of Parallel Exercises have been added, with enlarged Vocabulary, giving very full practice on the forms contained in the Lessons, and on the Constructions of Syntax as grouped in the later portion of the book; making, in all, a volume of about 175 pages. 12mo. Cloth 1.00 1.25

ALLEN & GREENOUGH'S LATIN COMPOSITION: an Elementary Guide to Writing in Latin. Part I. Constructions of Syntax; Part II. Exercises in Translation. 12mo. Cloth 1.20 1.50

Part First (which is published separately) consists of thirty progressive Lessons, with full instructions, exercises, and vocabulary; and is designed "to furnish a sufficient amount of study and practice in Latin composition during the last year of preparation for college, or the first of a college course." Part Second consists of about forty exercises in translation, chiefly narrative, adapted to the use of advanced or college classes; with annotated references to the Lessons of Part I., and to the sections of a special Introduction on the Choice of Words, the Form of the Sentence, and Idiomatic Usages. Making, in all, a volume of about 200 pages.

ALLEN & GREENOUGH'S CÆSAR: Cæsar's Gallic War: Four Books. With Historical Introduction, Notes, and a Copperplate Map of Gaul. [With or without a full Vocabulary by R. F. PENNELL, of Phillips Exeter Academy.] 12mo. 154 pages.

Without Vocabulary 1.00 1.25
With " 1.20 1.50

The text of this edition is that of Nipperdey, important variations being noticed. The notes are unusually full in historical illustration, derived largely from Mommsen, Long, Merivale, the "History of Julius Cæsar" by Napoleon III., and the excellent school edition of Moberly. In the earlier portions they are especially designed to guide in a systematic and careful study of Latin syntax.

ALLEN & GREENOUGH'S CICERO: Select Orations of Cicero, chronologically arranged, covering the entire period of his public life. From the text of Baiter and Kayser. With Life, general and special Introductions, and Index of topics discussed. 12mo. Half morocco. 394 pages . 1.40 1.75
The text without notes 80 1.00

It is the design of this edition to give a full view of Cicero's public career, as orator and statesman, extending through about forty of the most eventful years of the later Republic. With this view, the selection includes the earliest and the latest of his public orations, while the special Introductions cover very fully the intervening political history. Besides the orations more commonly read in schools, are given the Roscius and Sestius (abridged), with the first against Verres and the last

Especial care has been taken in the department of Antiquities, which has been treated in numerous notes (in smaller type), some of them — as that on the Roman Aristocracy — being brief essays on the several topics.

The Introduction contains a classified list of all the works of Cicero, with the occasions and topics of all of his orations.

ALLEN & GREENOUGH'S CATO MAJOR: Cicero De Senectute, a Dialogue on Old Age. With Introduction (on the adoption in Rome of the Greek philosophy) aud Notes. 12mo. Cloth. 57 pages $ 0.60 $ 0.75

ALLEN & GREENOUGH'S OVID: Selections from the Poems of Ovid, chiefly the Metamorphoses. With special Introductions, Notes, and Index of Proper Names. 12mo. Half morocco. 283 pages . . 1.20 1.50

The introductions to the passages from the Metamorphoses (23 in number) give the entire argument of the poem, that of omitted portions bracketed. The other selections include those of special interest as illustrating the poet's life; and a list is given of all his writings, with their topics and occasions. The Notes contain brief instructions on scanning at sight.

ALLEN & GREENOUGH'S VIRGIL: The Poems of Virgil; Vol. I. containing the Pastoral Poems (Bucolics) and Six Books of the Æneid. Chiefly from the text of Ribbeck, with select various Readings, Introductions, Notes, and Index of Plants (compiled chiefly from Fée's Flore de Virgile, contained in Lemaire's "Bibliotheca Classica Latina"). 12mo. Half morocco. 372 pages 1.40 1.75

The Notes of this edition (which are brief and very numerous) are particularly indebted to Conington, and are designed "to give not only what may serve the learner in the bare understanding of the text; but, along with it, some hint of that wealth of traditional interpretation which is more important, perhaps, in the study of Virgil than in that of any other ancient poet."

The following are published in single volumes: —

ALLEN & GREENOUGH'S Course No. I. A Full Preparatory Course of Latin Prose; consisting of Four Books of Cæsar's Gallic War, Sallust's Conspiracy of Catiline, Eight Orations of Cicero, and DE SENECTUTE (Cato Major). 12mo. Half morocco. 582 pages 2.00 2.50

ALLEN & GREENOUGH'S Course No. II. Second Preparatory Course of Latin Prose; containing Four Books of Cæsar's Gallic War, and Eight Orations of Cicero. With Vocabulary by R. F. PENNELL. 12mo. Half morocco. 518 pages 2.00 2.50

N. B. Course No. I. is identical with the First Course prescribed for admission to Harvard College. Course No. II. includes the usual amount required at other colleges.

ALLEN'S LATIN GRAMMAR: Manual Latin Grammar. With Tables of Inflection, and Supplement on the Method of teaching Latin, the Principles of Inflection and Classification, and on some Peculiar Constructions. 12mo. Cloth. 182 pages 1.00 1.25

Approved by Harvard College as indicating the amount required for admission.

ALLEN'S LATIN LESSONS. Prepared to accompany the Manual Grammar, and designed especially to furnish a direct and rapid introduction to the study of Cæsar. Consisting of sixty Lessons, with the narrative of the Helvetian War from the First Book of Cæsar, and exercises in Prosody. 12mo. Cloth. 146 pages 1.00 1.25

Wholesale. Retail.

ALLEN'S LATIN READER: Consisting of Selections from Cæsar (the invasion of Britain and account of the Gallic and German populations), Curtius (Anecdotes of Alexander), Nepos (Life of Hannibal), Sallust (Jugurtha, abridged), Ovid, Virgil, Plautus, and Terence (single scenes), Cicero and Pliny (Letters), and Tacitus (the Conflagration of Rome). With Notes and a General Vocabulary. The Notes have been adapted to Allen & Greenough's Grammar. 12mo. Half morocco. 532 pages . . . . . $ 2.00 $ 2.50

ALLEN'S LATIN SELECTIONS. The same as the above, without Vocabulary. 12mo. Half morocco. 326 pages 1.25 1.56

ALLEN'S LATIN COMPOSITION. An Introduction to Latin Composition. (By W. F. Allen.) New edition, adapted to Allen & Greenough's Grammar. 12mo. Cloth. 118 pages 1.00 1.25

This book includes a careful review of the principles of Syntax (beginning with Indirect Discourse), with exercises in various styles of composition selected from classical authors. Also short exercises for oral practice.

ALLEN'S SHORTER COURSE OF LATIN PROSE. Consisting chiefly of the Prose Selections of Allen's Latin Reader (to p. 134), the Notes being wholly rewritten, enlarged, and adapted to Allen & Greenough's Grammar; accompanied by Six Orations of Cicero, — the Manilian, the four Catilines, and Archias. With Vocabulary. 12mo. Half morocco. 543 pages 2.00 2.50

ALLEN'S LATIN PRIMER. A First Book of Latin for Boys and Girls. (By J. H. Allen.) 12mo. Cloth. 182 pages . . 1.00 1.25

This is designed for the use of scholars of a younger class, and consists of thirty Lessons arranged so as to give a full outline of the grammar, with brief Rules of Syntax, Tables of Inflection, and interlined exercises for practice in reading, compiled from Historiæ Sacræ. The reading selections which follow include Dialogues from Corderius and Erasmus (with translation), narratives, nursery songs, mediæval hymns, etc., being made up in great part from modern Latin writers.

ALLEN'S LATIN LEXICON: a General Vocabulary of Latin, with Supplementary Tables of Dates, Antiquities, etc. By J. H. Allen. 12mo. Cloth. 214 pages 1.00 1.25

This little dictionary contains "about 15,000 words of common use, besides more than 1,300 proper names or adjectives, and about 200 dates (exclusive of the Tables), covering the more important points of classical history and mythology." It is believed to be complete for the entire introductory course of Latin authors, including Ovid and Virgil.

LEIGHTON'S LATIN LESSONS. Prepared to accompany Allen & Greenough's Latin Grammar. By R. F. Leighton, former Master of Melrose High School. 12mo. Half morocco. 332 pages 1.25 1.56

This work presents a progressive series of exercises (both Latin and English) in about eighty Lessons, illustrating the grammatical forms and the simpler principles of syntax. Synonymes and Rules of Quantity are introduced from the first. The amount of illustrative matter in exercises for reading and writing or oral practice is very large, including portions of Viri Romæ, and Woodford's Epitome of the First Book of Cæsar. Full Vocabularies (prepared by R. F. Pennell) accompany the book, with questions for examination and review of the grammar.

MADVIG'S LATIN GRAMMAR. Carefully revised by Thomas A. Thacher, Yale College. 12mo. Half morocco. 517 pages . 2.40 3.00

A book of the very highest authority in Latin Syntax, and admirably adapted to the wants of Teachers and College Classes.

WHITE'S JUNIOR STUDENT'S LATIN-ENGLISH AND ENGLISH-LATIN LEXICON. By the Rev. J. T. White, D. D., of C. C. C. Oxford, Rector of St. Martin, Ludgate, London. Revised Edition. Square 12mo. 1058 pages. Sheep	3.60	4.50

"The present work aims at furnishing in both its parts a sufficiently extensive vocabulary for all practical purposes. The Latin words and phrases are in all cases followed by the name of some standard Latin writer, as a guaranty of their authority; and as the work is of a strictly elementary character, the conjugation of the verbs and the genders and genitive cases of the substantives are uniformly added. In the preparation of this portion of the book, Dr. White has had the assistance of some of the best scholars both of Oxford and Cambridge." — Guardian.

WHITE'S JUNIOR STUDENT'S ENGLISH-LATIN LEXICON. Square 12mo. Sheep. 392 pages	2.00	2.50

We have contracted with Messrs. Longmans, Green, & Co., of London, for the sole agency in this country for the above Latin Lexicons, and shall endeavor to meet the demands of the trade.

ANDERSON—AMERICA NOT DISCOVERED BY COLUMBUS.—A Historical Sketch of the Discovery of America by the Norsemen in the 10th century. By PROF. R. B. ANDERSON, of the University of Wisconsin, with an Appendix on the Historical, Literary and Scientific value of the Scandinavian Languages.....$1.00

"A valuable addition to American history. * * * The book is full of surprising statements, and will be read with something like wonderment."—Notes and Queries, London.

ANDERSON—NORSE MYTHOLOGY; or, The Religion of our Forefathers. Containing all the Myths of the Eddas carefully systematized and interpreted, with an Introduction, Vocabulary and Index. By R. B. ANDERSON, A. M., Prof. of Scandinavian Languages, in the University of Wisconsin. Second Edition, Crown 8vo, cloth.....$2.50. | Cloth gilt edges.....$3.00. | Half calf.....$5.00

"Professor Anderson is an enthusiastic as well as able scholar; and he imparts his enthusiasm to his readers. His volume is deeply interesting as well as in a high degree instructive. No such account of the old Scandinavian Mythology has hitherto been given in the English language. It is full and elucidates the subject in all points of view. It contains abundant illustrations in literal and poetic translations from the Eddas and Sagas. . . Professor Anderson's interpretations of the myths throw new light upon them, and are valuable additions (as is the whole work) to the history of religion and of literature. . . It deserves to be welcomed, not only as most creditable to American scholarship, but also as an indication of the literary enterprise which is surely growing up in our North western States."—The Presbyterian Quarterly and Princeton Review.

BLISS—THREE MONTHS IN THE ORIENT. — By O. J. BLISS. Cloth,...$1.25

"We have not for a long time fallen in with a volume of the kind which is a better companion for a Sunday afternoon."—Evening Post, New York.

BURRIS—THE TRINITY.—By REV. F. H. BURRIS. With an Introduction by Joseph Haven, D.D., LL.D. 12mo, cloth. Price.....$1.50

"It is a real and valuable discussion of what has been accounted a fundamental point in theology, and the introduction by Dr. Haven is by far the best presentation, in brief, of the history of this doctrine of the Trinity that we have anywhere met—intelligent, impartial and lucid."—The Morning Star.

CONE—TWO YEARS IN CALIFORNIA.—By M. CONE. With 15 fine Illustrations, a map of California, and a plan of the Yosemite Valley, 12mo, Cloth...$1.75 A thoroughly reliable book for tourists and settlers.

"There is no work of our acquaintance, which presents in better form the advantages and disadvantages of California as a place of settlement. . . . We find it throughout a trustworthy and charmingly written account of a land which holds in its lap possibilities scarcely equaled by any other state in the Union. The volume contains a fine map and many beautiful illustrations."—The Inter-Ocean.

FOSTER—PRE-HISTORIC RACES OF THE UNITED STATES.—By J. W. FOSTER, LL D. 415 pages, crown 8vo, Illustrated, THIRD EDITION. Cloth..$3.50 Half calf binding, gilt top.....$6.00 | Full calf, gilt edges.....$7.50

"One of the best and clearest accounts we have seen of those grand monuments of a forgotten race."—London Saturday Review.

"Those of us who have been wont to look upon these mysterious works (the mounds) as upon the Egyptian Sphynx, as eternal problems, filling the space in unbroken silence, will be surprised and delighted with the revelations with which these pages abound, of the antiquity, design and purposes of the vanished races of vanished centuries."—Portland Transcript.

JONES—THE MYTH OF STONE IDOL.—A Love Legend of Dakota. By WM. P. JONES, A. M., late President of the Northwestern Female College, Evanston, Ills. 1 vol., small quarto, cloth, handsomely bound.....$1.25

"We read it through, beguiled by its melodious lines and the pathos of its simple tale. . . . Its descriptions are fine pictures. . . . The poem is worthy of the handsome form in which it is published."—Zion's Herald, Boston.

LIGHT—SHIPPERS' DIRECTORY FOR THE NORTH-WEST.—By COL. AUSTIN LIGHT.....$4.00

Gives the Shipping Directions by Railroad and Express to about 13,000 towns, making it the most complete Directory of the kind that has ever been issued. It also contains a list of the National Banks and Private Bankers in the North-West.

LIE—THE PILOT AND HIS WIFE.—A Norse Love Story. By JONAS LIE. Translated by Mrs. OLE BULL. 1 vol., 12mo, cloth, with frontispiece.....$1.50

"This author has conquered for himself a name in the very foremost rank of Scandinavian literature; he is a novelist of very marked genius. . . . Salve Kristiansen, the hero, is a very fascinating figure and the intense realism of his character, with each succeeding chapter, takes a more powerful hold upon our sympathy. . . . The delightful story of Salve's courtship of the fair Elisabeth, lies less in the complication of the plot than in the pleasing freshness and earnestness with which it is treated. There are vivid scenes of sailor life, stirring adventures in Brazil and on board the American brig "Stars and Stripes," and quaint bits of genre painting of domestic life in Norway. . . . The wife Elizabeth is a very beautiful piece of literary workmanship, and, what is more, she is an original and essentially poetic conception. . . . The Pilot and his Wife is certainly a very valuable addition to Scandinavian literature."—North American Review.

MATHEWS—WORDS; THEIR USE AND ABUSE.—By WM. MATHEWS, LL.D., author of "Getting On in the World," and "The Great Conversers." 1 vol., 12mo, cloth.....$2.00 | Cloth, gilt edges.....$2.50

"Mr. Mathews's book will well repay reading, and the student cannot rise from its study without having gained a large quantity of exceedingly useful and necessary information."—Boston Gazette.

"In beauty of page and print, there is nothing to surpass it east or west. This rising publishing house is remarkable for the uniform excellence of their work. . . . Perhaps the next impression will be a sense of the intense interest which carries the reader along. There is hardly a dry page in the book. Every page sparkles with literary gems."—The Interior.

"The volume will scarcely be opened, before the reader will find himself as interested as if he were following the windings of a carefully constructed tale. We are sure the book is to have a large demand, and will accomplish great good. It is full of suggestions that linger in the mind and produce permanent good results."—N. W. Christian Advocate.

MATHEWS—GETTING ON IN THE WORLD; or, Hints on Success in Life.—By WILLIAM MATHEWS, LL. D.

TWENTY-SIXTH THOUSAND.

Price, 1 vol., 12mo, Cloth	$2.00	Half calf binding, gilt top	$3.50
The same, gilt edges	2.50	Full calf, gilt edges	5.00

"Every page contains a wealth of valuable information, and is brimful of vivid biographical illustrations that cannot fail to interest the refined and cultured of any age."—New York Home Journal.

" 'The Twentieth Thousand now ready' speaks volumes in this day of fictitious fiction, for a book full of 'sound soundness' and 'sensible sense.' The writer's style is easy and charming, clear and pointed, sparkling with humorous anecdotes. It has the stimulation of a novel, at the same time instructive, judicious and practical. It deals with life as it has been, as it is, and as it ever will be. On whatever page the eye rests, the mind becomes quickened and dignified by the richness and grandeur of his illustrations."—American Christian Review.

MATHEWS—THE GREAT CONVERSERS, and Other Essays.—By WM. MATHEWS, LL. D., Author of "Words; Their Use and Abuse," "Getting On in the World." SIXTH EDITION. 1 volume, 12 mo, 306 pages with Map,.....$1.75

"It is very rarely that so fascinating a work is published, and one of such permanent use to every reader of intelligence. There is not one of the essays which can fail to convey pleasure and profit . . . But indeed, throughout 'The Great Conversers,' the surprising industry of the author is as apparent as his real genius in composition. The person who has read it cannot be otherwise than conscious of the great gain which Professor Mathews's admirable book has brought to him."—Illustrated Weekly, N. Y.

MISHAPS OF MR. EZEKIEL PELTER.—Illustrated. THIRD EDITION.....$1.50

"So ludicrous are the vicissitudes of the much-abused Ezekiel, and so much of human nature and everyday life intermingle, that it will be read with a hearty zest for its morals, while the humor is irresistible. If you want to laugh at something new, a regular side splitter, get this book."—The Evangelist, St. Louis.

PHELPS—DRAMATIC STORIES for Home and School Entertainment.—By LAVINIA H. PHELPS. 12mo., cloth.....$1.00

"They are easy of representation; the incidents are healthful, the language strong and pure, and the general design advantageous alike to actor and listener.—Boston Commonwealth.

ROBERT—RULES OF ORDER, for Deliberative Assemblies.—By MAJOR HENRY M. ROBERT, Corps of Engineers, U. S. A. SEVENTH THOUSAND. Pocket size. Cloth..... .75

"I shall be very glad to see your Manual brought into general use, as I am sure it must be, when its great merit and utility become generally known."—Hon. T. M. Cooley, LL. D., Dean of the Law Faculty, University of Michigan, author of "Cooley's Blackstone," etc.

"After carefully examining it and comparing it with several other books having the same object in view, I am free to say that it is, by far, the best of all. The 'Table of Rules' is worth the cost of the work."—Thomas Bowman, D. D., Bishop of Baltimore M. E. Conference.

"This capital little manual will be found exceedingly useful by all who are concerned in the organization or management of societies of various kinds. . . . If we mistake not, the book will displace all its predecessors, as an authority on parliamentary usages."—New York World.

SMITH—PATMOS; or, The Kingdom and the Patience.—By J. A. SMITH, D. D., Editor of the Standard, Square 16mo, cloth.....$1.25

"To earnest seekers for higher spiritual attainments the author has rendered a service at once great and beautiful. Originality of thought, beauty and purity of expression and graphic delineations, are among its marked features."—National Baptist, Philadelphia.

TAYLOR—IN CAMP AND FIELD.—By BENJ. F. TAYLOR. 12mo, cloth $1.50

"Who can describe anything so well as Benj. F. Taylor? Who else can make such pictures with the pen, and find such color and perspective in simple English words? His art is wonderful."—Buffalo Courier.

"Each of these sketches is a gem in itself. One may search the annals of war from Tacitus to Kinglake, and not find anything finer."—Inter-Ocean.

TAYLOR—OLD-TIME PICTURES AND SHEAVES OF RHYME.—By BENJAMIN F. TAYLOR. Red Line Edition, Illustrated, Small Quarto, Silk Cloth. FOURTH EDITION. Price, $2.00. The same, full gilt edges and side...$2.50

"It gives me pleasure to see the poems of B. F. Taylor issued by your house in a form worthy of their merit. * * I do not know of any one who so well reproduces the home scenes of long ago."—John G. Whittier.

TAYLOR—THE WORLD ON WHEELS and Other Sketches.—By BENJ. F. TAYLOR. TENTH EDITION. Illustrated. 1 vol., 12mo, Price.....$1.50

"A delightful book."—Boston Globe. "A gem in every way."—St. Louis Dispatch. "Full of capital hits and a rollicking humor."—New York Graphic. "An excellent traveler's companion for the sauntering season."—Boston Commonwealth. "Full of humor and sharp as a Damascus blade."—Presbyterian, Philadelphia. "One of the most elegant as well as pungent and rich specimens of wit and humor, extant."—New York Illustrated Weekly.

TAYLOR—SONGS OF YESTERDAY.—By BENJ. F. TAYLOR. An elegant holiday volume. Beautifully Illustrated with numerous designs by Miss Hallock and Messrs. Beale, Bolles, Darley, Eytinge, Moran and Sheppard. Octavo, with handsomely ornamented cover in black and gold. Full gilt edges, $4.00; Morocco, $8.00.

"We enjoy Longfellow, Whittier, Bryant, and Holmes in all their noble, pure, sweet utterances, but Mr. Taylor gets a bit closer to the tender memories of the heart—life, and somehow stirs the fountains of our soul, so that a tear bubbles up—we know not why or how,—and we brush it away only to find it chased by another. The true poet alone has the power over man's spiritual forces to make them yield to his will, and we must crown our author with the laurel of 'The Home Laureate of America' . . . The paper, press-work, style of dress, in fact, the whole work of this magnificent volume, shows that the West is fully up with the East in its outer embellishments of books."—New England Journal of Education, Boston.

"The volume is magnificently gotten up, and in binding, paper and illustration compares favorably with anything Eastern publishers can show. Nor is the art of the printer and binder the only valuable thing about the book; that simply appeals to the eye; the contents appeal to the heart. * * * "Whittier truly says of the author, 'I do not know of any one who so well reproduces the home scenes of long ago.' There is a simplicity, a tenderness and a pathos, intermingled always with a quiet humor, about his writings which is inexpressibly charming. Some of his earlier poems have become classic, and many of those in the present volume are destined to as wide a popularity as Longfellow's 'Village Blacksmith,' or Whittier's 'Maud Muller.' Of these are 'Mary Butler's Ride,' 'Going to Spelling School,' and the 'Psalm Book in the Garret.' What is there in the range of American poetry more beautiful than the concluding stanzas of the latter?"—Boston Transcript.

WALKER—PHILOSOPHY OF THE PLAN OF SALVATION.—By J. B. WALKER, D.D., with an Introductory Essay by Calvin E. Stowe, D.D. A new edition, with supplementary chapter by the author. 67th Thousand, 12mo., cloth, $1.50

"It is a work of extraordinary power. * * We think it more likely to lodge an impression in the human conscience, in favor of the divine authority of Christianity, than any work of the modern press."—London Evangelical Magazine, England.

WALKER—THE DOCTRINE OF THE HOLY SPIRIT; or, Philosophy of the Divine Operation in the Redemption of Man, being volume second of "Philosophy of the Plan of Salvation."—By REV. JAMES B. WALKER, D.D. FOURTH EDITION, Revised and Enlarged. 12mo., Cloth, Price.....$1.50

"Our library contains several treatises on the work of the Spirit by various authors, but none of them are so clear, simple, scriptural and comprehensive as this by Dr. Walker. . . . It is not intended for theologians only or especially, but for all who wish to be well informed on religious subjects."—Christian at Work, N. Y.

TEXT BOOKS.

BUCKINGHAM—ELEMENTS OF THE DIFFERENTIAL AND INTEGRAL CALCULUS; by a New Method, founded on the True System of Sir Isaac Newton, without the use of Infinitesimals or Limits. By C. P. BUCKINGHAM, formerly Assistant Professor in the U. S. Military Academy, West Point, and Professor of Mathematics, Kenyon College. 12mo, cloth, 343 pages. Price.....$2.00

"Based upon mathematical truth—does not ask us to ignore errors because they are small, rejects the infinitesimals of Leibnitz, and rests upon the Fluxions of Newton. Its propositions must command the unqualified assent of the learner, which can hardly be said of the infinitesimal method."—J. R. French, LL. D., Prof. of Mathematics, Syracuse University.

BACON—A MANUAL OF GESTURE.—With 100 Figures, embracing a complete System of Notation, with the Principles of Interpretation and Selections for Practice. By PROF. A. M. BACON. SECOND EDITION. 12mo, cloth.....$1.75

"Your Manual is so thoroughly practical, and so carefully condensed, that it must be an invaluable aid to every faithful student of true eloquence. No one who consults your Compend for his personal guidance, can form a false or inappropriate style of action, whether as regards popular or professional oratory, and the study which receives the union of true art and the grace of cultivated nature."—From the late Prof. William Russell, the eminent Elocutionist of New England.
